Senate Approves Governor For Two Four Year Terms

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes won a resounding victory in the Missouri Senate Wednesday.

By a surprising 26-5 vote, the Senate approved the governor's proposed constitutional change to allow a governor to serve two successive four-year terms.

The measure now goes on the ballot for the voters to decide, either at the 1966 general election or a special election before then.

The Senate's action came only a few hours after Hearnes had conceded at least temporary defeat in his battle with Treasurer M. E. Morris to get new depositories for the state's interest-free demand deposits.

The governor said he accepted Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson's ruling that Morris could not be forced by legal action to submit a new list of banks. Any change will have to come from legislative action or a constitutional amendment, the governor concluded.

The lopsided Senate vote came after the Senate had defeated three proposed amendments, including one to let a governor serve as long as he could keep getting elected.

Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, the majority floor leader, headed the opposition to changing the constitution. He made it clear he was not criticizing Hearnes but said he feared the proposal would open the door to machine rule in Missouri and one man domination of the state government.

Several of the governor's aides were in the gallery during the debate and Hearnes himself had been in the Senate corridors earlier.

It was obvious from the outset that the way had been well prepared for the proposal — the same as in the House, where it whisked through with a minimum of opposition.

One senator said he had been buttonholed by more of his constituents on the governorship succession issue than on any other problem before the legislature.

On the question of the bank depositories, Hearnes indicated he had not decided what his next step would be. He said he would study the problem and perhaps recommend to the special legislative session next year whether to tackle it through legislation or a constitutional change.

He said some change is needed to correct "this long continued favoritism to the disadvantage of many other qualified Missouri banks."

"These banks will continue to profit as long as this situation exists," he said, "through existing contracts made before I became governor."

The state treasurer presented the same list of state depositories as his predecessor — the Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City, which Hearnes has tagged as the power center of the so-called Democratic Establishment, Mercantile Trust of St. Louis and Commerce Trust of Kansas City.

Hearnes said during 249 banking days last year, Central Trust had an average of more than $23 million a day in interest free deposits.

One Felony New Madrid Magistrate Court Session

NEW MADRID: Only one felony was heard, but a wide variety of offenses crowded the docket of the New Madrid County Magistrate Court this week as Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville presided.

Leon Burell, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, waived his preliminary hearing in the court and was ordered held for trial in the Circuit Court with his bond set at $500.

Four persons were fined and sentenced on charges arising out of use of intoxicants. Henry Rex Griffin paid $120, was sentenced to serve six months in jail, and had his driver's license revoked for one year as a result of a charge of driving while intoxicated. Danny Bennett paid $75 for supplying beer to minors. Bennett was also sentenced to serve 30 days in jail, then placed on probation for one year. Possession of intoxicating beer brought a fine of $121, total, to Ervin Cliff and David Kindred. Each was also sentenced to serve six months in jail, then placed on probation for six months.

Other lesser charges were: Herman Wilson, petit larceny, $25, 30 days in jail and six months probation; Wallace Carden, disturbing the peace, $16; Sylvester Johnson, improper registration of a motor vehicle and unlicensed operator, $16; and Frank E. Hunsperger, public drunk, $25. Fifteen truckers were fined for exceeding legal load limits. Mailing Mackine Company paid $105 for an overage of 1600 pounds, and Home Oil Company paid $100 for an overload of 1550 pounds. All others paid amounts less than $100.

Other offenses were: improper registration of a motor vehicle — Frankie Joe Coffee and Murray Lane Ready Mix, $11 each, Homer Green, $15; excess speed — Donald R. Willingham, $20; vehicle overwidth — Bert McWaters, $11; careless and imprudent driving — Boyd Matthews, $15, Edward Rudd Crebs, $25; vehicle overlength — Utley Lumber Company, Thunderbird Boats, Roy Carter, Inc., James M. Franklin, Tractor Transports, Inc., (two counts); American Box Company, Bill Hunter, James T. Brandl, and Diamond Transit Company, $15 each; no operator's license — Elmer W. Book and T. W. Graham, $15 each.

Young Democrats Elect Officers

The Young Democratic Club of Scott County met last night at the Rustic Rock Inn. The principal item of business for the meeting was the election of officers for the new year. Elected were: Bill Lewis, president; John Sides, vice - president; Fielding Potashnick, secretary; and Pete Malone, treasurer.

Another important item of business taken up was plans for representation of the county at the State Young Democratic Convention which will be held June 4-5 at Columbia. President Lewis will attend as the official Scott County representative, accompanied by delegates John D. Hux, Jr., Daniel Norton, C.D. Matthews IV, John Sides, Charles Blanton III, Bill Scarbrough, and possibly other members of the organization.

Anyone interested in joining the Young Democrats should contact any of the officers for information. The next meeting will be announced at a later date.

"Daddy" Gives Total of 1,323

C. E. "Daddy" Felker and his Mrs. have announced that they have given a total of 1,323 Dog-Wood and Red Bud Trees to individuals and organizations throughout the City of Sikeston.

Out of the fine group of trees given away, a total of 446 trees was donated to the churches of the City. "Daddy" announces that there are churches that are yet to get their trees, but he expects to reach all of them by this coming November as well as the Sikeston Schools and City Parks.

Trees out of the total number of 1,323 that were given to individuals ran up to a number of 843 trees. The American Legion received 12 trees, the Knights of Columbus got 12, the V. F. W. 6 and the Masonic Lodge received 4.

Some three years ago Mr. Felker planted Dog-Wood Trees at the City Administration office, Masonic Lodge and the First Assembly of God Church, all of which bloomed this spring.

If "Daddy" keeps this up, Sikeston will truly be a City of blooming trees if each person that has received these trees will take special care. Incidentally, "Daddy" warns that these trees require a huge amount of water in order to keep alive.

Bankruptcy Filed Against Plez Lewis Co.

St. Joseph Lead Company has filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy today against Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., contracting firm of St. Clair, Mo., and Crestwood.

Last Tuesday, May 4, the Internal Revenue Service filed Federal Tax Liens of $236,799 against Arthur Lewis and Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., according to the St. Louis Globe Democrat of St. Louis, Mo.

The Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., firm were the contractors that built the Holiday Inn here in Sikeston. It is not known if they presently own the Inn.

The St. Joseph Lead Company has charged that the Lewis Firm owes it $544,434 in overments for work on a mine near Bunker in Reynolds County.

Kelly Closing Exercises Begin With Awards

BENTON -- The closing activities at the Thomas W. Kelly High School will include Awards night, Tuesday, May 18; Baccalaureate Service Sunday, May 23; and Commencement Thursday, May 27th. Each of these events will start at 8:00 p.m.

This is the first time that a special night has been set for the distribution of all awards. Formerly the Athletic, Music, Attendance, and certain other awards and letters were presented at a student assembly with other awards and scholarships presented as a part of the Commencement program. The Awards Night has been added this year to enable a greater number of parents to share in the honor accorded students. Entertainment will be furnished by the band, Girls Glee Club, and the Clarinet Quartet.

The Reverend James J. Holmes of the St. Dennis Church of Benton will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon.

Dr. Jack D. Vincent, professor of Education at Southeast Missouri State College, will be the principal speaker at the Commencement exercises for the class of sixty-four seniors.

Crumley To Head Student Council

LILBOURN--James Crumley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Crumley of Marston and a junior at Lilbourn High School, earlier this week was elected president of the school's Student Council for the 1965-66 school year.

Young Crumley was chosen from a field of three in an all-school election.

Crumley is active in chorus, band, FFA, and has been a participant in Student Council affairs since its formation two years ago. He is an accomplished actor and is a featured soloist in most school musical programs.

Other officers elected were Paula Warner, vice-president, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner of Lilbourn; Paulette Crumley, secretary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Crumley of Marston (the president-elect's sister); and Brad Blankenship, treasurer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Blankenship of Lilbourn Route.

Curtis Gross Honored For Lengthy Service

LILBOURN --Curtis Cross, sixth grade teacher in the Lilbourn Elementary system, was honored Tuesday night for his twenty years of service to the R-IV School District at the Seventh Annual Recognition Dinner held in the local school cafeteria.

Cross, along with six others, was recognized and received a service pin from the district.

Mrs. Kenneth Bell, junior high English teacher, and Mrs. Leroy Nunn, fourth grade teacher, received ten year pins.

Three bus drivers were honored. Bill Sherril was awarded a fifteen year pin, and George Lewis and Leo Kettles each received ten year pins. All three drivers were cited for their years of transporting students without an accident.

Joe Haubold of Marston, was given a ten year pin for his years of service as a member of the Board of Directors of the district.

The program concluded with remarks on the changes in education by Max Timmons, superintendent, who acted as master of ceremonies. In his remarks Timmons cited the great changes that have taken place in the nations schools within the past twenty - five years, and he predicted that the next ten would see even more sweeping and revolutionary changes as the schools move to meet the challenge of the changing world.

Masonic Barbeque, Fish Fry Has Working Crew Of 200

Phil Waldman, Jr.
General Chairman

In what may well prove the largest chicken barbeque and fish fry ever held in Sikeston, will take place on Thursday, May 20, with the Square and Compas Club as sponsors. This 12th annual event has shown an increased ticket sale over previous years, according to Phil Waldman, Jr., general chairman.

The giant feed will be held at the Masonic building on South Kingshighway, with tables placed in the basement as well as on the back lawn, with enough room to serve up to 400 persons at a single serving. Serving will be held from 4:30 to 9 p.m.

More than 1,000 fryers will be placed on the special constructed barbeque racks during the afternoon, while a separate fish stand will have on hand over 650 pounds of fresh fish. Along with the barbeque and fish will be hundreds of pounds of side dishes, as well as homemade pies and drinks.

The huge task of preparation, serving, supplies, tickets, clean-up committees, will find a total of 156 men as well as members of the Eastern Star and Job's Daughters on the kitchen and table committees. The 27-committee assignment has the following serving as chairmen:

Phil Waldman, Jr., general chairman; cooks and chicken, John McMullin; reception and chicken, O. D. Clayton; cooks and fish, Pete Medley and Gene Johnson; coffee, Hudson McIntire; ice cream, Earl Cook; kitchen, Eastern Star and Job's Daughters; ticket sale, Paul H. Slinkerd; publicity, C. L. Blanton III, table waiting, Keith Bess; cold drinks, Leonard Overby; tables in tent area, Lynn Ingram; procurement, Ernest Wilson and Charles Stearnes; decorations, C. E. Feker; onions, C. E. Felker; cleanup, Rolla Warren; tent cleanup, Leonard Colley; door food sales, Leslie Rister; hauling tables, Robert Boyer; set up tables, J. Birch Moll; cleaning fish fryer, John Marshall; pit shelter, lighting, Harry Hambrick, Jr.; grounds clean-up, Frank Ferrell; refuse carry-out, Wayne Clayton; setup tables, W. J. Keith; take out box dinners, M. S. Gwinn.

EMERGENCIES

Five persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

Vernon Travis, Sikeston, a piece of steel hit him in the eye.

Bonnie Stone, Sikeston, fell out of swing injuring back.

Leon Wiseman, Blytheville, Ark., stuck a splinter in his little finger.

Clyde Osteen, Matthews, pinned between bus and truck.

Accident-Free Day

For the first time in many weeks, drivers in the 14-county Troop E area, came up with a perfect driving record over a 24-hour period. There was not a single collision or injury, other than a trailer catching fire from a tire that had gone flat.

The trailer caught fire and was destroyed at 1 a.m. today, a half-mile north of Wayne county line on Highway 67. It was a 1964 GMC tractor-trailer, driven by Carroll Hathaway, 31, Poplar Bluff.

Board Of Education Approves Raise For Sikeston Teachers

Sikeston's Board of Education held a meeting this week and it was disclosed that a salary revision has been made for teachers and this results in their getting from $100 to $300 increase for each teacher.

Also it was learned what openings have developed in the faculty as this school year closes. There are two openings for counselors, two art teachers, a general science teacher and possibly a football coach in the senior high school.

Superintendent, Lynn Twitty, has received a new four year pact with the Sikeston School system.

The building that previously housed the Post Office is going to be available for use next week and the plans are that the building will be the central storage facility and be used also as a vocational annex with offices and classrooms included. However, it will take some remodeling for the building to be used as a storage place.

The Area Trade and Technical school is rapidly being completed and the plans are that it will reach completion by September 1.

$100,000 Theft

ST. LOUIS AP -- Thieves have taken about $100,000 in negotiable stocks and bonds from a St. Louis County manufacturer's apartment, suburban Clayton police said Wednesday.

The bonds were taken from the home of Martin L. Brand. Brand and his wife were traveling in Japan when the burglary was discovered last Saturday.

They returned Wednesday and gave police a list of what was taken. The loss included five fur coats and several coins in addition to the stocks and bonds.

Gov. Vetoes Bill To Establish Branch Collectors In Cape

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has vetoed his first bill.

It would have authorized the Cape Girardeau County Collector to set up an office at Cape Girardeau at county expense in addition to his office in the county seat of Jackson.

The governor said the new office would enable the collector to earn an extra $26,000 a year and since he already makes around $19,000, Hearnes said that would be "excessive and unfair to the taxpayers of Cape Girardeau County."

Parade For Clean Up Week May 21

It has been announced by the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce that they will sponsor their annual "Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up" parade, Friday, May 21. It will be held on West North Street and will feature the Freshman Marching Band of the Sikeston Junior High School under the direction of Mr. Edward Carson.

The following week, May 24 through May 28, will be "Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up week."

All citizens of the City are urged to participate in the week dedicated to the beautifying of Sikeston.

City trucks will pick up refuge or trash in Wards 1, 2, 3, and 4 on these days: Monday-Ward 1; Tuesday-Ward 2; Wednesday-Ward 3; and Thursday and Friday-Ward 4.

Heavy Contact In Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heavy contact with a Viet Cong battalion developed today near the Mekong River delta town of Bac Lieu.

Latest reports said 16 South Vietnamese soldiers and one American had been wounded. Sixteen Viet Cong were reported killed and 10 Communist weapons captured.

A U.S. spokesman said government forces were pinned down for an hour by heavy fire, but air strikes neutralized the Viet Cong positions.

About 30 Viet Cong dressed in Vietnamese marine uniforms staged a daylight attack on a textile plant five miles from Saigon, killing five persons and wounding four.

The guerrillas walked up to a Vietnamese marine guarding the plant at Thu Duc, 100 yards off the main Saigon-Bien Hoa highway. They entered the gate, then opened fire, killing five regional-force soldiers. The plant was attacked two months ago.

A U.S. Marine on guard duty at Da Nang Air Base was wounded in the thigh by a 13-inch long arrow, presumably fired by a Viet Cong hill tribesman. Helicopters often return from missions in the central highlands area with arrows handing from their fuselage.

No air raids on North Viet Nam were reported today.

The Saigon government charged today that Viet Cong forces from inside Cambodian territory attacked a Vietnamese village with mortars Wednesday. Four civilians were reported killed, 14 wounded and five houses set afire.

Sporadic military action continued today around Song Be, the provincial capital 74 miles north of Saigon. Sniper fire sliced into government positions inside the town early today.

A military spokesman reported another 20 Viet Cong and 15 government soldiers were killed in fighting around the town.

The casualties occurred in a clash Wednesday about a mile east of Song Be. Thirteen South Vietnamese soldiers and two U.S. Army advisers were wounded.

With these casualties, South Vietnamese forces had 57 killed and 91 wounded during two days of fighting at Song Be. A total of 95 Viet Cong bodies have been counted, but a U.S. officer estimated more than 300 were killed and from 300 to 700 injured by U.S. air strikes.

Five U.S. Army advisers were killed and 13 wounded during the Communist attack on the town Tuesday.

Aircraft dropped flares over the area when the Communists began firing early today. But the Reds managed to avoid further contact with the South Vietnamese troops.

A Viet Cong force estimated at more than 2,000 attacked the provincial capital on Tuesday. They overran Song Be's defenses and held the town for seven hours until U.S. planes and Vietnamese ground reinforcements drove them out.

A military spokesman said a search-and-clear patrol was launched Wednesday in an area across a river, east of Song Be.

14(b) -- WHY IT MUST BE SAVED

The Right to Work principle is one of the most important questions facing the American people. Yet, ironically, it remains one of the least understood. We would therefore like to present, in a factual nutshell, the true picture as to just what Right to Work is and what it means to America.

First, let us clear up one widely spread misconception. The Right to Work is morally right. The right to a worker to choose for himself, to work on terms acceptable to himself should be a fundamental right of our free American citizenship.

Second, no citizen should be forced to join or pay money to any private organization in order to get or hold a job. No private organization except unions has or seeks compulsory membership. When, for example, state legislatures act to require membership in a bar association (resulting in the so-called intergrated bar) they are making the bar association an arm of the state government and not a private organization.

Third, the repeal of 14(b), which now guarantees the Right to Work in 19 of our states, would mean the loss of another freedom. Many people believe that no civil right is more important than the right of free choice. The Portland Oregon Oregonian said recently: "We see little difference in the area of human rights between denying a person employment because of color, religion, race or sex and denying a person employment because he will not join a union."

Fourth, the one effective control on the political and financial abuses practiced on the rank and file workers by so many labor bosses is voluntary union memberships -- the Right to Work. When a person is forced to join, forced to pay dues, then what effective checkrein is there on a union officer? What effective means does the captive worker have of keeping his union bosses on the straight and narrow? The answer is none.

Fifth, the American people are in favor of voluntary union membership. National polls by Opinion Research, Lou Harris, etc., show that two out of three Americans believe that a man should not have to belong to a union to hold a job. This disapproves the propaganda line that a few "fat cats" back Right to Work for their own selfish interests. It proves, rather, that the chief Right to Work supporters are millions and millions of individual Americans in all walks of life -- including union members themselves.

The Right to Work position has not and cannot be refuted on a logical, intellectual honest basis. That is because the Right to Work is a basic American right. It is a worker's right, a state right and an individual right. To deny this right would be to humble the very essence of our liberty.

STRAIGHT FROM THE OLD CRANKCASE

The House Ways and Means Committee begins executive hearings on Monday (May 17) on prospective exercise tax reduction. Public hearings were held last year.

ON THE EVE of renewed House Ways and Means Committee hearings on excise taxes, hard facts are elusive. Indications are that the administration now wants something smaller than the $1.75 billion estimated slash after the Johnson-Dillon conference in Texas last November. Indications are that once the can of eels is opened, Congress will want a great deal more. For example, a repeal of the 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax on new passenger cars now being urged by the industry would just about double President Johnson's proposed reduction.

The deadline for action is July 1. Some excise taxes will be repealed and others will be reduced. At any rate, the jockeying will be infinite, and the infighting instructive. Take what might be called the Crankcase Caper.

THE PETROLEUM RE-REFINING INDUSTRY literally makes its living from crankcase wastes. It collects waste oil from service stations and renders it reusable by refining it again. This industry produced 400 million quarts of reprocessed lubricating oil last year.

Oil never wears out. It either burns or gets dirty. So crankcase drainings, "laundered", are sold to railroads, bus and truck lines, airlines, and the U. S. Air Force. Marine and industrial oils also are produced. There are about 68 of these small re-refiners.

The Association of Petroleum Re-refiners, the industry trade organization, claims that this reworked oil is as good as or better than oils produced from virgin crude. But automobile owners, from habit or the influence of advertising, overhwlemingly stick with the standard brands. Big users see the advantage of even a 6¢ a gallon differential.

And this small industry is able to exist because it is exempted from the 6¢ per gallon tax levied on ordinary lubricating oil. This is paid on the new oil and is reflected in the price the motorist pays at the service station. So far as the government is concerned, the revenues are insignificant -- $77 million to $80 million a year.

The trade association argues that if the tax on new lubricating oil comes off, many re-refiners will go out of business and the remainder will have to charge for picking up the black crankcase slime from service stations. The consumer probably will get no price relief, and the service station will pass along to him the pickup charge.

THE INDUSTRY has another arrow to its bow. Waste oil is one of the most dangerous potential pollutants of both land and water. Re-refining, the argument goes, keeps from our waters, sewage plants, and incinerators today an increasing supply -- say, 600 million quarts a year -- of crankcase drainings.

Without re-refining, this oil could only be burned -- raising a smog problem -- or shipped far out to sea. So the industry claims it is actually performing a service.

There is no disposition here to comment on the merits of the argument. There does seem to be something disingenuous about re-refiners arguing that the tax should be kept on new lubricating oil because without it they, the re-refiners, would go out of business and they, the re-refiners, conserve that valuable natural resource, oil. The only thing as inevitable as death and taxes is controversy over the latter.

HEAVEN AND HELL

When a man and wife died, one went to Heaven and the other to Hell. One day the wife, who was in heaven, called her husband on the phone.

"How do you like it down there?" she asked

"Fine," he replied, "all we have to do is wear a red suit with horns and every now and then shovel some coal on the fire. We don't work more than an hour a day. How is it up there?"

"We have to get up at four each morning and gather in the stars," she said. "Then we have to get in the moon and hang out the sun. Then we have to roll up the clouds. We work 18 hours a day.

"How come you work so hard?" he asked.

"Well, to tell the truth," she replied. "We're short handed up here."

SECOND CLASS STATES?

There are signs that Congress is beginning to stir out of the hypnosis inflicted upon it by the President at the last joint session when he demanded votes for all Americans who know their names and addresses - in certain states.

It is time at least for some of our statesmen to register shock over a bill that proposes to remove Constitutional authority for the conduct of elections in six states and not in 44 others, substituting the guidance of Federal gauleiters!

But if those who say there's no time for a Constitutional amendment, and that we must have a voting bill quick to forestall violence and disorder have their way - God help America!

Silas, a self-made, illiterate millionaire, decided to thwart his ne'er-do-well son by leaving all his money to a small local college. But the son, banking on Silas' strait-laced attitude toward sex, wasn't ready to be counted out.

"Father," he said to the old man one day, "I hope you are aware that at that college -- the one you've willed your money to -- the boys and girls matriculate together."

Silas' eyebrows shot up and the son pressed his advantage. "Not only that," he said, "but both boys and girls use the same curriculum."

With that the old codger's face darkened and his son leaned forward to whisper, "But worst of all, Father, before a girl can graduate she has to show her thesis to the dean."

"That settles it!" roared Silas. "That infernal school won't get a penny from me."

So he left all his money to Harvard.

Two little girls were pushing their doll buggies along the street. A fatherly man stopped them and said, "May I see your babies?" One little girl pulled the cover down and there lay a beautiful doll. The man said, "My, my! That's a beautiful baby. How much did it cost?"

The little girl replied, "It cost $7.50, sir."

He turned to the other little girl and again said, "May I see your baby?" She pulled down the cover and said, "There she is." The man exclaimed, "My, my! She is beautiful. How much did she cost?" "I didn't have much money," said the second little girl. "She just cost $4.50."

At that moment a woman pushing a baby buggy came along. She stopped and the man asked, "May we see your baby?" The woman pulled down the cover. The man said, "What a beautiful baby!" One little girl said, "How much did he cost?" The woman replied, "He cost $225.00." The little girl turned to the other and said, "She sure got screwed on that deal, didn't she?"

"Good afternoon," she murmured softly, "and what is your desire?"

"My desire," he said, after giving her a long, appreciative look, "is to sweep you into my arms, rush you out of the store and up to my apartment, mix a pitcher of martinis, put on some soft music, and make made, passionate love to you. But what I need is a pair of socks."

HOA PHAT, Sout Viet Nam AP--It was the proudest day of his life for 11-year-old Nguyen Duc Tan. In a simple and moving ceremony not far from the Da Nang battlefront, the U. S. Marines honored the slender boy for being the top student in his class at the village Buddhist school here.

The scene was the thronged schoolyard in front of a colorful Buddhist temple. Black robed monks set out tiny cups of tea. On a screechy public address system, a prominent local man made the customary graduation speech.

The high point of the ceremony came after Nguyen Duc Tan had read his valedictory address in an earnest, high-pitched voice. He stood at rigid attention in his blue shirt and shorts as Lt. Col. Jim Williams of Coronado, Calif., read the boy a letter of commendation on his scholarship from the commanding U. S. Marine general.

Williams then gave him a pen and pencil set and told him, "keep up the good work, son."

Nguyen Duc Tan seemed almost suffocated with pride as he showed off his prize to his schoolmates. We left after Williams and Lt. Donald W. Harris of Phoenix, Arz., had helped distribute 20 packets of books and pencils to other honor students.

As civil affairs offiver, Harris, a lawyer in civilian life, is responsible for pacification missions designed to win friends and influence people. He is enthusiastic about his work and has asked that his tour out here be extended so that he can continue it.

"We just want to show them that we are interested in them and that the American serviceman isn't a bad guy," he said. "We feel that if the children like us, so will the parents.

"I like kids. I spent seven summers as a camp counsellor in New York State, and the kids here are no different basically than those in our country."

Harris is proud of a free medical clinic which he set up with the help of two Navy corpsmen.

"In three days we treated 150 children and adults," he said. "I believe the best medicine is soap and hot water. Most of the diseases we treat are dirt-caused. So the first thing we do with these kids is to give them a good scrubbing.

"It's really gratifying to see the sores on these kids heal up, and feel that we are really doing something to help them. But some parents are bringing in kids who don't have anything wrong with them. They just want us to give them a good bath."

Marines in the Da Nang area also are chipping in to send three children with cleft palates to a hospital near Saigon for operations. The operations will cost only $5 each, but that is more than the parents have been able to afford.

Pacification has its own reward but it also has its perils. On the same day that young Nguyen Duc Tan got his gift pen and pencil set, a goodwill mission of Marines in a nearby village was fired on by Viet Cong guerrillas. One marine was killed.

"It upsets me," Harris said, "to realize that the people in that village knew the enemy was there--and didn't warn us."

WASHINGTON —Fifteen hundred dollars is riding on a Senate committee hearing this week for every bus driver, bootblack, broker and banker in the U.S.A. On the outcome of these Senate hearings will partly depend the disposition of the U.S. government property worth $300 billion — enough to pay off the national debt. Or, if divided among 200 million Americans, it would mean a bonus of $1,500 apiece.

The property in question is the vast five million acres of government - owned oil shale land in Colorado, Wyoming, and Eastern Utah. It's estimated that it contains two trillion barrels of oil, and this bonanza is now the subject of intense backstage wire-pulling on the part of the big oil companies and the protectors of the public.

Lyndon Johnson probably doesn't know it, being busy with the Dominican Republic, Viet Nam, and other problems, but he is being quoted backstage as favoring his old friends the oil companies in the disposition of this hidden treasure.

In a previous Republican Administration —Hoover's —Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur withdrew the shale oil lands from private leasing. At that time the market was glutted with domestic oil and not much was known about how to develop shale oil.

But with the end of other oil resources in the U.S.A. now foreseeable, shale oil has become the most important undeveloped resource in the United States.

Furthermore, it now appears possible to develop it by leaving the surface of the land undisturbed, and through the "in situ" process, burn the shale underground, perhaps through nuclear energy, thereby distilling oil from shale.

—OLD MINING LAW—

So far, private oil companies have acquired 168,000 acres in the Wyoming, Colorado, Utah area as against the government's 5,000,000 acres. But they are now trying to horn in on government land by means of an archaic mining law passed in 1872 which permits private companies to obtain mining patents on government land for only $2.50 an acre. Oil shale land today is actually selling for $2,000 an acre. Yet private companies are now trying to get patent rights for $2.50 an acre.

Inside the Interior Department, Assistant Secretary John Kelly, a Texas oil man appointed by President Kennedy, is plugging for the oil companies. Lined up with him privately is Under Secretary John A. Carver.

Kelly and Carver argue that the oil companies can develop the lands more rapidly than the government, that industry can work out the new process of distilling oil underground.

On the other side is Frank Barry, Interior Department solicitor, a staunch battler for the public interest.

President Johnson has delegated oil policy matters to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, but eventually Johnson is going to have to step in and decide between his old oil friends and the public. As an ex-schoolteacher and a great booster for education, he has a chance to do as much for education with these oil lands as Abraham Lincoln did for the land grant colleges when he gave every other section of public land in the West for the development of state colleges.

—LEMAY'S DISABILITY—

The military medical board which has discovered that Gen. Curtis LeMay, cigar-chomping former Chief of the Air Force, has been suffering from 60 per cent disability, raises interesting questions regarding LeMay's conduct while commanding the Air Force.

Only a few weeks after he retired, the Board of Medical Examiners found that the General was suffering from a variety of ailments incurred while in military service —and therefore was entitled to non-payment of income taxes on $10,000 of his retirement pay.

Many officers who have watched and frequently differed with LeMay would like to know whether his disability affected his conduct as Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

As such, he was frequently battling with Secretary of Defense McNamara. He was the only member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to question the Test Ban Treaty. He also differed with both the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations regarding the policy of putting more emphasis on missiles and less emphasis on bombers.

Was the General influenced by his disabilities when he took those strong stands? Or is the Military Medical Board merely trying to give an old military pal a chance of escaping income taxes? It might bear Congressional investigation.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Latin Americans are reported disapproving the landing of U.S. Marines in the Dominican Republic 99 per cent. But a private Oliver Quayle survey shows that 69 per cent of Americans approve, 16 per cent disapprove, 15 per cent are not sure. . . Asked whether the Marine landing would make Latin Americans more critical of the U.S.A., 30 per cent of those polled answered yes, 33 per cent answered no, 25 per cent weren't sure, and 3 per cent said it didn't matter. . . LBJ stresses the fact that his new appointees are Phi Beta Kappas. In line with this he has promoted another professor to the No. 2 spot in the Agriculture Department —John Schnittker of Kansas State University to be Under Secretary of Agriculture. Prof. Schnittker knows wheat as no other man in the U.S.A. He is an excellent choice. . . He comes, incidentally, from the same institution that sent Vilton Eisenhower to Washington as an Agriculture Department official, later to Penn State and Johns Hopkins as president.

H. L. Hunt Says

SOMETHING TO DO

Facing breathtaking communist gains, the truth when revealed to potential patriots is so depressing that it is almost paralyzing.

They have been alerted, informed, advised and instructed until the truth is always viewed as bad news. They have not been inspired and armed with things they could do to avert the impending disaster.

Danger can more confidently be faced when it is known that remedial action can be taken. Patriots will be less frustrated and depressed if they can work at the job of saving the liberty they so highly prize. That is what they would like to do and would enjoy.

Plans whereby patriotic Americans can contribute their prestige and assistance to the cause in which they so devotedly believe will be welcomed. Those who have been demoralized and fell by the wayside under the onslaught of repeated "bad news" will gain new strength of purpose when they can see the way to save liberty clearly planned and can take up the guide - lines of well-defined things to do.

Well-informed, active patriots need to create the procedures and activities which will lighten the hearts of potential patriots, keep them busy and provide many things which they can do and take pride in doing. Every message of truth needs to be accompanied with suggestions of what to do to allay the demoralizing effects of "bad news" when it comes.

Action can be inspirational in promoting the American way of life. HLH

By Victor Riesel

Precedent Making Labor Leader Makes Another -- Gets Kiss from LBJ

NEW YORK: -- That peppery bantam, crew-cut David Dubinsky, labor leader by profession, gadfly by avocation and global conscience by dedication, is the only union chief ever to be kissed by an American President.

It happened not too long ago during a state dinner in the White House. Lyndon Johnson saw the 72-year-old leader of the nation's ladies' garment workers, strode over and bussed him. Such emotion in a president and such rapport are not easy to come by. The incident set a precedent.

But Dubinsky has smashed tradition for generations. He "makes" precedents as the 442,000 members of his big and wealthy union -- 80 per cent of them women -- make ladies' garments, suits, cloaks, dresses and dainty unmentionables.

Of late Dubinsky has chosen to stay off the front pages. But today this labor leaders' labor leader is in Miami Beach directing the union's 32nd national convention through the intricacies of modern industrialism.

He is news not only because it was his phone call from New York to Los Angeles in July 1960 which gave the nation's labor leaders the go-ahead signal for support of a Texan as the Democratic vice-presidential candidate by saying "He'll help Kennedy win."

He is news because of the amazing contents of his huge report to the convention delegates. There is, for example, an explanation of the International Ladies' Garment Workers (ILGWU( Investment Dept. It handles or advises on the placing of well over half a billion dollars deposited in an assortment of funds.

Some advice is being taken from David Rockefeller's Chase Manhattan Bank (Dubinsky never permits politics to interfere with shrewd investments.) Some funds are handled directly by the department.

Some of the special funds have earned $52 million in the past three fiscal years. The central treasuries of the national office and the locals have $75 million invested -- which are earning additional millions. The various funds are invested in huge housing projects, regular mortgages, homes for the military and in rural areas for the farmers' use.

There are intricate financial statements. Every member can have an accounting of every penny.

Dubinsky and his colleagues have become wizards in their industry as well as financial experts. No longer is the ladies' garment industry made up of little shops with a breezy extrovert of a salesman and an ulcerous "inside" production chief -- the butt of so many comedian's jokes.

The dress industry is going the way of all business in our society. Firms have merged. They have gone "public" -- on the stock exchanges.

Jonathan Logan, Inc., probably the biggest house, has 75 plants in 16 states. It is diversified, making thread and machinery as well as garments.

So big now are some of the "houses", the relationship between them and the needle union approaches that of a steel company and the United Steelworkers. "Impartial Chairmen are needed -- the University of Penn.'s George W. Taylor, for example, in the Jonathan Logan case.

Dubinsky always has had a flair for such chairmen. At one time or another the industry was "bossed" by the late Harry Hopkins and the late late Jimmie Walker.

"Little David," as some call him, has gone after some giants. When Adam Clayton Powell attacked him and his union, charging that it discriminated, Dubinsky took him on and won his battle. Dubinsky personally led the assault.

When some years ago, his staff decided to organize a union of organizers, Dubinsky would not be fazed by charges that as a union leader he was being anti-labor, because he fought such unionization.

Other unions backed down. Even the national AFL-CIO headquarters signed a labor contract with its field staff. But Dubinsky is still fighting in the courts. He says that a union is not a business and cannot be considered an employer of organizers.

There would be no union within a union he said -- and has stuck to his position.

At 72 he's battling as he did at 23 and 43. Thirty years ago he took on the Fascists, Nazis and Communists. After the war he was a one man army in the cold war. It was Dubinsky who stirred the AFL into helping the postwar unions fight off the heavily muscled and heavily financed Communists from West Berlin to Rome.

There never has been a day when "DD" has not fought totalitarianism. When the left wing became powerful in the theatre in the thirties, he bucked them. He produced a musical comedy called Pins and Needles.

When the mobs moved in on labor, he introduced the first anti-racketeering resolution in an AFL convention -- and was slugged for it in a hotel lobby by Joe Fay, who was subsequently imprisoned for extortion.

He is partisan. Though he leads the Liberal Party of New York, he is high in Democratic Party esteem. Especially the President's.

Thus his report to the convention delegates concludes with ". . . In President Lyndon B. Johnson we have an ally in the White House. . ."

Little David is no mean ally himself. At 72 he is the labor movement's Winston Churchill -- his best years are ahead of him.

So say his enemies -- and even his friends.

Cotton Producers Wives Have Luncheon And Fashion Show

The Wives of Missouri Cotton Producers were honored Friday, May 7, with a buffet luncheon at the Sikeston Country Club.

Mrs. Warren Hearnes, First Lady of Missouri, and Mrs. Paul Jones, wife of Missouri's Congressman, were special guests at the luncheon.

The group was entertained during the meal by a girls' singing group from Charleston, the Liberty Belles.

Following the luncheon, the Elite Shop of Sikeston presented twelve lovely ladies who informally modeled fashions ranging from bathing suits and sportswear to evening and hostess gowns. The models paraded from table to table to let the guests have a first-hand look at the ensembles they were showing.

All the costumes modeled were naturally cotton, however, there was a wide variety in the cottons used in the fabrics from which the outfits were made.

Variety Meat In Creole Style Tempts Diners

If you've eaten pepperpot soup, you've probably tasted tripe without even knowing it. Tripe, a variety meat, can also be served as an entree by itself.

It may be purchased fresh, pickled or canned. Though fresh tripe is cooked partially before selling, it must still be cooked about two hours, points out Rebe Staggs, noted meat authority, preliminary to serving preparation. Use a teaspoon of salt for each quart of water in which the tripe is cooked.

Well-seasoned tomato sauce is a favorite accompaniment of tripe after it's been cooked. It's especially appetizing in this combination served on rice.

Tripe a la Creole

Water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cover tripe with water and cook slowly 2 hours or until cut surface has a clear, jelly-like appearance. Drain and cut into 2-inch pieces. Melt butter or margarine. Add green pepper and onion and cook until tender. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Add tomatoes, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season and add tripe. Simmer 10 minutes. 6 servings.

Golf Notes

Mrs. J. F. Cox was medalist in Tuesday's play of the Ladies Golf Association. Lotus Emerson won flight A. Honors went to Mrs. Jackson Davis and Mrs. Howard Johnson in flights B and C.

Mrs. Bob Ralph, one of Sikeston's newest golfers, was a prize winner among those who went to the Blytheville, Arkansas, Country Club for golf and lunch.

With some players away and Mrs. Dewey Urban and Mrs. Bob Yates in St. Louis for a state golf board meeting, the number of local players was less than usual.

The enthusiasm of those present was very high. Everyone vowed to play better and score better next week.

Girl Scouts To Sponsor Hamburger Day Saturday

Each year, the Girl Scouts of Sikeston take on many money-making projects to finance trips and other projects. This Saturday, May 15, two Senior Girl Scout Troops will sponsor a hamburger day.

It will be held at the American Legion from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any member of troop #201 and #13. Be sure to come and enjoy all you can eat.

St. Paul's Episcopal Churchwomen Have Twelve Present For Meeting

St. Paul's Episcopal Churchwomen met in the Parish Hall on May 6 with twelve members and the Vicar present. Mrs. Mitchell presided over the meeting. Mrs. Harty has located a pedestal for the statue of St. Francis in the churchyard and will bring it down from St. Louis on her next trip.

Mrs. Grant volunteered to U.-T. O. chairman; boxes may be obtained from her and when filled, returned to her.

Reporting on the Diocesan meeting, Mrs. Mitchell said that no decision was taken regarding the frequency of the Convocation meetings, although the majority of the delegates indicated that they preferred to have but one meeting a year.

Mrs. Croom gave a report on the Farm Labor Rest Camp east of Sikeston. A fund is to be established by the U. C. W. for emergencies among the migrant workers and in July a trained counsellor will take up residence there.

There is to be a weekly study group at the church on Wednesdays at 10 a.m., commencing immediately with a study entitled "The Prophets and Our Times." Any wishing to attend are asked to read the Book of Amos beforehand.

Present at the meeting were the following: Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. James Moreton, Mrs. E. B. Hinson, Mrs. W. P. Tedlie, Mrs. David Croom, Mrs. Harry Harty, Mrs. Howard Grant, Mrs. Art Nelson, Mrs. R. L. Watkins, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. W. Pipes-Jones and Miss Jane Wilkerson.

"Gone With the Wind," almost certainly the biggest selling novel in the history of U.S. publishing, has sold more than 8,000,000 copies in 40 countries. A million copies were sold in the first six months after publication, 50,000 of them in one day. Its author, Margaret Mitchell, spent 10 years working on the book, for which she received a Pulitzer Prize for fiction in 1937.

Bloomfield A Wins Two At Puxico

Bloomfield, Oran District - Tournament Champs, continued their winning ways, yesterday sweeping an easy double hitter victory from Stoddard County foe Puxico, 11 to 2 and 9 to 2.

The Wildcats highly potent attack blasted out 20 runs in the two contests. Bloomfield's record is now 10 wins, 1 loss.

Ron White started the first contest, on the hill for the Wildcats, but didn't have it and was lifted. Johnson came on to silence Puxico for the last 4 innings and pick up the Cat victory.

Wise and White led the Bloomfield attack with two hits each.

In the second contest of the afternoon, Rodney Bullinger, Bloomfield ace righthander went to the mound, to give Puxico it's second defeat. Bullinger struck out 5 men, allowing only two Puxico hits in the contest. Bullinger has now won 7, lost 1. King was the loser for the Indians.

Puxico takes up its march for the state baseball crown, Thursday in the sectional at Perryville. They play Crystal City for the right to go to the state baseball tourney.

Sports TALK
By DON SAVAGE

The Sikeston Jaycees Western Horse Show scheduled last Sunday was post-poned because of heavy rains. The event has been rescheduled and will take place this Sunday at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo Grounds.

The show is scheduled to start at 1:30 P.M., Daylight Savings Time.

It is a ten event affair, with a special event added. The Quarter-Mile Dash is the special event. Each horse entering the dash will be timed for a quarter which will determine his class. Each class will then have elimination heats.

The classing will begin at 11:00. Races will start at 1:30.

Poplar Bluff will again be the site of Olympic track and field competition when the SEMO Amateur Athletic Association stages the 1965 Junior Olympics at the Poplar Bluff High School Stadium. The preliminary meet is scheduled for Saturday, June 5. The Finals are scheduled for the next Saturday, June 12.

The Junior Olympic program is sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and has grown steadily, participation wise, each year. The events have been developed and refined for the beginniner as well as the expert and is equally adaptable from the smallest town to the largest city.

Boys and girls are permitted to participate in three events and must compete in the age group corresponding to their age. Their division will be decided by their age on June 5, 1965.

Mizzou Leads Big Eight In Hitting, Iowa State Second

Big Eight Baseball
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri and Iowa State, the top two contenders in Big Eight baseball dominate most of the individual and team statistics except for Kansas State's Stu Steele, the new batting leader at .488.

Bob Robben of Missouri dropped to second place at .482, with defending champ Steve McGreevy of Kansas next with .434. Both Dan Rudanovich of Missouri and Tony Sellari of Oklahoma State are batting .400.

Missouri has three other hitters among the leaders, with Gene Stephenson at .342, Jim Pace .341 and Mike Strode .321, making five in the top 14. Iowa State has only one, Jerry Retzlaff at .327.

Iowa State ranks 1-2-4 in the pitching rankings, based on earned runs allowed, with Tim Van Gaider at 0.90, Bob Ziegler 1.50 and Scott Morton 1.91. Only other pitcher under two earned runs a game is Dick Frank of OSU with 1.53. Missouri's top man is Orv Hollrah at 3.06.

In the team rankings, Missouri has scored 102 runs, Iowa State 86 for second. Nebraska has permitted only 38 runs in 13 games, Iowa State 44 in 14, with Missouri well back at 61. In team ERA, however, Iowa State is far in front at 1.41, Nebraska has 2.97, OSU 3.96, Colorado 4.05 and Missouri 4.23. Nebraska has given up only seven unearned runs, Iowa State 27. This is reflected in team fielding, with Nebraska on top at .952 and Iowa State seventh with .935.

Missouri, with an 11-3 record, and Iowa State 10-4, appear headed for a championship showdown in the closing series of the season at Ames May 21-22. Before this, however, Iowa State has the toughest job, meeting Oklahoma State, 8-7, at Stillwater Friday and Saturday while Missouri faces Colorado, 5-8, at Columbia.

In other series, Kansas, 7-8, is at K-State, 2-11, and Oklahoma, 5-10, at Nedraska, 8-5. Nebraska still has a mathematical title change if the top two stumble. Two games will be played Friday, one Saturday in each series.

The Huskers have two top pitchers in Stan Bahnsen with a 2.07 ERA and Bob Hergenrader 2.25, but rank seventh in team batting at .218.

Oklahoma's Carl Schriener still leads Robben 5-4 for the home run crown but Robben is on top 20-16 over Schreiner in RBI. Robben leads with 27 hits, Strode with 6 doubles, and Retlaff with 9 stolen bases. Steve Renko of Kansas leads in strikeouts with a 1.61 average, 50 in 31 innings. Missouri's Mike Eader has the best bases on balls record with three in 18 2-3 innings.

Mets Down Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York used Curt Simmons' only walk of the game and a .185 hitter named Bobby Klaus to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Wednesday at New York.

It was Simmons' fourth loss of the season against one victory and left the Cardinals with an 11-14 record in the National League race.

Simmons walked his man and then Klaus doubled to give the Mets their victory.

Ken Boyer got St. Louis' only run when he led off the seventh inning with a 400-foot home run over the centerfield fence to tie the game.

New York got their first run in the third inning.

The loss gave the Cardinals a 1-1 split with the Mets in a two game series.

St. Louis is idle today.

Kansas City takes on the White Sox again today at Chicago. The Athletics will start Diego Segui 2 - 3 against Chicago's Gary Peters 2-2.

The Athletics lost a doubleheader to the White Sox Wednesday, 7-4 and 6-4, even though they should have been mad because the White Sox wouldn't allow their mascot mule inside the ball park.

Dick Green bashed a grand slam home run for the A's in the first game but it wasn't enough. Jim Gentile and Bill Bryan hit home runs for Kansas City in the night cap.

Baseball Attendance

NEW YORK AP -- Major league baseball attendance for the first month of the 1965 season was up 5.4 per cent over last year, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

The survey through Tuesday's games also reflected continued fan apathy in Milwaukee and Kansas City plus a resurgence in Houston where the Astros are playing in their new, enclosed stadium.

The Braves, committed to play in Atlanta next year, have averaged only 2,826 paid in their last 11 home appearances. Coupled with an opening-game turnstile count of 33,874 the total is 64,957. Last season, when they finished with an aggregate of 910,000, Milwaukee averaged 11,500 for the first 12 home dates.

Kansas City has averaged only 6,700 for 11 home dates. The aggregate of 74,405 is 16,425 under last season. The A's had the lowest home attendance in either major league in 1964 -- 642,478.

The Astros have attracted 228,052 for 11 appearances in the 45,000-seat Astrodome for an average attendance of 26,000. In the 32,601 - seat Colts Stadium a year ago the Houston club averaged 10,500 for the same number of dates.

The over-all big league attendance is 3,018,591 compared to 2,862,622 in the same number of 1964 dates. The National League shows an increase of 105,715 and the American is up 50,254.

Mizzou To Take Meet

LINCOLN, Neb. AP -- The title race could be the tightest in history at the 37th Big Eight track championships starting here Friday. The Associated Press form chart prediction comes out this way-Missouri 85, Oklahoma 84 and Kansas 81.

Kansas is the defending champion and the Jayhawks may be expected to go all-out to give Coach Bill Easton another championship in his final season. But Colorado and Oklahome State may cut into Kansas distance power. The Jayhawks must score in the sprints to win it.

Missouri won the league indoor crown a year ago, then skidded to third in the outdoor. This year the Tigers again won the indoor and they will be determined to even matters for last year. But they may need third place finishes from Charles Allen in the 100 and 220 and Earl Denny in the broad jump. The competition is terrific in all three.

Oklahoma's field event strength will match that of Kansas if Ken Farris Jr. is in top form in the triple jump and broad jump. He hurt his back a week ago and is recovering. He has 1-2 potential in both events. The Sooners are picked for 84 points with only four points in these two events.

The prediction chart lists Nebraska a close fourth at 76, Oklahoma State 69, Colorado 59, Kansas State 48 and Iowa State 27. Nebraska and OSU are potent in the running events but weak in the field.

Nebraska sprinter Charlie Greene is picked to win both the 100 and 220 and anchor a winning 440 relay team. He will be a threat to the league records of 9.4 and 20.9. Oklahoma's Bill Calhoun, with a best of 46.7, is the choice to unseat Nebraska's Dave Crook in the 440. Jim Jackson of Oklahoma is chosen No. 2 in both the 100 and 220.

Colorado's Jim Miller is chosen to be the only other double winner. He is the American record holder in the 330 hurdles at 36.1 and co-holder of the meet mark of 14 flat in the highs.

Robin Lingle of Missouri, with a best of 4:01.7, is the choice to win the mile and smash the meet record of 4:04.9. But Dave Wighton of Colorado, who will concentrate on the three-mile, is chosen to upset Lingle for the gold medal. This will cut into Kansas strength. Herald Hadley and John Lawson of the Jayhawks may have to double in the mile and three-mile.

Missouri also expected to get gold metals from Gene Crews in the shot put and Steve Herndon in the high jump, where a meet mark of 6-10 may result from his battle with OSU's Russ Laverty and Oklahoma's Jim Johnson.

Oklahoma's other gold medals will come from pole vaulter Jim Farrell and Carl Pelligrini in the discus, a close one over OSU's Miles Lister.

Kansas is picked for only one gold medal, by Glenn Martin with a possible record in the triple jump. OSU will dominate the 880.

Only three meet records appear safe against an outstanding field. Closed-circuit television with instant play-back equipment will be used for the first time anywhere in track.

The program will be dedicated to the late Don Pierce, former Kansas publicity director and track expert, to Easton and to Harry Carlson, retiring Colorado athletic director.

Nicklaus Picked To Win At New Orleans Golf Tourney

NEW ORLEANS AP -- Jack's Pack and Chi Chi's Banditos collide today as the $100,000 greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament gets under way with the beefy Ohioan and the pint - sized Puerto Rican playing in the same threesome.

Masters champ Jack Nicklaus is the 6-1 choice to win the rich tourney at the plush 6,500-yard Lakewood Country Club course, but a number of the pros say Chi Chi Rodriguez is the man to beat.

The 5-foot-7 Rodriguez, who weighs a mere 120 pounds, is on a hot streak and has finished high in the tourneys preceding this one.

At the rain-plagued Colonial National Invitational, which wound up Tuesday, Chi Chi tied for third with three others.

The pluckish Latin chatters constantly with the gallery while playing and some of the other pros complain about it. Not so with Nicklaus, who will play with Chi Chi and tour regular Rod Funseth both today and Friday.

"It doesn't bother me," said Nicklaus. "In fact, I find he keeps me loose."

Chi Chi has earned $12,315 so far this year on the tour and put on a blazing stretch drive just two weeks ago in the Tournament of Champions and nearly caught up with Arnold Palmer.

Arnie's army will be here, too, as Palmer renews his rivalry with Nicklaus for the fairways crown. A victory for Palmer here would pull him much closer to Nicklaus in the earnings list. Nicklaus with $34,400 in official money, has won twice as much as Palmer.

HOW IT BEGAN

You might think that the detachable collar was invented by someone in the guillotine business, but actually it was thought up by a woman in Troy, New York. Her husband, a blacksmith, soiled so many collars she didn't know what to do. Finally, she detached them. Today at least 25 different styles of shirts and collars are offered by famous brand manufacturers.

***

So . . . you thought Marlene Dietrich invented the trench coat. True, she did a lot for it, but it was actually created during World War I for the officers inspecting trenches . . . and it soon became a symbol of authority. Today's leading manufacturers are masters at creating rainwear to suit anyone — in or out of the trenches.

***

Would you mind wearing a tie half as much if you thought it was a protection against what ails you? In the 17th century, soldiers started wearing long strips of muslin or lace tied at their throats as a magic protection for their heart. This style was introduced into "polite" society by Louis XIV, not for protection, but for decoration. Today, brand names conscious apparel manufacturers vie with each other to offer a selection of ties that would have dazzled the court of King Louis.

Females Can Ride On The Runningboard Of Cable Cars

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- Tradition dies hard in this windy city, and none has been laid to rest with more wordage than the custom of the "outside step" of the dear old dinky cable cars.

Since 1873, when they first clattered up the hills of San Francsico, it has been traditional that the weaker sex--that is to say, women -- should not ride the outside step.

The outside step - a 10-foot-long running board along the outside seat - was a male stronghold. The woman who tried to ride this hallowed plank was soon told off by the conductor, or by the gripman who drives the cars with long steel grips that clutch the moving cable.

But in recent weeks the outside step has been integrated--for women.

"Get 'em off!" bellowed Tom McGrath, spokesman for the Cable Car Gripmen's Union, when a college coed, Mona Hutchin, 19, dared break the ice. She insisted she could ride outside - lawfully.

And so she could. In fact, so could all females. Turned out there is no law against women riding the step.

"It doesn't make any difference to me whether they ride outside," said husky John Hepburn, gripman of the Hyde Street Line.

Conductor Frank Brown agreed: "No difference to me at all," he said. "If they fall off, they fall off. Just wait, they'll start falling off."

No women were on the step at the time. The main objections to their riding there are that they're weaker than men, wear skirts that can blow revealingly aloft in high breezes, and -- besides - they're women! The objection about the skirts was based on the theory that the girls, in trying to get their windblown skirts down, would forget about hanging on to the railing and topple off.

On another car a little later:

"Now look. Are you two going to stand out there?" gripman Jim Stewart said, glowering at Sue Cuddeback and Kerin Baker.

"Then you got to hang on with both hands or in you come. Both hands!"

The girls, determined, stayed put.

Passengers turned as one to watch.

"Both hands, see," snarled Stewart.

"How are we going to get our fares if we have to hang on with both hands?" said Sue, hanging on with both hands.

"I don't care," scoffed Stewart. "Like I said, both, both hands!"

The girls got off without paying their fares.

"U-Turns" Being Made By Missouri House

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House made a U-turn today to reconsider and pass a bank bill it had defeated Tuesday.

The measure, to allow bank facilities to be located as much as 4,000 yards from the parent bank and to accept loan pay-payments, was killed Tuesday 75-59.

Today it was reconsidered and passed 98-63. The quick switch indicated some members had been contacted by the bill's sponsors overnight.

Under present law bank facilities must be located within 1,000 yards of the parent institution and they can only make change, cash checks and accept deposits.

Having disposed of that bill, the House turned on a bill that would allow communities having industrial development plants to ask the industries for a payment in lieu of taxes. After lengthy argument the House killed the measure 76-56. It takes 82 affirmative votes to pass a bill.

Sponsors said the bill would permit communities having plants to contract with the occupying industries so the companies would make the payment in lieu of taxes, for such purposes as school financing.

They said the attorney general has held that without such a law the industries would not pay anything toward financing of school and community operations.

But one opponent, Rep. Raymond Roberts, D-St. Francois County, said he thought the bill was unconstitutional and "it may jeopardize the entire industrial development program."

He said the courts have held that a leasehold interest in taxable and so industries occupying community plants now are subject to taxation.

Tuesday the House passed a bill setting up a system of sheltered workshops for the handicapped.

HANNIBAL, Mo. - Girl Scout Troop 142 of Urbana, Ill., will make its trip to Hannibal after all.

Members had planned to make the trip earlier this month but cancelled it because of the Mississippi River floods. Instead the troop sent its trip money, totaling $150, to the city, asking that it be used for flood relief.

Impressed by the gesture of the Scouts, Hannibal residents started a fund to provide the girls with the trip. This morning KHMO Radio, which has been handling the contributions, reported $163 had been donated.

The platypus, a mammal which lays eggs, is one of the most primitive of the world's living creatures. It has a long, flat, leathery muzzle which resembles a duck's bill. It's body is furry and it provides milk for its young. The adult male is about two feet in length, including its beaver-like tail. The male has on each side of its ankles a sharp spur connected to a poison sac. When these spurs are wielded the wounds can be fatal in small animals, but only painful in the larger ones and in man. The platypus is confined to Australia and Tasmania.

Social climbers seem to think the rungs of the ladder are made of gold and brass.

The Beat Of A Female Journalist In Alaska

NEW YORK AP -- Genie Chance, wife of an Anchorage, Alaska, automobile dealer and mother of three children, had the kind of free-wheeling job every broadcast journalist dreams about.

As a regular reporter for an Anchorage radio station 14 months ago, her beat covered an area of about 18,000 square miles. She chased police cars and fire engines in Anchorage but sometimes found herself with camera and tape recorder, aboard a crab boat en route to a remote Eskimo village; in a helicopter covering troops training for arctic warfare; in a plane with smoke jumpers fighting a 10,000-acre tundra fire.

Under such circumstances, it was ironic that Genie Chance's biggest story broke when she was riding quietly down an Anchorage street in her automobile. It was on March 27, 1964, and all of a sudden her car began to bounce.

"I thought at first it was a flat tire," she recalls. "Then I saw people running out of buildings and looking up -- and buildings literally began to wave."

It was the great Alaskan earthquake. Mrs. Chance drove immediately -- automatically -- to the city's public safety building which was anything but safe after the quake and using the broadcasting equipment in her automobile remained on duty continuously for 59 hours. She sent out news to a city and countryside whose telephone communications were cut by diaster, organized ham radio operators, gathered rescue information, reunited separated families and helped set up public shelters and rescue teams.

In recognition of her level-headed marathon, Texas-born Mrs. Chance recently was given the top "Golden Mike" award of a national women's magazine McCalls.

"Some of the things I saw are memories you want to push out of your mind," she says. "But others you want to remember. I found that I was getting on with my job in an emergency the best I could--but 10 days later, I had a big reaction--hysterics and a good cry. My husband, thank heavens, was very sympathetic."

CBS, elated with the success of the first Barbara Streisand special program, has scheduled a second one for next October.

The re-run of NBC's "The Louvre," orginially scheduled for Friday night, has been moved to June 8, thus opening up an hour for Soviet film of the most recent cosmonauts on their space adventure.

Supervisors To Be Voted On In County

BENTON - May 17 is the final date for turning in to the Soil and Water District office in Benton, nominating petitions for supervisors for the Soil and Water District of Scott County. Those who have been nominated by the nominating committee set up by the local Board are as follows: Roby Hitt, Franklin Schlosser and Vincent Miller for Area I which includes Commerce and Kelso townships. For Area III, John Engram, James W. Abernathy and Louis Watkins. The townships of Morley and Richland comprise Area III. Only two areas are to have elections this year. Roby Hitt and John Engram terms were for two years. They are eligible for re-election.

These names will be included on the election ballots for the representative areas, to be mailed out to all farm owners in areas voting May 18-19, 1965, together with any additional nominations received by petitions presented at the District office in Benton on or before May 17, 1965.

In order to make nominations by petition it will be necessary to secure at least 25 signatures of farm owners, or those who have power of attorney on a farm, within the area from which nominations are received. The petition forms may be secured at the Soil and Water Conservation District office, Benton, Tom B. Stroup, secretary.

Those nominated for supervisors must have been taxpayers within the District of Scott County for at least the past two years, must reside and own or have power of attorney on a farm in the area for which they are nominated.

Only one ballot will be mailed to a landowner, however, if he owns more than one farm he can secure additional ballots from the S&W Dist. Secretary or from any supervisor on the board. All ballots are to be returned to the County Clerk's office by May 31 to be counted.

Birth Control And The Law

The Poe Case. This second forerunner of the current suit began in 1959 as a massive legal challenge to the birth-control statute. A battery of civil suits was filed, the components attacking the law on various grounds. Involved were Dr. Buxton of Yale and a number of persons identified as Doe, Hoe, Poe and Roe. (Fictitious names are permitted in certain cases.)

Dr. Buxton claimed that his rights to liberty and property (in practicing his profession) were infringed. He could not, he said, prescribe contraception in accordance with accepted medical practice without running the risk of criminal prosecution and loss of his license to practice.

Patient's Cases

Mrs. Doe held that her life was being endangered by the law. She needed contraception because of hypertensive cardiovascular disease and other serious physical conditions resulting from a cerebral hemorrhage during an earlier pregnancy that terminated in stillbirth. It was Dr. Buxton's opinion that further pregnancy would most likely result in her death.

Mrs. Hoe sued on grounds that an Rh blood factor had already produced four consecutive children who were dead at time of delivery or died within 48 hours. The medical outlook for a normal child was "highly unlikely."

Mrs. Poe's suit was based on fact that a genetic condition had caused the death of three congenitally abnormal children within ten days of birth. Medical opinion held, she said, that another pregnancy would probably subject her to psychological stress to the breaking point.

Mr. and Mrs. Roe sued on entirely different grounds. They were entitled to contraceptive services, they maintained, because they wished to postpone the birth of children until they were "prepared psychologically or economically for the duties and obligations of parenthood."

Due Process Cited

On these various grounds, all the complainants contended that the Connecticut law deprived them of life and liberty without due process of law, as guaranteed by the 14th Amendment. The lower court which heard the suits rejected the arguments and so, once more, the Connecticut Supreme Court was asked to decide the constitutionality of the birth-control ban.

This time, the law was upheld unanimously, with the court restating the "abstention" advice offered earlier. Even if contraception is "the best and safest preventive measure which medical science can offer," the judge said, "that fact does not make it absolutely necessary for the legislature to accept such a solution in all cases, where there is . . . another alternative, abstinence from sexual intercourse."

The case based on psychological and economic reasons was rejected on grounds that the complainants' rights had previously been decided — in the Nelson case where the statute was upheld as a "reasonable exercise of police power" by the state.

High Court Encore

It was through this route that the U. S. Supreme Court was asked for the second time to judge the constitutionality of Connecticut's birth-control ban. This time, it was hoped, the legal gaps in the Tileston case were plugged. For one thing, Dr. Buxton was now asserting a Constitutional right of his own. For another, the patients were seeking legal relief from danger to their health and life.

But the challengers were disappointed anew. They had proper legal standing, but now other factors undercut their civil suits. First, contraceptives were on sale in Connecticut drug stores (even if they were inferior to those which would probably be prescribed by a physician). Second, the use section of the law had never been invoked against a resident. And third, physicians had not been prosecuted under the act since the 1939 raid on the Birth Control League's clinic.

As a result, a majority of the justices found in June, 1961, that no "genuine case or controversy" existed. The fact that the state had "not chosen to press the enforcement of this statute deprives these controversies of the immediacy which is an indispensable condition of Constitutional adjudication," they said.

Dissent Stated

Among the dissenters to this opinion was Justice William O. Douglas, who observed that "when the State makes 'use' (of contraceptives) a crime and applies criminal sanctions to man and wife, the State has entered the innermost sanctum of the home. . . And proof of its violation necessarily involves an inquiry into the relations between husband and wife. . . the idea of allowing the State that leeway is congenial only to a totalitarian regime."

Ironically, however, it was the majority opinion which led directly to the case now under consideration. For immediately upon announcement of the Court's ruling the (reorganized and renamed) Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut applauded "the recognition by the Court that the law has in fact become a nullity."

Three and a half months later, the League opened a clinic in New Haven. The police soon arrived to investigate. A complaint brought by a resident contended that the facility was "passing out immoral literature and breaking the law." He added that "every moment the clinic stays open another child is not born."

Arrests Made

A week after the opening, Dr. Buxton, the clinic's medical director, and Mrs. Griswold, who had taken histories from patients, described methods of contraception, and given a drug to a woman, were arrested. At their trial they pleaded innocent. In January, 1962, they were found guilty. Their convictions were upheld by an appellate court and the Connecticut Supreme Court.

In practice, therefore, the state law was not a nullity as far as birth-control clinics were concerned. Aware of this, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed last December to scan the issues a third time. And this time, Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold hope, they will be able to overcome the Court's reticence (expressed in the Tileston and Poe cases) to decide the fundamental issues.

The attack in the Buxton-Griswold case is multi-pronged and comes not only from the defendants but in the form of three "friend of the court" briefs.

One, submitted by 141 physicians, contends that proper medical practice and patient care are affected. The doctors, all of whom are specialists in obstetrics and gynecology and pediatrics, are heads of departments in these specialties at virtually all of the U.S.'s medical schools; several are current or past presidents of specialist societies.

HE WONDERS

To the Editor:

I wonder in order to be a college campus demonstrator, freedom marcher, or any of the other freaks running around, if it is absolutely necessary for the boys to be dirty, and the girls to be ugly.

CHARLES BATES
St. Louis County

---

Dear Charlie,

I don't know if you have seen this "Socialist" newspaper being printed on the campus of Missouri University. I don't know what can be done to control things like this. I shouldn't say control but lack of pressure from the proper individuals. I find the most dangerous situation we have is that the "good" people don't want to become involved. This leaves a void which people fill who are not quite so good. Apathy is what is destroying our way of life, the rabble is far in the minority but only when there is a majority of good citizens. If they shirk the responsibility, then indeed rabble such as is growing steadily on our campus will take the reins. If you would editorialize these facts in the way only you can, perhaps just a few good people would stir for just a moment and become aware of the world around them and not just their little block. They might realize that tomorrow may be too late to effectively control bad situations, and leave the only other alternative of accepting them. We seem to think that this is far away but it is right in your homes and you don't know it. How many Sikeston students attend Missouri University?

There is no danger to hearing or being exposed to differing opinions if you are well enough schooled in the true principles of our great nation. But are we still training individuals, people with self reliance, confidence in their own ability, and a desire to get ahead by their own labors, or frightened psuedo intellectuals looking for a free ride. Let me close with a quote from an article by Dr. Harris, the U. S. Senate Chaplin.

"A fatal fallacy of so many rose-tinted social schemes is to regard government as a sort of escalator upon which even the indolent may be carried up to desired levels whether they personally exert themselves or not. . . Far too many people are perfectly willing just to recline on the moving stairway while they, themselves, do little but enjoy the sensation and the scenery."

Sincerely,
Tony Heckemeyer
Missouri House of Representatives

FINDING THE WAY

Have You an Identity?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Identify yourself!" That's the command of the guard at the border of the country. It's the polite question of the passport officer. It's the querulous request of the banker who wonders about your check. It's the common question as a man gives his assurance of his reputation as well as of his existence.

A whole host of causes have indicated the need modern man has in finding this identification in something beyond his own situation. From civil rights to Peace Corps, from the gyrating Beatlemaniac to the dedicated scientist, men have identified themselves with a cause in which they can lose themselves.

The search for personhood is more than joining a group or wearing a name bracelet. It's more than a badge or an identity card.

It is the ability to become an organized, effective and creative person, one who has found himself not as a notorious person or a personality-cult or as a publicity seeker. That's why FINDING self is always LOSING self.

There are three simple stories in the Bible which ought to be retold in these difficult and exciting days.

There was a shepherd who noticed the loss of one sheep, so he hunted until he had found it and restored it to the flock. He gave identity to the sheep.

There was a woman who lost a coin—really a part of her dowry, as though she had lost the diamond from her engagement ring. She hunted in every dark corner until she found it and restored it to its rightful place. She gave it identity.

There was a father who waited for his wayward son despite that rascal's insistence on wasting his inheritance. Having lost all, the son came to himself and returned to be his father's servant. Arriving home, the father restored him to the family circle. He renewed the son's identity.

This is the primary importance of real religion. It is the winning of persons to the realization of that which they already are. The sheep was already a part of the flock, the son was already a member of the family. That had to be restated and recovered.

A casual look around any neighborhood can emphasize the number of persons who have either lost identity or are trying to deny it to others. In a world which is all too often impersonal, it is important to lose one's self in the right cause. The stakes are high. Some people manage to elude the question for all too long a time but ultimately there is the command: "Identify yourself." That person has really come to himself who knows that he is a part of the family-hood of God and is free to live like it.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The school's Open House Program will begin this week. Some of the work accomplished this school year will be displayed. Specifically, Senior High will have their Open House at 6:30 P.M., Friday, May 14. Visitors may tour the classrooms, shops, libraries and laboratories to view the displays and visit with friends and then at 8:30 the Senior High Band will give a "pop" concert on the outdoor stage at the south end of the campus.

Next week at the other units of our school system, the schedule will be as follows: Middle School, May 17 at 6:30 P.M.; Matthews, May 18 at 7:00 P.M.; Southwest and Lincoln, May 19 at 7:00 P.M.; and the activities will close Thursday evening, May 20 at Airport and Lee Hunter with the visitation beginning at 7:00 P.M.

The Open House activities have proven popular in the past. We have been having them for some 10-12 years and usually attendance runs into the many hundreds. Last year we estimated that over 2,000 visitors were present.

Everyone is invited to attend and this provides a good opportunity to judge the scope and quality of a small portion of the work which is accomplished during the school year.

Baccalaureate services for the Seniors of 1965 will be held May 23 at 7:30 P.M. on the outdoor stage at Senior High School and Commencement for the graduates will be May 28 at 7:00 P.M. at the same place. In the event of inclement weather, the ceremonies will probably be moved into the Senior High physical education building.

---

It is a grim fact that there are 11,500,000 adults in the United States, or roughly one in ten adults, who have less than a sixth grade education and believe it or not, 2,700,000 adults who have never been to school at all. While it is true that some of these people have continued to learn and have educated themselves, most of this group are either illiterates or semi - illiterates. And, unfortunately these people are being eliminated in increasing numbers from the job market. Many corporations won't even interview a job seeker until he has graduated from high school. The reason: the illiterate usually can't follow instructions for machines, take a telephone message correctly, add up a bill at the grocery store or sign a personal check. He can't, in many cases, absorb the training or retraining program which are a part of today's work life.

The U.S. Office of Education says that the economic "drag" caused by illiteracy and under education is costing the country 100 billion dollars a year as the difference between what these people could earn with a basic education and what they actually are earning without it.

Another cost also running into the billions is that many of these people are being supported on welfare programs. Indirect costs, even greater, may be in the areas of physical and mental illness, crimes, delinquency, illegitimacy, urban blight, etc. Illiteracy may be passed from generation along with poverty and futility. Unemployment for the illiterate and especially in the city is as high as 50 per cent against an over all national unemployment rate of under 5 per cent.

If we were willing to spend the money, and in the long run to save or to make money by so doing, many of these people could be educated or trained to the point where they could become self-supporting citizens. We are making some attempt to solve this problem on a small scale in the Southeast Missouri area through the Multi - Occupational training program which we are organizing and expect to begin about the latter part of June.

We are indebted for some of the facts in the above statement to Sylvia Porter, well known economic and business columnist.

Education is big business. Though it is not nearly as big as it should be, in relation to what it can do for us individually and as a group, the money required for education is still a very considerable total.

Last year the national average cost per pupil, in average daily attendance, in public elementary and secondary schools for operation and maintenance of the educational program was $483. Missouri was considerably below this, ranking 29th among the states, and the state average per pupil expenditure was $437. Sikeston's cost per pupil in average daily attendance was $366 or $117 less than the national average. (We didn't have any more money.)

Citizens, on the average through the United States, last year spent 3.72 per cent of their income for current educational expense. Only one state spent less.

Missouri's teacher's salaries were $649 less than the national average last year.

In relation to personal income and the amount of taxes paid, Missouri again ranks low, the citizens of only one state pay less in state and local taxes in relation to personal income than do Missourians.

On the basis of Missouri's financial ability to support education in relation to per capita income, Missouri ranked 12th among the states and ranked even higher on the basis of income per school age child, ranking 10th in this category.

On the basis of these figures from the U.S. Department of Commerce it is evident that Missouri could easily support a better than average school program, but is not doing so.

We doubt that the average college in the U.S. has made as much progress during the last decade in getting ready for the kind of students the secondary schools are sending them, as the secondary schools have in providing a quality educational program for their graduates.

Too many colleges seem to operate on the theory that education consists of series of courses to which a student must be exposed. Actually education for today must consist of a changing and growing blend of learning, understanding and skill which the individual acquires and with which he should combine the practice of advancing his own learning or continuing his education as long as he lives.

The student who cannot adapt to this system of using the basic tools of education to learn on his own, probably has no place in college, just as the college which compartments its program only into factual rote process ought to be re-evaluated for its purpose in the modern world.

Some improvements which we plan for next year in the educational program will include greater and special emphasis on reading skills for all students. Reading laboratories, improved materials and, a hoped for, improvement in methods of instruction will be used if additional funds are available under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, passed recently by Congress.

Additional classes will be offered to keep the program up-to-date. There will be an expansion of the team or co-operative teaching at the secondary level, especially in World and American History and in English. Some team teaching will be conducted at all levels. Some courses will be lengthened and given greater emphasis because of what we believe is their greater relative importance in the education of our children and youth.

There will be considerable changes in the Trade-Technical School offerings to keep up with business and industrial practices and trends. This type of education is of no purpose unless it results in jobs and to do this requires constant change and improvement.

If approved by the State Department of Education, we will be able to offer employment to a limited number of boys and girls under the Neighborhood Youth Corps Program financed under the Economic Opportunity Act by the federal government. To qualify, these students must have a definite financial need in order to attend school next fall and come from homes whose total income is within certain limits in relation to family size.

If the program goes through, they will work under the supervision of school employees on the campus or in the buildings, doing some of the many tasks which are necessary to improve and maintain the school plant and program.

When Are You Eligible For Disability Insurance?

Monthly old - age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits in Scott County now top $200,974, Paul J. Palmer, District Manager of social security said today on releasing his annual county benefit data report.

The new monthly figure represents an increase of 3 per cent in a year.

This increase can be attributed to the changes in the law in recent years, as well as to the growth of our aged population," Mr. Palmer said. "This money stimulates county business; most of it is spent for food, clothing, and shelter."

"There is no longer any doubt. Social Security benefits are helping to stabilize the income and spending power of many residents in this area."

Monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940, and they have continued without interruption for years, accompanied by a steady growth in the number of beneficiaries. Palmer noted that as of December 31, 1964, some 3,674 residents of Scott County were collecting about $2,411,688 annually from social security, an increase of 1.6 percent over the same date in 1963.

More people in Scott County, he said, could draw social security benefits if they knew more about the law, and for that reason they are urged to visit or call the local social security office whenever they have a question concerning their benefits or responsibilities.

As of January 1965, in the nation at large, more than 19 million beneficiaries were receiving payments at the rate of more than a billion dollars per month.

The average monthly old-age retirement benefit in January was $77.57 for all States, while in the State of Missouri the average was $74.52, Mr. Palmer said.

The following table shows the number and amount of each type of monthly benefit paid in Scott county, as of December 31, 1964 with the Beneficiary Group, Numbers of Beneficiaries and Total of Payments in that order:

Retired worker 1,733, $112,721.00; Wife or husband, 540, $17,452.00; Widow or Widower 309, $18,430.00; Mothers & Children 682, $29,950.00; Disabled workers & dependents 401, $21,919.00

The year 1965 marks several milestones in the history of social security. The January 1965 benefit payment marked the 300th month of payment since monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940. The number of monthly benefits currently being paid will reach the 20 million mark in 1965. In addition, August is the 30th anniversary of the signing of the Social Security Act by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Palmer said.

Figures provided by the Social Security Administration show that as of December 31, 1964 a number of area people were receiving benefits under the disability program of the Social Security Administration.

Figures for four counties in this area are listed below with the Number of Disabled Workers, The Number of Wives of Disabled Workers, the Number of Children of Disabled Workers, and the Amount Received Monthly in that order:

Scott, 197, $16,875.00; 53, $1,476.00; 151, $3,568.00 - Total 401, $21,919.00

Stoddard, 182, $15,713.00; 60, $1,796.00; 167, $3,988.00 - Total 409, $21,497.00.

Mississippi,123, $9,833.00; 38, $804.00; 124, $2,245.00 - Total 285, $12,882.00.

New Madrid, 166, $12,883.00; 64, $1,462.00; 210, $3,554.00 - Total 440, $17,899.00

The totals for all social security beneficiaries (receiving aged and disability benefits with their entitled dependents as well as survivors of deceased workers) were shown as follows with the number of beneficiaries and the amount received monthly: Scott, 3,674, $200,974.00; New Madrid 3,169, $148,085.00; Mississippi 2,293, $112,392.00; Stoddard 3,589, $188,682.00

William J. Kappel (r.) of Fort Wayne, Ind., who recently became the 20-millionth social security beneficiary, chats with Elias C. Bridegam at his home in the nearby town of Woodburn. Bridegam, a 90-year-old retired machine operator, is one of the few persons who has received social security benefits from the first month they were issued in January 1940. Kappel, 65, retired at the end of March after 42 years of employment with the municipally owned Fort Wayne City Utilities system.

Over 52 million American workers have made regular contributions through social security taxes and have earned protection against loss of earnings because of long lasting disability.

The disability provisions of the law require that a worker have 20 quarters of coverage under social security in the 40 quarters which end with the date of disability. Stated more simply, we can say that this involves five years of fairly regular employment or self-employment in the 10 years up to the date of the disabling illness or injury.

To be considered disabled, a worker's condition must be severe enough to prevent him from doing any substantial work for the indefinite future. This does not mean that a disability claimant must be a hopeless invalid or at death's door. Seventy-eight percent of those receiving checks are ambulatory and able to attend to most household activities.

Workers who believe they meet these requirements should get in touch with the nearest social security office immediately. A person's date of disability can be established not more than 18 months prior to the date a claim is filed. Delay in filing may mean the loss of some or all disability benefits. One very significant feature of the disability program is that all claimants are automatically referred to the State Vocational rehabilitation office. Many are assisted by this agency and provided prosthetic appliances or braces to help overcome their physical impairments. Others are given special training in new types of work, and, with the new skills learned, are able to return to work and become self-supporting.

The Social Security Administration desires that all disabled claimants make every possible effort to rehabilitate themselves, whether on their own initiative or through vocational rehabilitation services. The law provides for a trial work period of nine months, not necessarily consecutive, while a claimant may work in spite of serious physical impairments. Benefit payments continue during these months and can extend an additional three months until it is established the worker has overcome his handicaps and can continue in gainful work.

Recently, a young mother of six children came into the social security office for help. Her husband hadn't died but had been committed to the State Hospital. The mother was desperate. In this day and age, how do you raise a family of six children when the breadwinner is ill? This question suddenly had to be answered by her. Where is the money going to come from? The mother could go to work - but with six children? Well, it has been done but who will care for the children during the mother's working hours?

A thousand questions must be running through the thoughts of this young mother as she performs the necessary task of finding a way for herself and her family in a world suddenly over-burdened with problems that we hope many of us will never have to face - as if her husband's sickness wasn't enough to worry about!

There was no substantial private insurance available to this young mother. She reported that about all they could save went into paying for a small life insurance policy on her husband. There was no sickness and accident insurance except for the payments she had already received from a policy carried on her husband by the company for which he worked. These payments lasted only 6 months and her husband had not been able to work for nearly a year.

What has always been of great concern to those who work for social security is why people who are eligible for payments wait so long to come to the office to claim benefits for which they have paid. This mother had been drifting from one place to another looking for help. Not knowing exactly where to turn and overlooking the social security office - the one place where substantial help was available to her because her husband had paid for the protection during his working lifetime. This mother possibly never would have come to the office except that when her husband was received at the State Hospital, they notified the Social Security Administration that he might be eligible for disability social security payments.

It was found that he was not only eligible but that his family members were also entitled to collect monthly payments. The payments amounted to over $200 a month and because he had been disabled nearly a year ago, there were 6 monthly payments already due.

This mother's story is not an unusual case. There are many like it even though the Social Security Administration continually urges anyone who is disabled to come to the social security office as soon as possible after they become disabled.

Disability monthly payments do not start until 6 full months after the person becomes disabled but by coming early the disabled worker and his family can make sure that the payments will reach them when they are due.

Heart Fund Enjoying Good Year

From information compiled by the 1965 Heart Fund Campaign it has been learned that the Missouri Heart Association is having another excellent year from all 106 counties that are serviced by the State Office. Of these counties, 44 have exceeded their previous totals and 17 are within $150 of their 1964 totals.

Of the Counties in Southeast Missouri only Stoddard County has extended over the previous total. In that County they have collected $2,600. Scott County collected $1,600; New Madrid County, $1,000; Mississippi County, $1,425.29; Dunklin County, $2,105; and Cape County, $8,000.

Men's capacities have never been measured; nor are we to judge of what he can do by any precedents, so little has been tried. — Henry David Thoreau

20 Years Ago America Learned Of Tragedy

WASHINGTON AP--Twenty years ago this month, the nation learned of one of its most grievous losses of World War II.

A terrible battered and burned aircraft carrier, the Franklin, arrived in New York harbor, under her own power, after a roundabout cruise from the Pacific, on May 17, 1945.

With the return to home port, the Navy disclosed that the Franklin, a huge Essex-class carrier, had been hit by Japanese bombs 60 miles off Japan the preceding March 19, and had been turned into an exploding ammunition dump.

In eight hours of hell, 724 men were lost. An additional 265 were wounded.

One of the Marine pilots aboard the "Big Ben" when the enemy bombs hit was Lt. Carroll K. Faught, who was listed on the official records as lost in action but actually survived and is now a government official.

But Faught was the only pilot in his ready room to live. He showed up at Mare Island, Calif., less one leg, some three months after the disaster.

Faught now is special assistant to the undersecretary of commerce and director of the office of emergency transportation.

Faught recalls that on the morning of March 19, 1945, the Franklin's aircraft and crews were preparing to launch a fighter sweep over Japan when an observation plane reported sighting the enemy battleship Yamoto steaming out of the Bay of Japan.

Orders were changed. Big Ben's pilots were to get the Yamato. This meant a delay in takeoff to permit briefing of crews on new navigation information, and changing of the aircraft armament.

It was this delay in launching that led to the disaster.

As it happened, most of the Franklin's planes were still on the flight deck, loaded with bombs, rockets, torpedoes and machine-gun ammunition, when a lone Japanese dive bomber-its approach unnoted -- streaked down through the early morning haze.

The Japanese plane dropped two armor-piercing 500-pound bombs. One hit near the forward elevator and the other on the aft part of the ship. Both sank deep into her before they exploded.

Faught recalls that the pilots of his squadron were in Ready Room 5, being briefed on the new mission, when the first bomb exploded on the deck directly below.

He said the floor of the room rose like a giant mushroom, and crushed every other pilot there against the ceiling.

Faught was fortunate enough to be standing close to a wall, looking at a map. But both legs and his right arm were broken in the first blast.

Faught described his experience later, in a letter to his mother in Laramie, Wyo., in these terms:

"So I crawled out on the catwalk. I sat there for a while and there were explosions that bounced me up and down.

"I didn't have a life jacket, but when the fire started getting out where we were, I turned to Jones and said, 'I'm going over,' and I jumped.

"It was 85 feet to the water and I thought I would never hit, but it wasn't as bad as I thought it would be. The water was pretty cold, but not bad.

"I swam around a while and then I found a seat cushion out of one of the planes and I hung onto it.

"There were guys all around me drowning and there wasn't a thing I could do but watch. After 2 1/2 hours, I was picked up by a destroyer named the Marshall.

"It's the best ship in the whole Navy. Boy, was I glad to see it.

"Well, the next day we transferred to a cruiser. They had a hospital and three swell doctors; one of them was an orthopedist which was really lucky.

"My left leg didn't seem to have any circulation. After four days they operated on it and found the artery was dead and shattered, so the next day they told me about it.

"The doctor said it would have to come off at the knee and I said, 'Okay, if it's dead, it's dead.'

Commanders of other ships braved the explosions and fire to move in close, pick up survivors and help fight the flames.

St. Francis Hospital To Be Relocated

At the annual Hospital Week Joint Medical Executive Committee and Lay Advisory Board dinner meeting last evening Sister M. Redempta, hospital administrator, announced that the Franciscan Sisters who operate St. Francis Hospital have acquired twenty-one acres of land on the Northeast corner of Gordonville and Mount Auburn Roads in the vicinity of Holiday Inn and the junction of Interstate 55 for the purpose of building a new St. Francis Hospital.

The acquisition of the aforementioned site climaxed about two and a half years of research for a suitable site for hospital construction, as well as, an intensive study on the feasibility of renovation and expansion on the present site versus relocation. "We are satisfied that the selected area is an ideal hospital site and that it is located so that it is readily accessible to Cape Girardeau citizens, as well as, to many people from the surrounding counties and cities the hospital serves," commented the Board.

Sister M. Redempta stated that the acquisition of the land is a first step but, at this time there are no definite plans as to the hospital construction, timing, etc.

The Merry Month of May

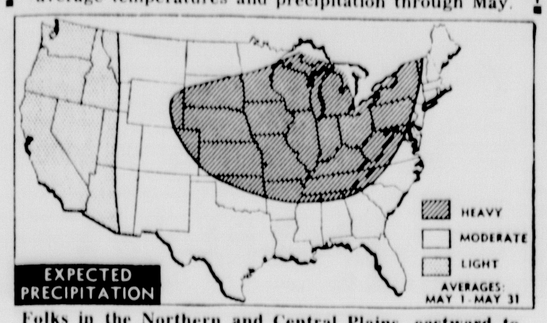
Map shows Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperatures and precipitation through May.



Folks in the Northern and Central Plains, eastward to the Appalachians, should keep raincoats and umbrellas handy from now until June.

Gov. Doesn't Think Bus Bill Will Pass

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes told representatives of the fair school bus bill committee today he did not think they had a chance of winning passage of a bill this session to give free bus transportation to private and parochial school students.

He said, in addition, he didn't think it would be proper for him to intervene in behalf of the bill this late in the session.

The House Education Committee killed the controversial bill Monday night on a 30-10 vote. A similar proposal has been pigeonholed in Senate committee for months.

The proposal regularly has met with defeat in legislative sessions for many years.

Delegates, including Francis Hulshof of Portageville, chairman, said they were considering an initiative petition to put the issue before the voters as soon as possible.

They also were considering the possibility of waiting until next session, when reapportionment will make both the House and Senate more heavily metropolitan. They told the governor they thought urban legislators would be more friendly to their proposal than rural legislators.

They also discussed the possibility of tacking their plan on a pending school transportation bill.

They said they were asking the governor for a redress of grievance. Later they said the governor was friendly and cooperative but told them they had little chance of getting any favorable legislative action this session.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am not trying to pass myself off as a perfect wife. I have my faults the same as anyone else. But I am not simple-minded and I do have my pride.

My husband is very fussy about what I pack for his lunch. I try to send him off every day with a bucket that is nourishing and tasty.

Several weeks ago I forgot to put mustard on his pastrami sandwiches and the way that man carried on you would have thought I had tried to poison him. Now he pulls the lunches apart and checks. Then I have to put everything back together and repack it.

He hasn't found anything to complain about since the mustard incident, but he keeps tearing up his lunches just to make me feel inferior. Of course I get mad and yell at him and he yells back and we start off everyday with a fight. How can this be stopped? — SUBNORMAL

Dear S-N: Tell your husband you will write a list of everything you plan to put in his lunch bucket and that you will check it off as it goes in. Then he can look at the list and leave the lunch alone.

Some wives don't want to put a lunch together once, let alone twice. It is inconsiderate of him to double your work.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to "Rattled Robert" — the boy whose father insists that he make business calls on the telephone. The boy is supposed to find the number and get the party on the line. Then his father comes to the phone. The boy said he hated to do it and asked you if it was fair. You said "Yes. It is fair, and it is also good training."

I am 14, too, and I know how this kid must feel. Foolish is the only word I can think of. I agree it might be good training but I don't think the man should train his son at the expense of business people. Also, if the boy can't think of anything to say the father should tell him. — ANOTHER RATTLED TEENAGER

Dear Rattled One: Many adults, as well as teens, wrote to gripe about my advice. I even heard from a telephone company supervisor who said it was not "good manners to impose children on business associates."

Sorry, friends, but a 14-year-old is no child. A 14-year-old should be able to say, "Good evening, Mr. Swanson. This is Robert Klienpell. I'm calling for my father. Will you hold on for just a moment, please?"

The father should take over instantly and not expect the boy to make small talk with Mr. Swanson. I should have made this point clear in my advice.

Dear Ann Landers: I never thought I'd have to write to you but my husband has a habit that is driving me to distraction.

Jake works the late shift. He leaves for work at 11:20 p.m. Every night as he walks out the door he says, "Bye, Honey. Go to bed."

Where else does he think I could go at that hour? Every time he says that dumb farewell I feel like knocking his head off. How can I get him to break the habit? — SCREAMING MIMI

Dear Mimi: You'll never get him to break the habit, but you can reduce your own irritability by having a different reply for him every night — and the nuttier the better.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Summer Courses Are Waning

Students who are interested in taking summer courses at the Sikeston High School during vacation are advised to contact Mr. Harold Kiehne, principal of the Sikeston High School.

At present there are not enough students enrolled in any one class for the special session to be offered.

Rebel Leader Hopes For Near Settlement With Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic AP -- A spokesman for the Dominican rebels indicated Wednesday that a settlement with the rival military-civilian junta may be near. But he held out for dismissal of some leading military men backing the junta.

"There's every reason to hope we are near a settlement," said the rebel foreign minister, Jottin Cury. He spoke after a conference between Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the rebel leader, and two members of the peace commission of the Organization of American States, Ricardo C. Colombo of Argentina and Carlos Garcia Bauer of Guatemala.

Cury added that a peaceful solution depends on the dismissal of some key officers backing the junta. The rebels' chief target is Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, who led the resistance to the revolt.

Six of eight high-ranking officers removed by the junta in a peace move arrived in Puerto Rico aboard a Dominican navy frigate. But Caamano said previously their dismissal was not enough to satisfy him.

Latin-American diplomatic circles in Washington reported a broadly based interim government embracing both government and rebel leaders may be in sight. But Cury, speaking to newsmen, ruled out a coalition government.

He said, "Our objective is the restoration of the constitution," and the acceptance of a coalition "with elements from the other side would be a repudiation of constitutional objectives for which we have fought."

Cury said the junta has no legality or popular support "except that extended by the U.S. military."

Caamano told a news conference he would ask OAS permission to establish a corridor through the U. S. lines surrounding the rebel stronghold in downtown Santo Domingo.

U.S. Marines and paratroopers encircled the downtown area last week, and many armed rebels were cut off in northern sections of the city.

Caamano said he would go to the OAS with charges that U.S. paratroopers were sniping from vantage points across the Ozama River. He said one sharpshooter killed 22 Dominicans from a perch atop a grain silo overlooking downtown streets.

He also called on the OAS to make an urgent on the spot investigation to prove or disprove U. S. charges that Communists have control of major influence over his movement.

He added that he would accept the establishment of an inter-American police force in the Dominican Republic -- a key element in moving toward a solution.

In New York, the U. N. Security Council sought a compromise as the council neared a decision on a Soviet complaint of U. S. armed interference in the Dominican Republic. But it appeared that a majority could not be mustered for any definite action by the council.

One person was reported killed and three others injured Wednesday night during a demonstration in Buenos Aires, Argentina, protesting U. S. intervention in the Dominican Republic.

Library Club Holds First Meeting Of Year

The Sikeston Library Board had their first meeting of the fiscal year Monday May 10, 1965. Reverend Edward Watson, chairman, presided over the meeting with the following members present, Mrs. Donald Bohannon, Mr. Norval Cannon, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee, Mr. Richard Smith, Mr. Franklin Struwe, Mrs. John Hux, Reverend Harold Belsheim, and Mrs. Harry White.

The circulation report was submitted by Mrs. Lenora Norman. The report showed 5501 books checked out during the month of April. Of this number 1919 were adult and 3582 juvenile. The current periodicals checked out for the month were 247.

There was discussion about the new Guided Summer Activity Program beginning Tuesday, June 1st in the basement of the library under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Barnett. It will be for children who have completed the first grade this year through the children who have finished the sixth grade. There will be creative story writing, puppet making, music appreciation, read aloud stories and a story hour. The schedule will be printed later to inform those who are interested.

Charged With Stealing $400,000 From Father

By MARGARET WILSON

GREENVILLE, S. C. AP--Charged with stealing $400,000 from her father at her mother's bidding, the brilliant daughter of a wealthy Greenville manufacturer is fighting extradition to South Carolina.

Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell, 19, whose IQ is 183, surrendered to authorities in Miami, Fla., Wednesday but refused to waive extradition.

Mrs. Farrell, a graduate of the University of Miami at the age of 16, is charged with housebreaking and grand larceny in the tangled case.

Solicitor prosecutor B. C. Thomas, Jr., said the total amount taken from an executive restroom at the John D. Hollingsworth plant April 6, 1964, was around $400,000 but "may reach $550,000," None of it has been recovered.

Her mother, Eula Bennett Hollingsworth, is charged with housebreaking, grand larceny and conspiracy. She is free on $15,000 bond and is in a Greenville hospital listed only as a "medical patient."

Both women were implicated in the theft by Jeffrey Bruce Farrell, 21, in Greenville General Sessions Court Monday. He pleaded guilty to the theft and received a five - year prison term, suspended to four years probation.

Farrell testified Mrs. Hollingsworth, estranged from her husband since January of 1964, had promised him $100,000 to carry out the theft but paid him only $6,000. He said she supplied him with keys to the Hollingsworth plant and Mrs. Farrell, his sister-in-law, accompanied him.

Hollingsworth kept the money in small bills in seven bags in a restroom cabinet never was brought out.

Mrs. Theodosia Kuper, a friend of Mrs. Hollingsworth who was present when the money was divided, according to Farrell's testimony, was charged today with being an accessory. She was released on her own recognizance. She has been associated with a Protestant missionary office in El Monte, Mexico.

J. P. Strom, chief of the South Carolina State Law Enforcement Division, quoted Mrs. Kuper as saying she kept the six or seven bags of money a short while after the theft. He quoted her as saying she received $5,000 and a kiss on the cheek from Mrs. Hollingsworth.

Philip Madina, who was Farrell's lawyer and now is representing Mary Jane Farrell, challenged the charges of a theft at the closely guarded textile machinery plant.

Madina cited a partnership suit Mrs. Hollingsworth filed against her husband after their separation and noted the theft of the money was not reported until this past January, months after the alleged burglary.

Thomas said the partnership suit was terminated but admitted Hollingsworth did not report the theft of $400,000 until January. A camera, papers and other valuables were the only items reported stolen after the April burglary.

HEAVY

The spokesman said government troops first discovered the bodies of 20 Viet Cong in the dense undergrowth. Apparently they were victims of air strikes.

As the bodies were found, the Viet Cong opened up with mortars. A sharp firefight followed, but the Viet Cong broke off contact.

The two wounded Americans refused to be evacuated. One was hit in the leg and the other in the arm.

In the Da Nang Air Base area, U.S. Marines ambushed a Viet Cong unit probing U.S. defenses and apparently wounded some of the Reds before they got away.

The Marines said eight or 10 Red guerrillas walked into the ambush before dawn near Le My village, eight miles west of Da Nang. The Marines moved into the area two days ago in a determined effort to clear it of the Viet Cong.

The Marines opened fire with automatic weapons. When they searched the area after daylight they found a number of blood trails but no bodies.

Marines in the Le My area amed up with Vietnamese forces and political agents Wednesday in an attempt to root out Viet Cong members from among the villagers.

One young girl pointed out several men she said were Communists. One of these got up and ran. The Marines opened fire, killing the man. Six others were seized as suspected Viet Cong.

Mrs. Nora F. Greer Services Today

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Services for Mrs. Nora Frances Greer, 81, formerly of East Prairie and Sikeston, were held today at 2:30 in the Ford and Sons Funeral Home, with the Rev. L. E. Garner officiating. Burial was in the Sikeston City Cemetery.

She was born in Sikeston March 1, 1884, and was married to Albert Greer of Sikeston in 1902. He preceded her in death on April 5, 1958. The family moved to Cape Girardeau 14 years ago from East Prairie.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Blackwell and Mrs. Glenda Rogers, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Velma Mitchell, Garden Grove, Calif.; two sons, Albert D. Greer and Glenn Greer, Granite City, Ill.; eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Selma Street from Matthews Street to Kathleen Street in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 3rd day of May, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 188 Inc. 194

Senate Goes On Bill Passing Spree

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- In a big burst of bill passing the Senate sent to the House yesterday a bill to increase the strength of the Highway Patrol from 505 men to 650.

The vote was unanimous, 27-0, and there was a debate.

Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner told a Senate committee the patrol could recruit and train only 75 men a year.

Another bill passed and sent to the House would increase the pay of state public service commissioners from $13,500 to $16,000.

A bill to allow liquor to be sold at plush lake resorts with 80 units or more barely squeaked through, 18-13, the minimum. It now goes to the House. Opposition in the Senate came mostly from outside rural areas.

Other bills moved to the House included ones to:

Let cities and counties use punch card ballots which could be run through a computer for instant tabulation.

Allow counties to levy a 20 cent tax, if the voters approve, to finance property re-evaluation.

Clear the way for a $40 million sports complex in Jackson County.

Passed and sent to the governor was a bill to set up a central records management and archives service under the secretary of state.

Substantially the same proposal as recommended by the "Little Hoover" commission, it would place state records management under a director, instead of requiring each state agency to maintain its own, as is the current practice.

American Economy Expanding

NEW YORK - Right about now the American economy is chalking up a record for peacetime expansion. And there are quite a few people busy taking bows; government economists and planners, money managers, businessmen, consumers.

It's in the middle of the month that the government takes many important business soundings - industrial production, employment and unemployment, length of the working week, average factory takehome pay, personal incomes, and the like.

And all signs point to May making the grade as the 51st month of growth without major interruption. This tops the old peacetime mark of 50 months set in the 1930s when the economy was recovering from the depth of the Great Depression.

In this middle of May, available signs from weekly reports of key industries and retail trade indicate that the economy as a whole is still on the upgrade. How fast the pace will be determined when the statistics are published a month hence.

The question right now is: What has made this record expansion possible and kept it from lagging?

Business takes a bow on the grounds that by and large it has avoided the excesses that have spelled trouble in past cyclical upswings.

It has expanded its plants and invested in new equipment, but with caution that so far has built up little, if any, excess productive capacity.

Corporations are building up inventories, but this time the increase in stocks is pretty well in line with the gain in sales volume and consumer demand. And most corporations have been able to finance their growth without excess borrowing or securities flotations.

Consumers can take a bow, too. They haven't panicked at disturbing international news. They have spent a little more each year, but pretty well in line with their increased incomes. They have taken on a record total of consumer debt, but this, too, seems to be in line with their propsects for repayment.

Government officials like to point to a new climate, an improved relationship between government and business. Washington has warned against unjustified price increases and also against over-generous wage increases. Washington has given many businessmen the conviction that it doesn't regard the making of profits as a sin. Government seems to agree with businessmen that profits are a good thing for the economy when they mean expansion and the absorption of higher production costs without inflationary price increases.

And the fiscal planners are taking a deep bow right now. They point to federal tax cuts despite Treasury deficits as spurring consumer spending and business expansion to the good of everyone.

The money managers also claim a victory in keeping short-term interest rates high enough to discourage the flight of dollars to foreign shores, while maintaining low enough long-term rates to keep the economy moving forward.

Protective Tariff

The second Act of Congress was enactment of the first protective tariff. The Act was signed by President Washington on July 4, 1789.

POET PICTURED—Italian poet Dante Alighieri is pictured on this commemorative postage stamp, to be issued July 17 in San Francisco. The stamp honors the 700th anniversary of the birth of the famed poet.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
May 13, 1915

Blackberry winter landed on us Tuesday morning with both feet. The hail storm north and east of town lowered the thermometer to the point where a fire felt very comfortable.

Residents of the new additions to Sikeston on the east will have another trade and service center after Thursday, when the grocery and lunch stand of P. H. Gross and sons opens on East Greer street. The building is divided into two store rooms. Mr. Gross' business is in the east half and he has equipped the west room with drains for a butcher shop.

Thirty - six seniors, half of them boys, will be graduated from Sikeston High School next Thursday night, according to Supt. Roy V. Ellise. They are: Ruth Bateman, Alfreda Baty, Fanny Becker, Thelma Colley, Vivian Dye, Kathryn Hanner, Louise Hensley, June Houchens, Georgia Houchens, Vivian Jackson, Lois Kilgore, Lucille Mount, Mary Peek, Ruby Richards, Geneva Westcoat, Beulah Williams, Louise Wilson.

Homer Decker, Paul Gentle, Will Hayden, John Houchens, Earl Johnson, J. R. Jones, John Meldrum, Louis Moles, Clyde Nicholas, Eugene Potashnick, Donald Story, Rudolph York, Bernard Crain, Mort Griffith, Gilbert Hopper, James Howell, John Wedel, and Donald Milem.

A. C. Johnson's blacksmith shop has on May 1, 1925, been taken under the new management of W. F. Cullins. All kinds of blacksmith work.

The funeral of John H. Davis, who died Sunday night at the home of his son here, will be held at 415 North Street Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. T. B. Mather conducting the services.

Arrangements whereby a Sikeston Golf Club could rent the property of the Southeast Missouri Fair Association for a golf course here, were made Friday night at a meeting here. Committees have arranged terms of rental of 40 acres, the keeper's house and the dance pavillion for a reasonable price. They also have written to two sporting good firms in St. Louis for quotations of prices on laying out a course. The ground leased by the Fair Association is level, but is said to have more slopes than that of the Cairo 5-hole course, which is on 20 acres.

May 13, 1935

Mrs. G. H. Lewis received a message last Friday night stating that her father, J. A. Gillum of Indian Mound, Tenn., had passed away on Friday afternoon.

Earl Asher, who was severely burned Wednesday when he tried to start a fire in his stove with kerosene, was taken in the Welsh ambulance to the Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau Friday night.

A. Graber, father of Louis Graber of Sikeston, died in St. Louis shortly after noon Monday.

Graham's academy of beauty culture and cosmotology will open on June 1, Sam Graham owner and manager, announced Tuesday.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. (Matthew 13:20, ASV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the privilege of prayer. Teach us to pray when each of us is alone and when we are together as a family. Increase our faith in Thee, and grant us power to build and sustain a Christian home. Keep us in the spirit of prayer. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Armed Forces

U. S. FORCES, VIETNAM (AHTNC)--Army PFC Donald W. Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ulyess L. Freeman, 204 Bynum St., Sikeston, Mo., was assigned to the U. S. Army Support Command, Vietnam, April 29, as a mechanic.

The support command advises the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam on training, use of equipment and tactical operations.

The 18 - year - old soldier entered the Army in July 1964 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

He is a 1964 graduate of Sikeston High School.

"Wherever you turn nowadays you find progress stymied by the curse of too much government." — F. E. Kummer, Eaton (Colo.) Herald

Estimates reveal that 1.4 million new ulcer cases are treated each year in the United States.

Beer In Denmark Is Becoming Scarce

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — You can still get a beer in Denmark — but it isn't easy.

The Scandinavian nation today entered the 11th day of a strike by its 6,000 brewer workers with no end in sight. Which makes the foamy brew the chief topic of conversation in a nation of 4.5 million people who normally drink 3.5 million bottles a day.

You can get a beer in just a few places. One inn outside Copenhagen will serve you two but no more. In another, you can drink as much as you want — if you can find a seat at the bar.

The owners of these places were clever enough to hoard thousands of bottles in the week before the strike started May 2. One of them has enough beer for three weeks.

Other bars sell foreign beer at relatively high prices because they import it privately.

A private plane travels back and forth daily between southern Denmark and Luebeck, in north Germany, bringing beer to thirsty Danes who gladly pay 150 per cent more than the usual price.

The striking brewery workers have not tried to stop the imports.

If a Dane can't get beer, he'll even drink milk. The dairies gleefully report an increase of 10 per cent in sales, and there's even an occasional shortage.

The breweries are losing money and so are the strikers. The government so far has lost $3 million in taxes.

The strikers want a pay increase of 2 cents an hour. The brewers have refused to pay it and haven't said publicly what they are willing to pay.

Brewery workers now average $1.10 an hour.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Thursday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1965. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, the first permanent English settlement in America—Jamestown, Va.—was founded by Capt. Christopher Newport.

On this date

In 1788, the Tammany Society of New York, the grandfather of U.S. political organizations, held its first meeting.

In 1846, Congress declared that war with Mexico already existed and voted $10 million to carry it on.

In 1915, the United States protested the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine.

In 1940, Prime Minister Winston Churchill made his famous "blood, toil, tears and sweat" speech in Parliament.

Ten years ago—The Soviet Union and Red satellite nations' leaders were meeting in Warsaw to prepare a mutual defense treaty.

Five years ago—The prime ministers of the British Commonwealth nations ended a conference in London after postponing a showdown on South Africa's racial policies.

One year ago—Cuban exiles were reported attacking the eastern Cuban port of Pilon and destroying a sugar mill.

Senate Approves Governor For Two Four Year Terms

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes won a resounding victory in the Missouri Senate Wednesday.

By a surprising 26-5 vote, the Senate approved the governor's proposed constitutional change to allow a governor to serve two successive four-year terms.

The measure now goes on the ballot for the voters to decide, either at the 1966 general election or a special election before then.

The Senate's action came only a few hours after Hearnes had conceded at least temporary defeat in his battle with Treasurer M. E. Morris to get new depositories for the state's interest-free demand deposits.

The governor said he accepted Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson's ruling that Morris could not be forced by legal action to submit a new list of banks. Any change will have to come from legislative action or a constitutional amendment, the governor concluded.

The lopsided Senate vote came after the Senate had defeated three proposed amendments, including one to let a governor serve as long as he could keep getting elected.

Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, the majority floor leader, headed the opposition to changing the constitution. He made it clear he was not criticizing Hearnes but said he feared the proposal would open the door to machine rule in Missouri and one man domination of the state government.

Several of the governor's aides were in the gallery during the debate and Hearnes himself had been in the Senate corridors earlier.

It was obvious from the outset that the way had been well prepared for the proposal — the same as in the House, where it whisked through with a minimum of opposition.

One senator said he had been buttonholed by more of his constituents on the governorship succession issue than on any other problem before the legislature.

On the question of the bank depositories, Hearnes indicated he had not decided what his next step would be. He said he would study the problem and perhaps recommend to the special legislative session next year whether to tackle it through legislation or a constitutional change.

He said some change is needed to correct "this long continued favoritism to the disadvantage of many other qualified Missouri banks."

"These banks will continue to profit as long as this situation exists," he said, "through existing contracts made before I became governor."

The state treasurer presented the same list of state depositories as his predecessor—the Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City, which Hearnes has tagged as the power center of the so-called Democratic Establishment, Mercantile Trust of St. Louis and Commerce Trust of Kansas City.

Hearnes said during 249 banking days last year, Central Trust had an average of more than $23 million a day in interest free deposits.

One Felony New Madrid Magistrate Court Session

NEW MADRID: Only one felony was heard, but a wide variety of offenses crowded the docket of the New Madrid County Magistrate Court this week as Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville presided.

Leon Burell, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, waived his preliminary hearing in the court and was ordered held for trial in the Circuit Court with his bond set at $500.

Four persons were fined and sentenced on charges arising out of use of intoxicants. Henry Rex Griffin paid $120, was sentenced to serve six months in jail, and had his driver's license revoked for one year as a result of a charge of driving while intoxicated. Danny Bennett paid $75 for supplying beer to minors. Bennett was also sentenced to serve 30 days in jail, then placed on probation for one year. Possession of intoxicating beer brought a fine of $121, total, to Ervin Cliff and David Kindred. Each was also sentenced to serve six months in jail, then placed on probation for six months.

Other lesser charges were: Herman Wilson, petit larceny, $25, 30 days in jail and six months probation; Wallace Carden, disturbing the peace, $16; Sylvester Johnson, improper registration of a motor vehicle and unlicensed operator, $16; and Frank E. Hunsperger, public drunk, $25. Fifteen truckers were fined for exceeding legal load limits. Mailing Mackine Company paid $105 for an overage of 1600 pounds, and Home Oil Company paid $100 for an overload of 1550 pounds. All others paid amounts less than $100.

Other offenses were: improper registration of a motor vehicle — Frankie Joe Coffee and Murray Lane Ready Mix, $11 each, Homer Green, $15; excess speed — Donald R. Willingham, $20; vehicle overwidth — Bert McWaters, $11; careless and imprudent driving — Boyd Matthews, $15, Edward Rudd Crebs, $25; vehicle overlength — Utley Lumber Company, Thunderbird Boats, Roy Carter, Inc., James M. Franklin, Tractor Transports, Inc., (two counts); American Box Company, Bill Hunter, James T. Brandl, and Diamond Transit Company, $15 each; no operator's license — Elmer W. Book and T. W. Graham, $15 each.

Young Democrats Elect Officers

The Young Democratic Club of Scott County met last night at the Rustic Rock Inn. The principal item of business for the meeting was the election of officers for the new year. Elected were: Bill Lewis, president; John Sides, vice - president; Fielding Potashnick, secretary; and Pete Malone, treasurer.

Another important item of business taken up was plans for representation of the county at the State Young Democratic Convention which will be held June 4-5 at Columbia. President Lewis will attend as the official Scott County representative, accompanied by delegates John D. Hux, Jr., Daniel Norton, C.D. Matthews IV, John Sides, Charles Blanton III, Bill Scarbrough, and possibly other members of the organization.

Anyone interested in joining the Young Democrats should contact any of the officers for information. The next meeting will be announced at a later date.

"Daddy" Gives Total of 1,323

C. E. "Daddy" Felker and his Mrs. have announced that they have given a total of 1,323 Dog-Wood and Red Bud Trees to individuals and organizations throughout the City of Sikeston.

Out of the fine group of trees given away, a total of 446 trees was donated to the churches of the City. "Daddy" announces that there are churches that are yet to get their trees, but he expects to reach all of them by this coming November as well as the Sikeston Schools and City Parks.

Trees out of the total number of 1,323 that were given to individuals ran up to a number of 843 trees. The American Legion received 12 trees, the Knights of Columbus got 12, the V. F. W. 6 and the Masonic Lodge received 4.

Some three years ago Mr. Felker planted Dog-Wood Trees at the City Administration office, Masonic Lodge and the First Assembly of God Church, all of which bloomed this spring.

If "Daddy" keeps this up, Sikeston will truly be a City of blooming trees if each person that has received these trees will take special care. Incidentally, "Daddy" warns that these trees require a huge amount of water in order to keep alive.

Bankruptcy Filed Against Plez Lewis Co.

St. Joseph Lead Company has filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy today against Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., contracting firm of St. Clair, Mo., and Crestwood.

Last Tuesday, May 4, the Internal Revenue Service filed Federal Tax Liens of $236,799 against Arthur Lewis and Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., according to the St. Louis Globe Democrat of St. Louis, Mo.

The Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., firm were the contractors that built the Holiday Inn here in Sikeston. It is not known if they presently own the Inn.

The St. Joseph Lead Company has charged that the Lewis Firm owes it $544,434 in overments for work on a mine near Bunker in Reynolds County.

Places To Watch On SEMO Roads

From information assembled through the State Highway Commission district offices and the State Highway Patrol it has been learned that there are several places on Southeast Missouri roadways that should be approached with caution by motorists.

In Cape Girardeau and Scott Counties, there is new grading taking place adjacent to pavement on the Interstate Route 55.

In Scott and New Madrid Counties there is traffic using new construction from Interstate 57 to Route 77 near Benton. Watch for men and equipment.

On U. S. Route 60 there is resurfacing taking place from the Mississippi River Bridge to the Junction of Route EE. Watch for men and equipment.

In and near Dexter and Bloomfield, there is grading taking place on Route 77.

On Route 77 in Mississippi County there is grading going on adjacent to the existing pavement.

In New Madrid County on Route 80 there is new grading and bridge work at the new location of Interstate Route 55. (By Pass is in affect.)

On Route 105 in Mississippi County there is new grading taking place on existing pavement.

Mr. Raymond Jones, Field Representative from the Cape Girardeau Social Security Office, will be at the Courtroom, Police Dept. Bldg., 140 N. Prairie, Sikeston, Monday, May 17, at 10 a.m. DST.

Kelly Closing Exercises Begin With Awards

BENTON -- The closing activities at the Thomas W. Kelly High School will include Awards night, Tuesday, May 18; Baccalaureate Service Sunday, May 23; and Commencement Thursday, May 27th. Each of these events will start at 8:00 p.m.

This is the first time that a special night has been set for the distribution of all awards. Formerly the Athletic, Music, Attendance, and certain other awards and letters were presented at a student assembly with other awards and scholarships presented as a part of the Commencement program. The Awards Night has been added this year to enable a greater number of parents to share in the honor accorded students. Entertainment will be furnished by the band, Girls Glee Club, and the Clarinet Quartet.

The Reverend James J. Holmes of the St. Dennis Church of Benton will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon.

Dr. Jack D. Vincent, professor of Education at Southeast Missouri State College, will be the principal speaker at the Commencement exercises for the class of sixty-four seniors.

Crumley To Head Student Council

LILBOURN--James Crumley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Crumley of Marston and a junior at Lilbourn High School, earlier this week was elected president of the school's Student Council for the 1965-66 school year.

Young Crumley was chosen from a field of three in an all-school election.

Crumley is active in chorus, band, FFA, and has been a participant in Student Council affairs since its formation two years ago. He is an accomplished actor and is a featured soloist in most school musical programs.

Other officers elected were Paula Warner, vice-president, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner of Lilbourn; Paulette Crumley, secretary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Crumley of Marston (the president-elect's sister); and Brad Blankenship, treasurer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Blankenship of Lilbourn Route.

Curtis Gross Honored For Lengthy Service

LILBOURN --Curtis Cross, sixth grade teacher in the Lilbourn Elementary system, was honored Tuesday night for his twenty years of service to the R-IV School District at the Seventh Annual Recognition Dinner held in the local school cafeteria.

Cross, along with six others, was recognized and received a service pin from the district.

Mrs. Kenneth Bell, junior high English teacher, and Mrs. Leroy Nunn, fourth grade teacher, received ten year pins.

Three bus drivers were honored. Bill Sherril was awarded a fifteen year pin, and George Lewis and Leo Kettles each received ten year pins. All three drivers were cited for their years of transporting students without an accident.

Joe Haubold of Marston, was given a ten year pin for his years of service as a member of the Board of Directors of the district.

The program concluded with remarks on the changes in education by Max Timmons, superintendent, who acted as master of ceremonies. In his remarks Timmons cited the great changes that have taken place in the nations schools within the past twenty - five years, and he predicted that the next ten would see even more sweeping and revolutionary changes as the schools move to meet the challenge of the changing world.

Masonic Barbeque, Fish Fry Has Working Crew Of 200

Phil Waldman, Jr.
General Chairman

In what may well prove the largest chicken barbeque and fish fry ever held in Sikeston, will take place on Thursday, May 20, with the Square and Compas Club as sponsors. This 12th annual event has shown an increased ticket sale over previous years, according to Phil Waldman, Jr., general chairman.

The giant feed will be held at the Masonic building on South Kingshighway, with tables placed in the basement as well as on the backlawn, with enough room to serve up to 400 persons at a single serving. Serving will be held from 4:30 to 9 p.m.

More than 1,000 fryers will be placed on the special constructed barbeque racks during the afternoon, while a separate fish stand will have on hand over 650 pounds of fresh fish. Along with the barbeque and fish will be hundreds of pounds of side dishes, as well as homemade pies and drinks.

The huge task of preparation, serving, supplies, tickets, clean-up committees, will find a total of 156 men as well as members of the Eastern Star and Job's Daughters on the kitchen and table committees. The 27-committee assignment has the following serving as chairmen:

Phil Waldman, Jr., general chairman; cooks and chicken, John McMullin; reception and chicken, O. D. ## EMERGENCIES

Five persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

Vernon Travis, Sikeston, a piece of steel hit him in the eye.

Bonnie Stone, Sikeston, fell out of swing injuring back.

Leon Wiseman, Blytheville, Ark., stuck a splinter in his little finger.

Clyde Osteen, Matthews, pinned between bus and truck.

Accident-Free Day

For the first time in many weeks, drivers in the 14-county Troop E area, came up with a perfect driving record over a 24-hour period. There was not a single collision or injury, other than a trailer catching fire from a tire that had gone flat.

The trailer caught fire and was destroyed at 1 a.m. today, a half-mile north of Wayne county line on Highway 67. It was a 1964 GMC tractor-trailer, driven by Carroll Hathaway, 31, Poplar Bluff.

Board Of Education Approves Raise For Sikeston Teachers

Sikeston's Board of Education held a meeting this week and it was disclosed that a salary revision has been made for teachers and this results in their getting from $100 to $300 increase for each teacher.

Also it was learned what openings have developed in the faculty as this school year closes. There are two openings for counselors, two art teachers, a general science teacher and possibly a football coach in the senior high school.

Superintendent, Lynn Twitty, has received a new four year pact with the Sikeston School system.

The building that previously housed the Post Office is going to be available for use next week and the plans are that the building will be the central storage facility and be used also as a vocational annex with offices and classrooms included. However, it will take some remodeling for the building to be used as a storage place.

The Area Trade and Technical school is rapidly being completed and the plans are that it will reach completion by September 1.

$100,000 Theft

ST. LOUIS AP -- Thieves have taken about $100,000 in negotiable stocks and bonds from a St. Louis County manufacturer's apartment, suburban Clayton police said Wednesday.

The bonds were taken from the home of Martin L. Brand. Brand and his wife were traveling in Japan when the burglary was discovered last Saturday.

They returned Wednesday and gave police a list of what was taken. The loss included five fur coats and several coins in addition to the stocks and bonds.

Gov. Vetoes Bill To Establish Branch Collectors In Cape

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has vetoed his first bill.

It would have authorized the Cape Girardeau County Collector to set up an office at Cape Girardeau at county expense in addition to his office in the county seat of Jackson.

The governor said the new office would enable the collector to earn an extra $26,000 a year and since he already makes around $19,000, Hearnes said that would be "excessive and unfair to the taxpayers of Cape Girardeau County."

Parade For Clean Up Week May 21

It has been announced by the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce that they will sponsor their annual "Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up" parade, Friday, May 21. It will be held on West North Street and will feature the Freshman Marching Band of the Sikeston Junior High School under the direction of Mr. Edward Carson.

The following week, May 24 through May 28, will be "Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up week."

All citizens of the City are urged to participate in the week dedicated to the beautifying of Sikeston.

City trucks will pick up refuge or trash in Wards 1, 2, 3, and 4 on these days: Monday-Ward 1; Tuesday-Ward 2; Wednesday-Ward 3; and Thursday and Friday-Ward 4.

Heavy Contact In Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heavy contact with a Viet Cong battalion developed today near the Mekong River delta town of Bac Lieu.

Latest reports said 16 South Vietnamese soldiers and one American had been wounded. Sixteen Viet Cong were reported killed and 10 Communist weapons captured.

A U.S. spokesman said government forces were pinned down for an hour by heavy fire, but air strikes neutralized the Viet Cong positions.

About 30 Viet Cong dressed in Vietnamese marine uniforms staged a daylight attack on a textile plant five miles from Saigon, killing five persons and wounding four.

The guerrillas walked up to a Vietnamese marine guarding the plant at Thu Duc, 100 yards off the main Saigon-Bien Hoa highway. They entered the gate, then opened fire, killing five regional-force soldiers. The plant was attacked two months ago.

A U.S. Marine on guard duty at Da Nang Air Base was wounded in the thigh by a 13-inch long arrow, presumably fired by a Viet Cong hill tribesman. Helicopters often return from missions in the central highlands area with arrows handing from their fuselage.

No air raids on North Viet Nam were reported today.

The Saigon government charged today that Viet Cong forces from inside Cambodian territory attacked a Vietnamese village with mortars Wednesday. Four civilians were reported killed, 14 wounded and five houses set afire.

Sporadic military action continued today around Song Be, the provincial capital 74 miles north of Saigon. Sniper fire sliced into government positions inside the town early today.

A military spokesman reported another 20 Viet Cong and 15 government soldiers were killed in fighting around the town.

The casualties occurred in a clash Wednesday about a mile east of Song Be. Thirteen South Vietnamese soldiers and two U.S. Army advisers were wounded.

With these casualties, South Vietnamese forces had 57 killed and 91 wounded during two days of fighting at Song Be. A total of 95 Viet Cong bodies have been counted, but a U.S. officer estimated more than 300 were killed and from 300 to 700 injured by U.S. air strikes.

Five U.S. Army advisers were killed and 13 wounded during the Communist attack on the town Tuesday.

Aircraft dropped flares over the area when the Communists began firing early today. But the Reds managed to avoid further contact with the South Vietnamese troops.

A Viet Cong force estimated at more than 2,000 attacked the provincial capital on Tuesday. They overran Song Be's defenses and held the town for seven hours until U.S. planes and Vietnamese ground reinforcements drove them out.

A military spokesman said a search-and-clear patrol was launched Wednesday in an area across a river, east of Song Be.

Senate Approves Governor For Two Four Year Terms

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes won a resounding victory in the Missouri Senate Wednesday.

By a surprising 26-5 vote, the Senate approved the governor's proposed constitutional change to allow a governor to serve two successive four-year terms.

The measure now goes on the ballot for the voters to decide, either at the 1966 general election or a special election before then.

The Senate's action came only a few hours after Hearnes had conceded at least temporary defeat in his battle with Treasurer M. E. Morris to get new depositories for the state's interest-free demand deposits.

The governor said he accepted Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson's ruling that Morris could not be forced by legal action to submit a new list of banks. Any change will have to come from legislative action or a constitutional amendment, the governor concluded.

The lopsided Senate vote came after the Senate had defeated three proposed amendments, including one to let a governor serve as long as he could keep getting elected.

Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, the majority floor leader, headed the opposition to changing the constitution. He made it clear he was not criticizing Hearnes but said he feared the proposal would open the door to machine rule in Missouri and one man domination of the state government.

Several of the governor's aides were in the gallery during the debate and Hearnes himself had been in the Senate corridors earlier.

It was obvious from the outset that the way had been well prepared for the proposal — the same as in the House, where it whisked through with a minimum of opposition.

One senator said he had been buttonholed by more of his constituents on the governorship succession issue than on any other problem before the legislature.

On the question of the bank depositories, Hearnes indicated he had not decided what his next step would be. He said he would study the problem and perhaps recommend to the special legislative session next year whether to tackle it through legislation or a constitutional change.

He said some change is needed to correct "this long continued favoritism to the disadvantage of many other qualified Missouri banks."

"These banks will continue to profit as long as this situation exists," he said, "through existing contracts made before I became governor."

The state treasurer presented the same list of state depositories as his predecessor—the Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City, which Hearnes has tagged as the power center of the so-called Democratic Establishment, Mercantile Trust of St. Louis and Commerce Trust of Kansas City.

Hearnes said during 249 banking days last year, Central Trust had an average of more than $23 million a day in interest free deposits.

One Felony New Madrid Magistrate Court Session

NEW MADRID: Only one felony was heard, but a wide variety of offenses crowded the docket of the New Madrid County Magistrate Court this week as Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville presided.

Leon Burell, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, waived his preliminary hearing in the court and was ordered held for trial in the Circuit Court with his bond set at $500.

Four persons were fined and sentenced on charges arising out of use of intoxicants. Henry Rex Griffin paid $120, was sentenced to serve six months in jail, and had his driver's license revoked for one year as a result of a charge of driving while intoxicated. Danny Bennett paid $75 for supplying beer to minors. Bennett was also sentenced to serve 30 days in jail, then placed on probation for one year. Possession of intoxicating beer brought a fine of $121, total, to Ervin Cliff and David Kindred. Each was also sentenced to serve six months in jail, then placed on probation for six months.

Other lesser charges were: Herman Wilson, petit larceny, $25, 30 days in jail and six months probation; Wallace Carden, disturbing the peace, $16; Sylvester Johnson, improper registration of a motor vehicle and unlicensed operator, $16; and Frank E. Hunsperger, public drunk, $25. Fifteen truckers were fined for exceeding legal load limits. Mailing Mackine Company paid $105 for an overage of 1600 pounds, and Home Oil Company paid $100 for an overload of 1550 pounds. All others paid amounts less than $100.

Other offenses were: improper registration of a motor vehicle — Frankie Joe Coffee and Murray Lane Ready Mix, $11 each, Homer Green, $15; excess speed — Donald R. Willingham, $20; vehicle overwidth — Bert McWaters, $11; careless and imprudent driving — Boyd Matthews, $15, Edward Rudd Crebs, $25; vehicle overlength — Utley Lumber Company, Thunderbird Boats, Roy Carter, Inc., James M. Franklin, Tractor Transports, Inc., (two counts); American Box Company, Bill Hunter, James T. Brandl, and Diamond Transit Company, $15 each; no operator's license — Elmer W. Book and T. W. Graham, $15 each.

Young Democrats Elect Officers

The Young Democratic Club of Scott County met last night at the Rustic Rock Inn. The principal item of business for the meeting was the election of officers for the new year. Elected were: Bill Lewis, president; John Sides, vice - president; Fielding Potashnick, secretary; and Pete Malone, treasurer.

Another important item of business taken up was plans for representation of the county at the State Young Democratic Convention which will be held June 4-5 at Columbia. President Lewis will attend as the official Scott County representative, accompanied by delegates John D. Hux, Jr., Daniel Norton, C.D. Matthews IV, John Sides, Charles Blanton III, Bill Scarbrough, and possibly other members of the organization.

Anyone interested in joining the Young Democrats should contact any of the officers for information. The next meeting will be announced at a later date.

"Daddy" Gives Total of 1,323

C. E. "Daddy" Felker and his Mrs. have announced that they have given a total of 1,323 Dog-Wood and Red Bud Trees to individuals and organizations throughout the City of Sikeston.

Out of the fine group of trees given away, a total of 446 trees was donated to the churches of the City. "Daddy" announces that there are churches that are yet to get their trees, but he expects to reach all of them by this coming November as well as the Sikeston Schools and City Parks.

Trees out of the total number of 1,323 that were given to individuals ran up to a number of 843 trees. The American Legion received 12 trees, the Knights of Columbus got 12, the V. F. W. 6 and the Masonic Lodge received 4.

Some three years ago Mr. Felker planted Dog-Wood Trees at the City Administration office, Masonic Lodge and the First Assembly of God Church, all of which bloomed this spring.

If "Daddy" keeps this up, Sikeston will truly be a City of blooming trees if each person that has received these trees will take special care. Incidentally, "Daddy" warns that these trees require a huge amount of water in order to keep alive.

Bankruptcy Filed Against Plez Lewis Co.

St. Joseph Lead Company has filed a petition of involuntary bankruptcy today against Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., contracting firm of St. Clair, Mo., and Crestwood.

Last Tuesday, May 4, the Internal Revenue Service filed Federal Tax Liens of $236,799 against Arthur Lewis and Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., according to the St. Louis Globe Democrat of St. Louis, Mo.

The Plez Lewis and Son, Inc., firm were the contractors that built the Holiday Inn here in Sikeston. It is not known if they presently own the Inn.

The St. Joseph Lead Company has charged that the Lewis Firm owes it $544,434 in overments for work on a mine near Bunker in Reynolds County.

Kelly Closing Exercises Begin With Awards

BENTON -- The closing activities at the Thomas W. Kelly High School will include Awards night, Tuesday, May 18; Baccalaureate Service Sunday, May 23; and Commencement Thursday, May 27th. Each of these events will start at 8:00 p.m.

This is the first time that a special night has been set for the distribution of all awards. Formerly the Athletic, Music, Attendance, and certain other awards and letters were presented at a student assembly with other awards and scholarships presented as a part of the Commencement program. The Awards Night has been added this year to enable a greater number of parents to share in the honor accorded students. Entertainment will be furnished by the band, Girls Glee Club, and the Clarinet Quartet.

The Reverend James J. Holmes of the St. Dennis Church of Benton will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon.

Dr. Jack D. Vincent, professor of Education at Southeast Missouri State College, will be the principal speaker at the Commencement exercises for the class of sixty-four seniors.

Crumley To Head Student Council

LILBOURN--James Crumley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Crumley of Marston and a junior at Lilbourn High School, earlier this week was elected president of the school's Student Council for the 1965-66 school year.

Young Crumley was chosen from a field of three in an all-school election.

Crumley is active in chorus, band, FFA, and has been a participant in Student Council affairs since its formation two years ago. He is an accomplished actor and is a featured soloist in most school musical programs.

Other officers elected were Paula Warner, vice-president, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner of Lilbourn; Paulette Crumley, secretary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Crumley of Marston (the president-elect's sister); and Brad Blankenship, treasurer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Blankenship of Lilbourn Route.

Curtis Gross Honored For Lengthy Service

LILBOURN --Curtis Cross, sixth grade teacher in the Lilbourn Elementary system, was honored Tuesday night for his twenty years of service to the R-IV School District at the Seventh Annual Recognition Dinner held in the local school cafeteria.

Cross, along with six others, was recognized and received a service pin from the district.

Mrs. Kenneth Bell, junior high English teacher, and Mrs. Leroy Nunn, fourth grade teacher, received ten year pins.

Three bus drivers were honored. Bill Sherril was awarded a fifteen year pin, and George Lewis and Leo Kettles each received ten year pins. All three drivers were cited for their years of transporting students without an accident.

Joe Haubold of Marston, was given a ten year pin for his years of service as a member of the Board of Directors of the district.

The program concluded with remarks on the changes in education by Max Timmons, superintendent, who acted as master of ceremonies. In his remarks Timmons cited the great changes that have taken place in the nations schools within the past twenty - five years, and he predicted that the next ten would see even more sweeping and revolutionary changes as the schools move to meet the challenge of the changing world.

Masonic Barbeque, Fish Fry Has Working Crew Of 200

Phil Waldman, Jr.
General Chairman

In what may well prove the largest chicken barbeque and fish fry ever held in Sikeston, will take place on Thursday, May 20, with the Square and Compas Club as sponsors. This 12th annual event has shown an increased ticket sale over previous years, according to Phil Waldman, Jr., general chairman.

The giant feed will be held at the Masonic building on South Kingshighway, with tables placed in the basement as well as on the back lawn, with enough room to serve up to 400 persons at a single serving. Serving will be held from 4:30 to 9 p.m.

More than 1,000 fryers will be placed on the special constructed barbeque racks during the afternoon, while a separate fish stand will have on hand over 650 pounds of fresh fish. Along with the barbeque and fish will be hundreds of pounds of side dishes, as well as homemade pies and drinks.

The huge task of preparation, serving, supplies, tickets, clean-up committees, will find a total of 156 men as well as members of the Eastern Star and Job's Daughters on the kitchen and table committees. The 27-committee assignment has the following serving as chairmen:

Phil Waldman, Jr., general chairman; cooks and chicken, John McMullin; reception and chicken, O. D. 14(b) -- WHY IT MUST BE SAVED

The Right to Work principle is one of the most important questions facing the American people. Yet, ironically, it remains one of the least understood. We would therefore like to present, in a factual nutshell, the true picture as to just what Right to Work is and what it means to America.

First, let us clear up one widely spread misconception. The Right to Work is morally right. The right to a worker to choose for himself, to work on terms acceptable to himself should be a fundamental right of our free American citizenship.

Second, no citizen should be forced to join or pay money to any private organization in order to get or hold a job. No private organization except unions has or seeks compulsory membership. When, for example, state legislatures act to require membership in a bar association (resulting in the so-called intergrated bar) they are making the bar association an arm of the state government and not a private organization.

Third, the repeal of 14(b), which now guarantees the Right to Work in 19 of our states, would mean the loss of another freedom. Many people believe that no civil right is more important than the right of free choice. The Portland Oregon Oregonian said recently: "We see little difference in the area of human rights between denying a person employment because of color, religion, race or sex and denying a person employment because he will not join a union."

Fourth, the one effective control on the political and financial abuses practiced on the rank and file workers by so many labor bosses is voluntary union memberships -- the Right to Work. When a person is forced to join, forced to pay dues, then what effective checkrein is there on a union officer? What effective means does the captive worker have of keeping his union bosses on the straight and narrow? The answer is none.

Fifth, the American people are in favor of voluntary union membership. National polls by Opinion Research, Lou Harris, etc., show that two out of three Americans believe that a man should not have to belong to a union to hold a job. This disapproves the propaganda line that a few "fat cats" back Right to Work for their own selfish interests. It proves, rather, that the chief Right to Work supporters are millions and millions of individual Americans in all walks of life -- including union members themselves.

The Right to Work position has not and cannot be refuted on a logical, intellectual honest basis. That is because the Right to Work is a basic American right. It is a worker's right, a state right and an individual right. To deny this right would be to humble the very essence of our liberty.

STRAIGHT FROM THE OLD CRANKCASE

The House Ways and Means Committee begins executive hearings on Monday (May 17) on prospective exercise tax reduction. Public hearings were held last year.

ON THE EVE of renewed House Ways and Means Committee hearings on excise taxes, hard facts are elusive. Indications are that the administration now wants something smaller than the $1.75 billion estimated slash after the Johnson-Dillon conference in Texas last November. Indications are that once the can of eels is opened, Congress will want a great deal more. For example, a repeal of the 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax on new passenger cars now being urged by the industry would just about double President Johnson's proposed reduction.

The deadline for action is July 1. Some excise taxes will be repealed and others will be reduced. At any rate, the jockeying will be infinite, and the infighting instructive. Take what might be called the Crankcase Caper.

THE PETROLEUM RE-REFINING INDUSTRY literally makes its living from crankcase wastes. It collects waste oil from service stations and renders it reusable by refining it again. This industry produced 400 million quarts of reprocessed lubricating oil last year.

Oil never wears out. It either burns or gets dirty. So crankcase drainings, "laundered", are sold to railroads, bus and truck lines, airlines, and the U. S. Air Force. Marine and industrial oils also are produced. There are about 68 of these small re-refiners.

The Association of Petroleum Re-refiners, the industry trade organization, claims that this reworked oil is as good as or better than oils produced from virgin crude. But automobile owners, from habit or the influence of advertising, overhwlemingly stick with the standard brands. Big users see the advantage of even a 6¢ a gallon differential.

And this small industry is able to exist because it is exempted from the 6¢ per gallon tax levied on ordinary lubricating oil. This is paid on the new oil and is reflected in the price the motorist pays at the service station. So far as the government is concerned, the revenues are insignificant -- $77 million to $80 million a year.

The trade association argues that if the tax on new lubricating oil comes off, many re-refiners will go out of business and the remainder will have to charge for picking up the black crankcase slime from service stations. The consumer probably will get no price relief, and the service station will pass along to him the pickup charge.

THE INDUSTRY has another arrow to its bow. Waste oil is one of the most dangerous potential pollutants of both land and water. Re-refining, the argument goes, keeps from our waters, sewage plants, and incinerators today an increasing supply -- say, 600 million quarts a year -- of crankcase drainings.

Without re-refining, this oil could only be burned -- raising a smog problem -- or shipped far out to sea. So the industry claims it is actually performing a service.

There is no disposition here to comment on the merits of the argument. There does seem to be something disingenuous about re-refiners arguing that the tax should be kept on new lubricating oil because without it they, the re-refiners, would go out of business and they, the re-refiners, conserve that valuable natural resource, oil. The only thing as inevitable as death and taxes is controversy over the latter.

SOMETHING TO DO

Facing breathtaking communist gains, the truth when revealed to potential patriots is so depressing that it is almost paralyzing.

They have been alerted, informed, advised and instructed until the truth is always viewed as bad news. They have not been inspired and armed with things they could do to avert the impending disaster.

Danger can more confidently be faced when it is known that remedial action can be taken. Patriots will be less frustrated and depressed if they can work at the job of saving the liberty they so highly prize. That is what they would like to do and would enjoy.

Plans whereby patriotic Americans can contribute their prestige and assistance to the cause in which they so devotedly believe will be welcomed. Those who have been demoralized and fell by the wayside under the onslaught of repeated "bad news" will gain new strength of purpose when they can see the way to save liberty clearly planned and can take up the guide - lines of well-defined things to do.

Well-informed, active patriots need to create the procedures and activities which will lighten the hearts of potential patriots, keep them busy and provide many things which they can do and take pride in doing. Every message of truth needs to be accompanied with suggestions of what to do to allay the demoralizing effects of "bad news" when it comes.

HOA PHAT, Sout Viet Nam AP--It was the proudest day of his life for 11-year-old Nguyen Duc Tan. In a simple and moving ceremony not far from the Da Nang battlefront, the U. S. Marines honored the slender boy for being the top student in his class at the village Buddhist school here.

The scene was the thronged schoolyard in front of a colorful Buddhist temple. Black robed monks set out tiny cups of tea. On a screechy public address system, a prominent local man made the customary graduation speech.

The high point of the ceremony came after Nguyen Duc Tan had read his valedictory address in an earnest, high-pitched voice. He stood at rigid attention in his blue shirt and shorts as Lt. Col. Jim Williams of Coronado, Calif., read the boy a letter of commendation on his scholarship from the commanding U. S. Marine general.

Williams then gave him a pen and pencil set and told him, "keep up the good work, son."

Nguyen Duc Tan seemed almost suffocated with pride as he showed off his prize to his schoolmates. We left after Williams and Lt. Donald W. Harris of Phoenix, Arz., had helped distribute 20 packets of books and pencils to other honor students.

As civil affairs offiver, Harris, a lawyer in civilian life, is responsible for pacification missions designed to win friends and influence people. He is enthusiastic about his work and has asked that his tour out here be extended so that he can continue it.

"We just want to show them that we are interested in them and that the American serviceman isn't a bad guy," he said. "We feel that if the children like us, so will the parents.

"I like kids. I spent seven summers as a camp counsellor in New York State, and the kids here are no different basically than those in our country."

Harris is proud of a free medical clinic which he set up with the help of two Navy corpsmen.

"In three days we treated 150 children and adults," he said.

"I believe the best medicine is soap and hot water. Most of the diseases we treat are dirt-caused. So the first thing we do with these kids is to give them a good scrubbing.

"It's really gratifying to see the sores on these kids heal up, and feel that we are really doing something to help them. But some parents are bringing in kids who don't have anything wrong with them. They just want us to give them a good bath."

Marines in the Da Nang area also are chipping in to send three children with cleft palates to a hospital near Saigon for operations. The operations will cost only $5 each, but that is more than the parents have been able to afford.

Pacification has its own reward but it also has its perils. On the same day that young Nguyen Duc Tan got his gift pen and pencil set, a goodwill mission of Marines in a nearby village was fired on by Viet Cong guerrillas. One marine was killed.

"It upsets me," Harris said, "to realize that the people in that village knew the enemy was there--and didn't warn us."

WASHINGTON —Fifteen hundred dollars is riding on a Senate committee hearing this week for every bus driver, bootblack, broker and banker in the U.S.A. On the outcome of these Senate hearings will partly depend the disposition of the U.S. government property worth $300 billion — enough to pay off the national debt. Or, if divided among 200 million Americans, it would mean a bonus of $1,500 apiece.

The property in question is the vast five million acres of government - owned oil shale land in Colorado, Wyoming, and Eastern Utah. It's estimated that it contains two trillion barrels of oil, and this bonanza is now the subject of intense backstage wire-pulling on the part of the big oil companies and the protectors of the public.

Lyndon Johnson probably doesn't know it, being busy with the Dominican Republic, Viet Nam, and other problems, but he is being quoted backstage as favoring his old friends the oil companies in the disposition of this hidden treasure.

In a previous Republican Administration —Hoover's —Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur withdrew the shale oil lands from private leasing. At that time the market was glutted with domestic oil and not much was known about how to develop shale oil.

But with the end of other oil resources in the U.S.A. now foreseeable, shale oil has become the most important undeveloped resource in the United States.

Furthermore, it now appears possible to develop it by leaving the surface of the land undisturbed, and through the "in situ" process, burn the shale underground, perhaps through nuclear energy, thereby distilling oil from shale.

—OLD MINING LAW—

So far, private oil companies have acquired 168,000 acres in the Wyoming, Colorado, Utah area as against the government's 5,000,000 acres. But they are now trying to horn in on government land by means of an archaic mining law passed in 1872 which permits private companies to obtain mining patents on government land for only $2.50 an acre. Oil shale land today is actually selling for $2,000 an acre. Yet private companies are now trying to get patent rights for $2.50 an acre.

Inside the Interior Department, Assistant Secretary John Kelly, a Texas oil man appointed by President Kennedy, is plugging for the oil companies. Lined up with him privately is Under Secretary John A. Carver.

Kelly and Carver argue that the oil companies can develop the lands more rapidly than the government, that industry can work out the new process of distilling oil underground.

On the other side is Frank Barry, Interior Department solicitor, a staunch battler for the public interest.

President Johnson has delegated oil policy matters to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, but eventually Johnson is going to have to step in and decide between his old oil friends and the public. As an ex-schoolteacher and a great booster for education, he has a chance to do as much for education with these oil lands as Abraham Lincoln did for the land grant colleges when he gave every other section of public land in the West for the development of state colleges.

—LEMAY'S DISABILITY—

The military medical board which has discovered that Gen. Curtis LeMay, cigar-chomping former Chief of the Air Force, has been suffering from 60 per cent disability, raises interesting questions regarding LeMay's conduct while commanding the Air Force.

Only a few weeks after he retired, the Board of Medical Examiners found that the General was suffering from a variety of ailments incurred while in military service —and therefore was entitled to non-payment of income taxes on $10,000 of his retirement pay.

Many officers who have watched and frequently differed with LeMay would like to know whether his disability affected his conduct as Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

As such, he was frequently battling with Secretary of Defense McNamara. He was the only member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to question the Test Ban Treaty. He also differed with both the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations regarding the policy of putting more emphasis on missiles and less emphasis on bombers.

Was the General influenced by his disabilities when he took those strong stands? Or is the Military Medical Board merely trying to give an old military pal a chance of escaping income taxes? It might bear Congressional investigation.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Latin Americans are reported disapproving the landing of U.S. Marines in the Dominican Republic 99 per cent. But a private Oliver Quayle survey shows that 69 per cent of Americans approve, 16 per cent disapprove, 15 per cent are not sure. . . Asked whether the Marine landing would make Latin Americans more critical of the U.S.A., 30 per cent of those polled answered yes, 33 per cent answered no, 25 per cent weren't sure, and 3 per cent said it didn't matter. . . LBJ stresses the fact that his new appointees are Phi Beta Kappas. In line with this he has promoted another professor to the No. 2 spot in the Agriculture Department —John Schnittker of Kansas State University to be Under Secretary of Agriculture. Prof. Schnittker knows wheat as no other man in the U.S.A. He is an excellent choice. . . He comes, incidentally, from the same institution that sent Vilton Eisenhower to Washington as an Agrigulture Department official, later to Penn State and Johns Hopkins as president.

Precedent Making Labor Leader Makes Another -- Gets Kiss from LBJ

NEW YORK: -- That peppery bantam, crew-cut David Dubinsky, labor leader by profession, gadfly by avocation and global conscience by dedication, is the only union chief ever to be kissed by an American President.

It happened not too long ago during a state dinner in the White House. Lyndon Johnson saw the 72-year-old leader of the nation's ladies' garment workers, strode over and bussed him. Such emotion in a president and such rapport are not easy to come by. The incident set a precedent.

But Dubinsky has smashed tradition for generations. He "makes" precedents as the 442,000 members of his big and wealthy union -- 80 per cent of them women -- make ladies' garments, suits, cloaks, dresses and dainty unmentionables.

Of late Dubinsky has chosen to stay off the front pages. But today this labor leaders' labor leader is in Miami Beach directing the union's 32nd national convention through the intricacies of modern industrialism.

He is news not only because it was his phone call from New York to Los Angeles in July 1960 which gave the nation's labor leaders the go-ahead signal for support of a Texan as the Democratic vice-presidential candidate by saying "He'll help Kennedy win."

He is news because of the amazing contents of his huge report to the convention delegates. There is, for example, an explanation of the International Ladies' Garment Workers (ILGWU( Investment Dept. It handles or advises on the placing of well over half a billion dollars deposited in an assortment of funds.

Some advice is being taken from David Rockefeller's Chase Manhattan Bank (Dubinsky never permits politics to interfere with shrewd investments.) Some funds are handled directly by the department.

Some of the special funds have earned $52 million in the past three fiscal years. The central treasuries of the national office and the locals have $75 million invested -- which are earning additional millions. The various funds are invested in huge housing projects, regular mortgages, homes for the military and in rural areas for the farmers' use.

There are intricate financial statements. Every member can have an accounting of every penny.

Dubinsky and his colleagues have become wizards in their industry as well as financial experts. No longer is the ladies' garment industry made up of little shops with a breezy extrovert of a salesman and an ulcerous "inside" production chief -- the butt of so many comedian's jokes.

The dress industry is going the way of all business in our society. Firms have merged. They have gone "public" -- on the stock exchanges.

Jonathan Logan, Inc., probably the biggest house, has 75 plants in 16 states. It is diversified, making thread and machinery as well as garments.

So big now are some of the "houses", the relationship between them and the needle union approaches that of a steel company and the United Steelworkers. "Impartial Chairmen are needed -- the University of Penn.'s George W. Taylor, for example, in the Jonathan Logan case.

Dubinsky always has had a flair for such chairmen. At one time or another the industry was "bossed" by the late Harry Hopkins and the late late Jimmie Walker.

"Little David," as some call him, has gone after some giants. When Adam Clayton Powell attacked him and his union, charging that it discriminated, Dubinsky took him on and won his battle. Dubinsky personally led the assault.

When some years ago, his staff decided to organize a union of organizers, Dubinsky would not be fazed by charges that as a union leader he was being anti-labor, because he fought such unionization.

Other unions backed down. Even the national AFL-CIO headquarters signed a labor contract with its field staff. But Dubinsky is still fighting in the courts. He says that a union is not a business and cannot be considered an employer of organizers.

There would be no union within a union he said -- and has stuck to his position.

At 72 he's battling as he did at 23 and 43. Thirty years ago he took on the Fascists, Nazis and Communists. After the war he was a one man army in the cold war. It was Dubinsky who stirred the AFL into helping the postwar unions fight off the heavily muscled and heavily financed Communists from West Berlin to Rome.

There never has been a day when "DD" has not fought totalitarianism. When the left wing became powerful in the theatre in the thirties, he bucked them. He produced a musical comedy called Pins and Needles.

When the mobs moved in on labor, he introduced the first anti-racketeering resolution in an AFL convention -- and was slugged for it in a hotel lobby by Joe Fay, who was subsequently imprisoned for extortion.

He is partisan. Though he leads the Liberal Party of New York, he is high in Democratic Party esteem. Especially the President's.

Thus his report to the convention delegates concludes with ". . . In President Lyndon B. Johnson we have an ally in the White House. . ."

Little David is no mean ally himself. At 72 he is the labor movement's Winston Churchill -- his best years are ahead of him.

So say his enemies -- and even his friends.

14(b) -- WHY IT MUST BE SAVED

The Right to Work principle is one of the most important questions facing the American people. Yet, ironically, it remains one of the least understood. We would therefore like to present, in a factual nutshell, the true picture as to just what Right to Work is and what it means to America.

First, let us clear up one widely spread misconception. The Right to Work is morally right. The right to a worker to choose for himself, to work on terms acceptable to himself should be a fundamental right of our free American citizenship.

Second, no citizen should be forced to join or pay money to any private organization in order to get or hold a job. No private organization except unions has or seeks compulsory membership. When, for example, state legislatures act to require membership in a bar association (resulting in the so-called intergrated bar) they are making the bar association an arm of the state government and not a private organization.

Third, the repeal of 14(b), which now guarantees the Right to Work in 19 of our states, would mean the loss of another freedom. Many people believe that no civil right is more important than the right of free choice. The Portland Oregon Oregonian said recently: "We see little difference in the area of human rights between denying a person employment because of color, religion, race or sex and denying a person employment because he will not join a union."

Fourth, the one effective control on the political and financial abuses practiced on the rank and file workers by so many labor bosses is voluntary union memberships -- the Right to Work. When a person is forced to join, forced to pay dues, then what effective checkrein is there on a union officer? What effective means does the captive worker have of keeping his union bosses on the straight and narrow? The answer is none.

Fifth, the American people are in favor of voluntary union membership. National polls by Opinion Research, Lou Harris, etc., show that two out of three Americans believe that a man should not have to belong to a union to hold a job. This disapproves the propaganda line that a few "fat cats" back Right to Work for their own selfish interests. It proves, rather, that the chief Right to Work supporters are millions and millions of individual Americans in all walks of life -- including union members themselves.

The Right to Work position has not and cannot be refuted on a logical, intellectual honest basis. That is because the Right to Work is a basic American right. It is a worker's right, a state right and an individual right. To deny this right would be to humble the very essence of our liberty.

STRAIGHT FROM THE OLD CRANKCASE

The House Ways and Means Committee begins executive hearings on Monday (May 17) on prospective exercise tax reduction. Public hearings were held last year.

ON THE EVE of renewed House Ways and Means Committee hearings on excise taxes, hard facts are elusive. Indications are that the administration now wants something smaller than the $1.75 billion estimated slash after the Johnson-Dillon conference in Texas last November. Indications are that once the can of eels is opened, Congress will want a great deal more. For example, a repeal of the 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax on new passenger cars now being urged by the industry would just about double President Johnson's proposed reduction.

The deadline for action is July 1. Some excise taxes will be repealed and others will be reduced. At any rate, the jockeying will be infinite, and the infighting instructive. Take what might be called the Crankcase Caper.

THE PETROLEUM RE-REFINING INDUSTRY literally makes its living from crankcase wastes. It collects waste oil from service stations and renders it reusable by refining it again. This industry produced 400 million quarts of reprocessed lubricating oil last year.

Oil never wears out. It either burns or gets dirty. So crankcase drainings, "laundered", are sold to railroads, bus and truck lines, airlines, and the U. S. Air Force. Marine and industrial oils also are produced. There are about 68 of these small re-refiners.

The Association of Petroleum Re-refiners, the industry trade organization, claims that this reworked oil is as good as or better than oils produced from virgin crude. But automobile owners, from habit or the influence of advertising, overhwlemingly stick with the standard brands. Big users see the advantage of even a 6¢ a gallon differential.

And this small industry is able to exist because it is exempted from the 6¢ per gallon tax levied on ordinary lubricating oil. This is paid on the new oil and is reflected in the price the motorist pays at the service station. So far as the government is concerned, the revenues are insignificant -- $77 million to $80 million a year.

The trade association argues that if the tax on new lubricating oil comes off, many re-refiners will go out of business and the remainder will have to charge for picking up the black crankcase slime from service stations. The consumer probably will get no price relief, and the service station will pass along to him the pickup charge.

THE INDUSTRY has another arrow to its bow. Waste oil is one of the most dangerous potential pollutants of both land and water. Re-refining, the argument goes, keeps from our waters, sewage plants, and incinerators today an increasing supply -- say, 600 million quarts a year -- of crankcase drainings.

Without re-refining, this oil could only be burned -- raising a smog problem -- or shipped far out to sea. So the industry claims it is actually performing a service.

There is no disposition here to comment on the merits of the argument. There does seem to be something disingenuous about re-refiners arguing that the tax should be kept on new lubricating oil because without it they, the re-refiners, would go out of business and they, the re-refiners, conserve that valuable natural resource, oil. The only thing as inevitable as death and taxes is controversy over the latter.

MUST BE A CHIP OFF THE OLD BLOCK

In May 1911 Fred Smith, Rufus Reed, Glen Matthews and C. E. "Daddy" Felker - won the S. E. Mo. track meet for the Sikeston Schools at Cape Girardeau with only four of our Athletes taking part in the meet. Now here in Sikeston after 54 years since the famous 4 Athletes came marching proudly home is one of the stars of the 1965 Sikeston Track Team, "Rus" Felker who is a grandson of "Daddy", won the 440 yard dash and was anchor athlete on the 1 mile relay team. This coming weekend Rus and his mates on the Track Team go to State meet which will be held in Columbia.

"Fine," he replied, "all we have to do is wear a red suit with horns and every now and then shovel some coal on the fire. We don't work more than an hour a day. How is it up there?"

"We have to get up at four each morning and gather in the stars," she said. "Then we have to get in the moon and hang out the sun. Then we have to roll up the clouds. We work 18 hours a day.

"How come you work so hard?" he asked.

SECOND CLASS STATES?

There are signs that Congress is beginning to stir out of the hypnosis inflicted upon it by the President at the last joint session when he demanded votes for all Americans who know their names and addresses - in certain states.

It is time at least for some of our statesmen to register shock over a bill that proposes to remove Constitutional authority for the conduct of elections in six states and not in 44 others, substituting the guidance of Federal gauleiters!

But if those who say there's no time for a Constitutional amendment, and that we must have a voting bill quick to forestall violence and disorder have their way - God help America!

Silas' eyebrows shot up and the son pressed his advantage. "Not only that," he said, "but both boys and girls use the same curriculum."

With that the old codger's face darkened and his son leaned forward to whisper, "But worst of all, Father, before a girl can graduate she has to show her thesis to the dean."

"That settles it!" roared Silas. "That infernal school won't get a penny from me."

So he left all his money to Harvard.

The little girl replied, "It cost $7.50, sir."

He turned to the other little girl and again said, "May I see your baby?" She pulled down the cover and said, "There she is." The man exclaimed, "My, my! She is beautiful. How much did she cost?" "I didn't have much money," said the second little girl. "She just cost $4.50."

At that moment a woman pushing a baby buggy came along. She stopped and the man asked, "May we see your baby?" The woman pulled down the cover. The man said, "What a beautiful baby!" One little girl said, "How much did he cost?" The woman replied, "He cost $225.00." The little girl turned to the other and said, "She sure got screwed on that deal, didn't she?"

Escalation

H. L. Hunt Says

SOME THING TO DO

Facing breathtaking communist gains, the truth when revealed to potential patriots is so depressing that it is almost paralyzing.

They have been alerted, informed, advised and instructed until the truth is always viewed as bad news. They have not been inspired and armed with things they could do to avert the impending disaster.

Danger can more confidently be faced when it is known that remedial action can be taken. Patriots will be less frustrated and depressed if they can work at the job of saving the liberty they so highly prize. That is what they would like to do and would enjoy.

Plans whereby patriotic Americans can contribute their prestige and assistance to the cause in which they so devotedly believe will be welcomed. Those who have been demoralized and fell by the wayside under the onslaught of repeated "bad news" will gain new strength of purpose when they can see the way to save liberty clearly planned and can take up the guide - lines of well-defined things to do.

Well-informed, active patriots need to create the procedures and activities which will lighten the hearts of potential patriots, keep them busy and provide many things which they can do and take pride in doing. Every message of truth needs to be accompanied with suggestions of what to do to allay the demoralizing effects of "bad news" when it comes.

Action can be inspirational in promoting the American way of life. HLH

Ask any qualified voter of either party, ask any of the 30 to 40 million qualified voters who refused to vote in the last presidential election, if we have what could be called adequate representation, and most of them will tell you frankly no.

Apparently we have a few dedicated officeholders and lawmakers but they are as a small voices crying in the wilderness. Looks like we have an organization bordering on a clan of dictators, and that's the truth and everybody knows it.

Hal Boyle

HOA PHAT, Sout Viet Nam AP--It was the proudest day of his life for 11-year-old Nguyen Duc Tan. In a simple and moving ceremony not far from the Da Nang battlefront, the U. S. Marines honored the slender boy for being the top student in his class at the village Buddhist school here.

The scene was the thronged schoolyard in front of a colorful Buddhist temple. Black robed monks set out tiny cups of tea. On a screechy public address system, a prominent local man made the customary graduation speech.

The high point of the ceremony came after Nguyen Duc Tan had read his valedictory address in an earnest, high-pitched voice. He stood at rigid attention in his blue shirt and shorts as Lt. Col. Jim Williams of Coronado, Calif., read the boy a letter of commendation on his scholarship from the commanding U. S. Marine general.

Williams then gave him a pen and pencil set and told him, "keep up the good work, son."

Nguyen Duc Tan seemed almost suffocated with pride as he showed off his prize to his schoolmates. We left after Williams and Lt. Donald W. Harris of Phoenix, Arz., had helped distribute 20 packets of books and pencils to other honor students.

As civil affairs offiver, Harris, a lawyer in civilian life, is responsible for pacification missions designed to win friends and influence people. He is enthusiastic about his work and has asked that his tour out here be extended so that he can continue it.

"We just want to show them that we are interested in them and that the American serviceman isn't a bad guy," he said. "We feel that if the children like us, so will the parents.

"I like kids. I spent seven summers as a camp counsellor in New York State, and the kids here are no different basically than those in our country."

Harris is proud of a free medical clinic which he set up with the help of two Navy corpsmen.

"In three days we treated 150 children and adults," he said. "I believe the best medicine is soap and hot water. Most of the diseases we treat are dirt-caused. So the first thing we do with these kids is to give them a good scrubbing.

"It's really gratifying to see the sores on these kids heal up, and feel that we are really doing something to help them. But some parents are bringing in kids who don't have anything wrong with them. They just want us to give them a good bath."

Marines in the Da Nang area also are chipping in to send three children with cleft palates to a hospital near Saigon for operations. The operations will cost only $5 each, but that is more than the parents have been able to afford.

Pacification has its own reward but it also has its perils. On the same day that young Nguyen Duc Tan got his gift pen and pencil set, a goodwill mission of Marines in a nearby village was fired on by Viet Cong guerrillas. One marine was killed.

"It upsets me," Harris said, "to realize that the people in that village knew the enemy was there--and didn't warn us."

WASHINGTON —Fifteen hundred dollars is riding on a Senate committee hearing this week for every bus driver, bootblack, broker and banker in the U.S.A. On the outcome of these Senate hearings will partly depend the disposition of the U.S. government property worth $300 billion — enough to pay off the national debt. Or, if divided among 200 million Americans, it would mean a bonus of $1,500 apiece.

The property in question is the vast five million acres of government - owned oil shale land in Colorado, Wyoming, and Eastern Utah. It's estimated that it contains two trillion barrels of oil, and this bonanza is now the subject of intense backstage wire-pulling on the part of the big oil companies and the protectors of the public.

Lyndon Johnson probably doesn't know it, being busy with the Dominican Republic, Viet Nam, and other problems, but he is being quoted backstage as favoring his old friends the oil companies in the disposition of this hidden treasure.

In a previous Republican Administration —Hoover's —Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur withdrew the shale oil lands from private leasing. At that time the market was glutted with domestic oil and not much was known about how to develop shale oil.

But with the end of other oil resources in the U.S.A. now foreseeable, shale oil has become the most important undeveloped resource in the United States.

Furthermore, it now appears possible to develop it by leaving the surface of the land undisturbed, and through the "in situ" process, burn the shale underground, perhaps through nuclear energy, thereby distilling oil from shale.

—OLD MINING LAW—

So far, private oil companies have acquired 168,000 acres in the Wyoming, Colorado, Utah area as against the government's 5,000,000 acres. But they are now trying to horn in on government land by means of an archaic mining law passed in 1872 which permits private companies to obtain mining patents on government land for only $2.50 an acre. Oil shale land today is actually selling for $2,000 an acre. Yet private companies are now trying to get patent rights for $2.50 an acre.

Inside the Interior Department, Assistant Secretary John Kelly, a Texas oilman appointed by President Kennedy, is plugging for the oil companies. Lined up with him privately is Under Secretary John A. Carver.

Kelly and Carver argue that the oil companies can develop the lands more rapidly than the government, that industry can work out the new process of distilling oil underground.

On the other side is Frank Barry, Interior Department solicitor, a staunch battler for the public interest.

President Johnson has delegated oil policy matters to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, but eventually Johnson is going to have to step in and decide between his old oil friends and the public. As an ex-schoolteacher and a great booster for education, he has a chance to do as much for education with these oil lands as Abraham Lincoln did for the land grant colleges when he gave every other section of public land in the West for the development of state colleges.

—LEMAY'S DISABILITY—

The military medical board which has discovered that Gen. Curtis LeMay, cigar-chomping former Chief of the Air Force, has been suffering from 60 per cent disability, raises interesting questions regarding LeMay's conduct while commanding the Air Force.

Only a few weeks after he retired, the Board of Medical Examiners found that the General was suffering from a variety of ailments incurred while in military service —and therefore was entitled to non-payment of income taxes on $10,000 of his retirement pay.

Many officers who have watched and frequently differed with LeMay would like to know whether his disability affected his conduct as Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

As such, he was frequently battling with Secretary of Defense McNamara. He was the only member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to question the Test Ban Treaty. He also differed with both the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations regarding the policy of putting more emphasis on missiles and less emphasis on bombers.

Was the General influenced by his disabilities when he took those strong stands? Or is the Military Medical Board merely trying to give an old military pal a chance of escaping income taxes? It might bear Congressional investigation.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Latin Americans are reported disapproving the landing of U.S. Marines in the Dominican Republic 99 per cent. But a private Oliver Quayle survey shows that 69 per cent of Americans approve, 16 per cent disapprove, 15 per cent are not sure. . . Asked whether the Marine landing would make Latin Americans more critical of the U.S.A., 30 per cent of those polled answered yes, 33 per cent answered no, 25 per cent weren't sure, and 3 per cent said it didn't matter. . . LBJ stresses the fact that his new appointees are Phi Beta Kappas. In line with this he has promoted another professor to the No. 2 spot in the Agriculture Department —John Schnittker of Kansas State University to be Under Secretary of Agriculture. Prof. Schnittker knows wheat as no other man in the U.S.A. He is an excellent choice. . . He comes, incidentally, from the same institution that sent Vilton Eisenhower to Washington as an Agriculture Department official, later to Penn State and Johns Hopkins as president.

Precedent Making Labor Leader Makes Another -- Gets Kiss from LBJ

NEW YORK: -- That peppery bantam, crew-cut David Dubinsky, labor leader by profession, gadfly by avocation and global conscience by dedication, is the only union chief ever to be kissed by an American President.

It happened not too long ago during a state dinner in the White House. Lyndon Johnson saw the 72-year-old leader of the nation's ladies' garment workers, strode over and bussed him. Such emotion in a president and such rapport are not easy to come by. The incident set a precedent.

But Dubinsky has smashed tradition for generations. He "makes" precedents as the 442,000 members of his big and wealthy union -- 80 per cent of them women -- make ladies' garments, suits, cloaks, dresses and dainty unmentionables.

Of late Dubinsky has chosen to stay off the front pages. But today this labor leaders' labor leader is in Miami Beach directing the union's 32nd national convention through the intricacies of modern industrialism.

He is news not only because it was his phone call from New York to Los Angeles in July 1960 which gave the nation's labor leaders the go-ahead signal for support of a Texan as the Democratic vice-presidential candidate by saying "He'll help Kennedy win."

He is news because of the amazing contents of his huge report to the convention delegates. There is, for example, an explanation of the International Ladies' Garment Workers (ILGWU( Investment Dept. It handles or advises on the placing of well over half a billion dollars deposited in an assortment of funds.

Some advice is being taken from David Rockefeller's Chase Manhattan Bank (Dubinsky never permits politics to interfere with shrewd investments.) Some funds are handled directly by the department.

Some of the special funds have earned $52 million in the past three fiscal years. The central treasuries of the national office and the locals have $75 million invested -- which are earning additional millions. The various funds are invested in huge housing projects, regular mortgages, homes for the military and in rural areas for the farmers' use.

There are intricate financial statements. Every member can have an accounting of every penny.

Dubinsky and his colleagues have become wizards in their industry as well as financial experts. No longer is the ladies' garment industry made up of little shops with a breezy extrovert of a salesman and an ulcerous "inside" production chief -- the butt of so many comedian's jokes.

The dress industry is going the way of all business in our society. Firms have merged. They have gone "public" -- on the stock exchanges.

Jonathan Logan, Inc., probably the biggest house, has 75 plants in 16 states. It is diversified, making thread and machinery as well as garments.

So big now are some of the "houses", the relationship between them and the needle union approaches that of a steel company and the United Steelworkers. "Impartial Chairmen are needed -- the University of Penn.'s George W. Taylor, for example, in the Jonathan Logan case.

Dubinsky always has had a flair for such chairmen. At one time or another the industry was "bossed" by the late Harry Hopkins and the late late Jimmie Walker.

"Little David," as some call him, has gone after some giants. When Adam Clayton Powell attacked him and his union, charging that it discriminated, Dubinsky took him on and won his battle. Dubinsky personally led the assault.

When some years ago, his staff decided to organize a union of organizers, Dubinsky would not be fazed by charges that as a union leader he was being anti-labor, because he fought such unionization.

Other unions backed down. Even the national AFL-CIO headquarters signed a labor contract with its field staff. But Dubinsky is still fighting in the courts. He says that a union is not a business and cannot be considered an employer of organizers.

There would be no union within a union he said -- and has stuck to his position.

At 72 he's battling as he did at 23 and 43. Thirty years ago he took on the Fascists, Nazis and Communists. After the war he was a one man army in the cold war. It was Dubinsky who stirred the AFL into helping the postwar unions fight off the heavily muscled and heavily financed Communists from West Berlin to Rome.

There never has been a day when "DD" has not fought totalitarianism. When the left wing became powerful in the theatre in the thirties, he bucked them. He produced a musical comedy called Pins and Needles.

When the mobs moved in on labor, he introduced the first anti-racketeering resolution in an AFL convention -- and was slugged for it in a hotel lobby by Joe Fay, who was subsequently imprisoned for extortion.

He is partisan. Though he leads the Liberal Party of New York, he is high in Democratic Party esteem. Especially the President's.

Thus his report to the convention delegates concludes with ". . . In President Lyndon B. Johnson we have an ally in the White House. . ."

Little David is no mean ally himself. At 72 he is the labor movement's Winston Churchill -- his best years are ahead of him.

So say his enemies -- and even his friends.

Cotton Producers Wives Have Luncheon And Fashion Show

The Wives of Missouri Cotton Producers were honored Friday, May 7, with a buffet luncheon at the Sikeston Country Club.

Mrs. Warren Hearnes, First Lady of Missouri, and Mrs. Paul Jones, wife of Missouri's Congressman, were special guests at the luncheon.

The group was entertained during the meal by a girls' singing group from Charleston, the Liberty Belles.

Following the luncheon, the Elite Shop of Sikeston presented twelve lovely ladies who informally modeled fashions ranging from bathing suits and sportswear to evening and hostess gowns. The models paraded from table to table to let the guests have a first-hand look at the ensembles they were showing.

All the costumes modeled were naturally cotton, however, there was a wide variety in the cottons used in the fabrics from which the outfits were made.

Modeling in the show were Diane Johnson Wood, Mrs. Don Evans, Mrs. Terry Conn, Mrs. Jerry Aufdenberg, Mrs. Keith Ziegenhorn, Mrs. Kenneth Dement, Mrs. James Handy Moore, Suzanne Ashley, Mrs. Jessie Page, Mrs. Fred Steward, Jr., Mrs. Edward Fuchs, III, and Jerri Lou Chidester.

Friendship Circle Class Has Mother And Daughter Banquet

The Friendship Circle Sunday School Class of the First Church of the Nazarene Church had a Mother and Daughter Banquet in the recreation room of the church on Friday night, May 7.

The tables were decorated with red carnations and red tapers. There was a devotion especially for Mothers. The entertainment was two skits entitled "Now and Then", given by Mrs. Bob Atkinson and Mrs. Kenneth Wasson and "A Ticket for Amie", given by Mrs. Edgar Byrd and Sherry and Mrs. Charles Campbell.

Those present for the banquet were Mrs. Milo Sitz of Advance, Mrs. John Scarbrough, Mrs. Clyde Nicholas, Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mrs. Arlie Phillips, Mrs. R. C. Reeder, Jr., Mrs. Lyman Ozment, Mrs. Hershell Hatley, Mrs. W. H. Cloin, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Bob Atkinson, Sr., is the teacher of the Sunday School class.

Variety Meat In Creole Style Tempts Diners

If you've eaten pepperpot soup, you've probably tasted tripe without even knowing it. Tripe, a variety meat, can also be served as an entree by itself.

It may be purchased fresh, pickled or canned. Though fresh tripe is cooked partially before selling, it must still be cooked about two hours, points out Rose Staggs, noted meat authority, preliminary to serving preparation. Use a teaspoon of salt for each quart of water in which the tripe is cooked.

Well-seasoned tomato sauce is a favorite accompaniment of tripe after it's been cooked. It's especially appetizing in this combination served on rice.

Tripe a la Creole

Water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cover tripe with water and cook slowly 2 hours or until cut surface has a clear, jelly-like appearance. Drain and cut into 2-inch pieces. Melt butter or margarine. Add green pepper and onion and cook until tender. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Add tomatoes, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season and add tripe. Simmer 10 minutes. 6 servings.

Golf Notes

Mrs. J. F. Cox was medalist in Tuesday's play of the Ladies Golf Association. Lotus Emerson won flight A. Honors went to Mrs. Jackson Davis and Mrs. Howard Johnson in flights B and C.

Mrs. Bob Ralph, one of Sikeston's newest golfers, was a prize winner among those who went to the Blytheville, Arkansas, Country Club for golf and lunch.

With some players away and Mrs. Dewey Urban and Mrs. Bob Yates in St. Louis for a state golf board meeting, the number of local players was less than usual.

The enthusiasm of those present was very high. Everyone vowed to play better and score better next week.

Girl Scouts To Sponsor Hamburger Day Saturday

Each year, the Girl Scouts of Sikeston take on many money-making projects to finance trips and other projects. This Saturday, May 15, two Senior Girl Scout Troops will sponsor a hamburger day.

It will be held at the American Legion from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any member of troop #201 and #13. Be sure to come and enjoy all you can eat.

Coming Events

THURSDAY

Chapter 137, Order of Eastern Star, will meet Thursday, May 13, at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Lela Maitland, District Deputy, will be honored with a party. All members are urged to be present.

SATURDAY

The West Malone Church of God will have a Gospel Singing Saturday, May 15, at 8 p.m. The singing will feature The Thomann Trio and the Kingdomaires Quartet.

SUNDAY

The Bethel Baptist Church, also known as Silent Hill, will have a Homecoming Sunday, May 16. This will be an all-day service with singing in the afternoon. All singers are welcome.

The church is located three and one-half miles east of Grant City.

St. Paul's Episcopal Churchwomen Have Twelve Present For Meeting

St. Paul's Episcopal Churchwomen met in the Parish Hall on May 6 with twelve members and the Vicar present. Mrs. Mitchell presided over the meeting. Mrs. Harty has located a pedestal for the statue of St. Francis in the churchyard and will bring it down from St. Louis on her next trip.

Mrs. Grant volunteered to U.-T. O. chairman; boxes may be obtained from her and when filled, returned to her.

Reporting on the Diocesan meeting, Mrs. Mitchell said that no decision was taken regarding the frequency of the Convocation meetings, although the majority of the delegates indicated that they preferred to have but one meeting a year.

Mrs. Croom gave a report on the Farm Labor Rest Camp east of Sikeston. A fund is to be established by the U. C. W. for emergencies among the migrant workers and in July a trained counsellor will take up residence there.

There is to be a weekly study group at the church on Wednesdays at 10 a.m., commencing immediately with a study entitled "The Prophets and Our Times." Any wishing to attend are asked to read the Book of Amos beforehand.

Present at the meeting were the following: Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. James Moreton, Mrs. E. B. Hinson, Mrs. W. P. Tedlie, Mrs. David Croom, Mrs. Harry Harty, Mrs. Howard Grant, Mrs. Art Nelson, Mrs. R. L. Watkins, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. W. Pipes-Jones and Miss Jane Wilkerson.

Cotton Producers Wives Have Luncheon And Fashion Show

The Wives of Missouri Cotton Producers were honored Friday, May 7, with a buffet luncheon at the Sikeston Country Club.

Mrs. Warren Hearnes, First Lady of Missouri, and Mrs. Paul Jones, wife of Missouri's Congressman, were special guests at the luncheon.

The group was entertained during the meal by a girls' singing group from Charleston, the Liberty Belles.

Following the luncheon, the Elite Shop of Sikeston presented twelve lovely ladies who informally modeled fashions ranging from bathing suits and sportswear to evening and hostess gowns. The models paraded from table to table to let the guests have a first-hand look at the ensembles they were showing.

All the costumes modeled were naturally cotton, however, there was a wide variety in the cottons used in the fabrics from which the outfits were made.

Modeling in the show were Diane Johnson Wood, Mrs. Don Evans, Mrs. Terry Conn, Mrs. Jerry Aufdenberg, Mrs. Keith Ziegenhorn, Mrs. Kenneth Dement, Mrs. James Handy Moore, Suzanne Ashley, Mrs. Jessie Page, Mrs. Fred Steward, Jr., Mrs. Edward Fuchs, III, and Jerri Lou Chidester.

Golf Notes

Mrs. J. F. Cox was medalist in Tuesday's play of the Ladies Golf Association. Lotus Emerson won flight A. Honors went to Mrs. Jackson Davis and Mrs. Howard Johnson in flights B and C.

Mrs. Bob Ralph, one of Sikeston's newest golfers, was a prize winner among those who went to the Blytheville, Arkansas, Country Club for golf and lunch.

With some players away and Mrs. Dewey Urban and Mrs. Bob Yates in St. Louis for a state golf board meeting, the number of local players was less than usual.

The enthusiasm of those present was very high. Everyone vowed to play better and score better next week.

Variety Meat In Creole Style Tempts Diners

If you've eaten pepperpot soup, you've probably tasted tripe without even knowing it. Tripe, a variety meat, can also be served as an entree by itself.

It may be purchased fresh, pickled or canned. Though fresh tripe is cooked partially before selling, it must still be cooked about two hours, points out Reid Staggs, noted meat authority, preliminary to serving preparation. Use a teaspoon of salt for each quart of water in which the tripe is cooked.

Well-seasoned tomato sauce is a favorite accompaniment of tripe after it's been cooked. It's especially appetizing in this combination served on rice.

Tripe a la Creole

Water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cover tripe with water and cook slowly 2 hours or until cut surface has a clear, jelly-like appearance. Drain and cut into 2-inch pieces. Melt butter or margarine. Add green pepper and onion and cook until tender. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Add tomatoes, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season and add tripe. Simmer 10 minutes. 6 servings.

Bloomfield A Wins Two At Puxico

Bloomfield, Oran District - Tournament Champs, continued their winning ways, yesterday sweeping an easy double hitter victory from Stoddard County foe Puxico, 11 to 2 and 9 to 2.

The Wildcats highly potent attack blasted out 20 runs in the two contests. Bloomfield's record is now 10 wins, 1 loss.

Ron White started the first contest, on the hill for the Wildcats, but didn't have it and was lifted. Johnson came on to silence Puxico for the last 4 innings and pick up the Cat victory.

Wise and White led the Bloomfield attack with two hits each.

In the second contest of the afternoon, Rodney Bullinger, Bloomfield ace righthander went to the mound, to give Puxico it's second defeat. Bullinger struck out 5 men, allowing only two Puxico hits in the contest. Bullinger has now won 7, lost 1. King was the loser for the Indians.

Puxico takes up its march for the state baseball crown, Thursday in the sectional at Perryville. They play Crystal City for the right to go to the state baseball tourney.

Poplar Bluff will again be the site of Olympic track and field competition when the SEMO Amateur Athletic Association stages the 1965 Junior Olympics at the Poplar Bluff High School Stadium. The preliminary meet is scheduled for Saturday, June 5. The Finals are scheduled for the next Saturday, June 12.

The Junior Olympic program is sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and has grown steadily, participation wise, each year. The events have been developed and refined for the beginniner as well as the expert and is equally adaptable from the smallest town to the largest city.

Boys and girls are permitted to participate in three events and must compete in the age group corresponding to their age. Their division will be decided by their age on June 5, 1965.

Mizzou Leads Big Eight In Hitting, Iowa State Second

Big Eight Baseball
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri and Iowa State, the top two contenders in Big Eight baseball dominate most of the individual and team statistics except for Kansas State's Stu Steele, the new batting leader at .488.

Bob Robben of Missouri dropped to second place at .482, with defending champ Steve McGreevy of Kansas next with .434. Both Dan Rudanovich of Missouri and Tony Sellari of Oklahoma State are batting .400.

Missouri has three other hitters among the leaders, with Gene Stephenson at .342, Jim Pace .341 and Mike Strode .321, making five in the top 14. Iowa State has only one, Jerry Retzlaff at .327.

Iowa State ranks 1-2-4 in the pitching rankings, based on earned runs allowed, with Tim Van Galder at 0.90, Bob Ziegler 1.50 and Scott Morton 1.91. Only other pitcher under two earned runs a game is Dick Frank of OSU with 1.53. Missouri's top man is Orv Hollrah at 3.06.

In the team rankings, Missouri has scored 102 runs, Iowa State 86 for second. Nebraska has permitted only 38 runs in 13 games, Iowa State 44 in 14, with Missouri well back at 61. In team ERA, however, Iowa State is far in front at 1.41, Nebraska has 2.97, OSU 3.96, Colorado 4.05 and Missouri 4.23. Nebraska has given up only seven unearned runs, Iowa State 27. This is reflected in team fielding, with Nebraska on top at .952 and Iowa State seventh with .935.

Missouri, with an 11-3 record, and Iowa State 10-4, appear headed for a championship showdown in the closing series of the season at Ames May 21-22. Before this, however, Iowa State has the toughest job, meeting Oklahoma State, 8-7, at Stillwater Friday and Saturday while Missouri faces Colorado, 5-8, at Columbia.

In other series, Kansas, 7-8, is at K-State, 2-11, and Oklahoma, 5-10, at Nedraska, 8-5. Nebraska still has a mathematical title change if the top two stumble. Two games will be played Friday, one Saturday in each series.

The Huskers have two top pitchers in Stan Bahnsen with a 2.07 ERA and Bob Hergenrader 2.25, but rank seventh in team batting at .218.

Oklahoma's Carl Schriener still leads Robben 5-4 for the home run crown but Robben is on top 20-16 over Schreiner in RBI. Robben leads with 27 hits, Strode with 6 doubles, and Retlaff with 9 stolen bases. Steve Renko of Kansas leads in strikeouts with a 1.61 average, 50 in 31 innings. Missouri's Mike Eader has the best bases on balls record with three in 18 2-3 innings.

Mets Down Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York used Curt Simmons' only walk of the game and a .185 hitter named Bobby Klaus to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Wednesday at New York.

It was Simmons' fourth loss of the season against one victory and left the Cardinals with an 11-14 record in the National League race.

Simmons walked his man and then Klaus doubled to give the Mets their victory.

Ken Boyer got St. Louis' only run when he led off the seventh inning with a 400-foot home run over the centerfield fence to tie the game.

New York got their first run in the third inning.

The loss gave the Cardinals a 1-1 split with the Mets in a two game series.

St. Louis is idle today.

Kansas City takes on the White Sox again today at Chicago. The Athletics will start Diego Segui 2 - 3 against Chicago's Gary Peters 2-2.

The Athletics lost a doubleheader to the White Sox Wednesday, 7-4 and 6-4, even though they should have been mad because the White Sox wouldn't allow their mascot mule inside the ball park.

Dick Green bashed a grand slam home run for the A's in the first game but it wasn't enough. Jim Gentile and Bill Bryan hit home runs for Kansas City in the night cap.

Baseball Attendance

NEW YORK AP -- Major league baseball attendance for the first month of the 1965 season was up 5.4 per cent over last year, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

The survey through Tuesday's games also reflected continued fan apathy in Milwaukee and Kansas City plus a resurgence in Houston where the Astros are playing in their new, enclosed stadium.

The Braves, committed to play in Atlanta next year, have averaged only 2,826 paid in their last 11 home appearances. Coupled with an opening-game turnstile count of 33,874 the total is 64,957. Last season, when they finished with an aggregate of 910,000, Milwaukee averaged 11,500 for the first 12 home dates.

Kansas City has averaged only 6,700 for 11 home dates. The aggregate of 74,405 is 16,425 under last season. The A's had the lowest home attendance in either major league in 1964 -- 642,478.

The Astros have attracted 228,052 for 11 appearances in the 45,000-seat Astrodome for an average attendance of 26,000. In the 32,601 - seat Colts Stadium a year ago the Houston club averaged 10,500 for the same number of dates.

The over-all big league attendance is 3,018,591 compared to 2,862,622 in the same number of 1964 dates. The National League shows an increase of 105,715 and the American is up 50,254.

Mizzou To Take Meet

LINCOLN, Neb. AP -- The title race could be the tightest in history at the 37th Big Eight track championships starting here Friday. The Associated Press form chart prediction comes out this way-Missouri 85, Oklahoma 84 and Kansas 81.

Kansas is the defending champion and the Jayhawks may be expected to go all-out to give Coach Bill Easton another championship in his final season. But Colorado and Oklahome State may cut into Kansas distance power. The Jayhawks must score in the sprints to win it.

Missouri won the league indoor crown a year ago, then skidded to third in the outdoor. This year the Tigers again won the indoor and they will be determined to even matters for last year. But they may need third place finishes from Charles Allen in the 100 and 220 and Earl Denny in the broad jump. The competition is terrific in all three.

Oklahoma's field event strength will match that of Kansas if Ken Farris Jr. is in top form in the triple jump and broad jump. He hurt his back a week ago and is recovering. He has 1-2 potential in both events. The Sooners are picked for 84 points with only four points in these two events.

The prediction chart lists Nebraska a close fourth at 76, Oklahoma State 69, Colorado 59, Kansas State 48 and Iowa State 27. Nebraska and OSU are potent in the running events but weak in the field.

Nebraska sprinter Charlie Greene is picked to win both the 100 and 220 and anchor a winning 440 relay team. He will be a threat to the league records of 9.4 and 20.9. Oklahoma's Bill Calhoun, with a best of 46.7, is the choice to unseat Nebraska's Dave Crook in the 440. Jim Jackson of Oklahoma is chosen No. 2 in both the 100 and 220.

Colorado's Jim Miller is chosen to be the only other double winner. He is the American record holder in the 330 hurdles at 36.1 and co-holder of the meet mark of 14 flat in the highs.

Robin Lingle of Missouri, with a best of 4:01.7, is the choice to win the mile and smash the meet record of 4:04.9. But Dave Wighton of Colorado, who will concentrate on the three-mile, is chosen to upset Lingle for the gold medal. This will cut into Kansas strength. Herald Hadley and John Lawson of the Jayhawks may have to double in the mile and three-mile.

Missouri also expected to get gold metals from Gene Crews in the shot put and Steve Herndon in the high jump, where a meet mark of 6-10 may result from his battle with OSU's Russ Laverty and Oklahoma's Jim Johnson.

Oklahoma's other gold medals will come from pole vaulter Jim Farrell and Carl Pelligrini in the discus, a close one over OSU's Miles Lister.

Kansas is picked for only one gold medal, by Glenn Martin with a possible record in the triple jump. OSU will dominate the 880.

Only three meet records appear safe against an outstanding field. Closed-circuit television with instant play-back equipment will be used for the first time anywhere in track.

The program will be dedicated to the late Don Pierce, former Kansas publicity director and track expert, to Easton and to Harry Carlson, retiring Colorado athletic director.

Nicklaus Picked To Win At New Orleans Golf Tourney

NEW ORLEANS AP -- Jack's Pack and Chi Chi's Banditos collide today as the $100,000 greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament gets under way with the beefy Ohioan and the pint - sized Puerto Rican playing in the same threesome.

Masters champ Jack Nicklaus is the 6-1 choice to win the rich tourney at the plush 6,500-yard Lakewood Country Club course, but a number of the pros say Chi Chi Rodriguez is the man to beat.

The 5-foot-7 Rodriguez, who weighs a mere 120 pounds, is on a hot streak and has finished high in the tourneys preceding this one.

At the rain-plagued Colonial National Invitational, which wound up Tuesday, Chi Chi tied for third with three others.

The pluckish Latin chatters constantly with the gallery while playing and some of the other pros complain about it. Not so with Nicklaus, who will play with Chi Chi and tour regular Rod Funseth both today and Friday.

"It doesn't bother me," said Nicklaus. "In fact, I find he keeps me loose."

Chi Chi has earned $12,315 so far this year on the tour and put on a blazing stretch drive just two weeks ago in the Tournament of Champions and nearly caught up with Arnold Palmer.

Arnie's army will be here, too, as Palmer renews his rivalry with Nicklaus for the fairways crown. A victory for Palmer here would pull him much closer to Nicklaus in the earnings list. Nicklaus with $34,400 in official money, has won twice as much as Palmer.

Success hasn't gone to its price

After all, you don't get the No. 1 place (or stay there year after year after year) unless you give people a lot for their money. That, Chevrolet does. Look what's new for 1965. Everything.

Like the handsomest new styling you've ever turned around for another glance at. Like Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride, even better now with Wide-Stance to steady things as you go. Like however much economy or excitement you'd want, our miserly 140-hp Six to our ferocious Turbo-Jet V8, 325 hp on order.

Besides price, one other thing hasn't changed: Chevrolet's traditional resale value . . . still so good you won't believe it until you get it. So get it (along with all that's new) at your Chevrolet dealer's. Now.

Bloomfield A Wins Two At Puxico

Bloomfield, Oran District - Tournament Champs, continued their winning ways, yesterday sweeping an easy double hitter victory from Stoddard County foe Puxico, 11 to 2 and 9 to 2.

The Wildcats highly potent attack blasted out 20 runs in the two contests. Bloomfield's record is now 10 wins, 1 loss.

Ron White started the first contest, on the hill for the Wildcats, but didn't have it and was lifted. Johnson came on to silence Puxico for the last 4 innings and pick up the Cat victory.

Wise and White led the Bloomfield attack with two hits each.

In the second contest of the afternoon, Rodney Bullinger, Bloomfield ace righthander went to the mound, to give Puxico it's second defeat. Bullinger struck out 5 men, allowing only two Puxico hits in the contest. Bullinger has now won 7, lost 1. King was the loser for the Indians.

Puxico takes up its march for the state baseball crown, Thursday in the sectional at Perryville. They play Crystal City for the right to go to the state baseball tourney.

Poplar Bluff will again be the site of Olympic track and field competition when the SEMO Amateur Athletic Association stages the 1965 Junior Olympics at the Poplar Bluff High School Stadium. The preliminary meet is scheduled for Saturday, June 5. The Finals are scheduled for the next Saturday, June 12.

The Junior Olympic program is sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and has grown steadily, participation wise, each year. The events have been developed and refined for the beginniner as well as the expert and is equally adaptable from the smallest town to the largest city.

Boys and girls are permitted to participate in three events and must compete in the age group corresponding to their age. Their division will be decided by their age on June 5, 1965.

Mizzou Leads Big Eight In Hitting, Iowa State Second

Big Eight Baseball
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri and Iowa State, the top two contenders in Big Eight baseball dominate most of the individual and team statistics except for Kansas State's Stu Steele, the new batting leader at .488.

Bob Robben of Missouri dropped to second place at .482, with defending champ Steve McGreevy of Kansas next with .434. Both Dan Rudanovich of Missouri and Tony Sellari of Oklahoma State are batting .400.

Missouri has three other hitters among the leaders, with Gene Stephenson at .342, Jim Pace .341 and Mike Strode .321, making five in the top 14. Iowa State has only one, Jerry Retzlaff at .327.

Iowa State ranks 1-2-4 in the pitching rankings, based on earned runs allowed, with Tim Van Galder at 0.90, Bob Ziegler 1.50 and Scott Morton 1.91. Only other pitcher under two earned runs a game is Dick Frank of OSU with 1.53. Missouri's top man is Orv Hollrah at 3.06.

In the team rankings, Missouri has scored 102 runs, Iowa State 86 for second. Nebraska has permitted only 38 runs in 13 games, Iowa State 44 in 14, with Missouri well back at 61. In team ERA, however, Iowa State is far in front at 1.41, Nebraska has 2.97, OSU 3.96, Colorado 4.05 and Missouri 4.23. Nebraska has given up only seven unearned runs, Iowa State 27. This is reflected in team fielding, with Nebraska on top at .952 and Iowa State seventh with .935.

Missouri, with an 11-3 record, and Iowa State 10-4, appear headed for a championship showdown in the closing series of the season at Ames May 21-22. Before this, however, Iowa State has the toughest job, meeting Oklahoma State, 8-7, at Stillwater Friday and Saturday while Missouri faces Colorado, 5-8, at Columbia.

In other series, Kansas, 7-8, is at K-State, 2-11, and Oklahoma, 5-10, at Nedraska, 8-5. Nebraska still has a mathematical title change if the top two stumble. Two games will be played Friday, one Saturday in each series.

The Huskers have two top pitchers in Stan Bahnsen with a 2.07 ERA and Bob Hergenrader 2.25, but rank seventh in team batting at .218.

Oklahoma's Carl Schriener still leads Robben 5-4 for the home run crown but Robben is on top 20-16 over Schreiner in RBI. Robben leads with 27 hits, Strode with 6 doubles, and Retlaff with 9 stolen bases. Steve Renko of Kansas leads in strikeouts with a 1.61 average, 50 in 31 innings. Missouri's Mike Eader has the best bases on balls record with three in 18 2-3 innings.

Nicklaus Picked To Win At New Orleans Golf Tourney

NEW ORLEANS AP -- Jack's Pack and Chi Chi's Banditos collide today as the $100,000 greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament gets under way with the beefy Ohioan and the pint - sized Puerto Rican playing in the same threesome.

Masters champ Jack Nicklaus is the 6-1 choice to win the rich tourney at the plush 6,500-yard Lakewood Country Club course, but a number of the pros say Chi Chi Rodriguez is the man to beat.

Mets Down Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York used Curt Simmons' only walk of the game and a .185 hitter named Bobby Klaus to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Wednesday at New York.

It was Simmons' fourth loss of the season against one victory and left the Cardinals with an 11-14 record in the National League race.

Simmons walked his man and then Klaus doubled to give the Mets their victory.

Ken Boyer got St. Louis' only run when he led off the seventh inning with a 400-foot home run over the centerfield fence to tie the game.

New York got their first run in the third inning.

The loss gave the Cardinals a 1-1 split with the Mets in a two game series.

St. Louis is idle today.

Kansas City takes on the White Sox again today at Chicago. The Athletics will start Diego Segui 2 - 3 against Chicago's Gary Peters 2-2.

The Athletics lost a doubleheader to the White Sox Wednesday, 7-4 and 6-4, even though they should have been mad because the White Sox wouldn't allow their mascot mule inside the ball park.

Dick Green bashed a grand slam home run for the A's in the first game but it wasn't enough. Jim Gentile and Bill Bryan hit home runs for Kansas City in the night cap.

Baseball Attendance

NEW YORK AP -- Major league baseball attendance for the first month of the 1965 season was up 5.4 per cent over last year, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

The survey through Tuesday's games also reflected continued fan apathy in Milwaukee and Kansas City plus a resurgence in Houston where the Astros are playing in their new, enclosed stadium.

The Braves, committed to play in Atlanta next year, have averaged only 2,826 paid in their last 11 home appearances. Coupled with an opening-game turnstile count of 33,874 the total is 64,957. Last season, when they finished with an aggregate of 910,000, Milwaukee averaged 11,500 for the first 12 home dates.

Kansas City has averaged only 6,700 for 11 home dates. The aggregate of 74,405 is 16,425 under last season. The A's had the lowest home attendance in either major league in 1964 -- 642,478.

The Astros have attracted 228,052 for 11 appearances in the 45,000-seat Astrodome for an average attendance of 26,000. In the 32,601 - seat Colts Stadium a year ago the Houston club averaged 10,500 for the same number of dates.

The over-all big league attendance is 3,018,591 compared to 2,862,622 in the same number of 1964 dates. The National League shows an increase of 105,715 and the American is up 50,254.

After all, you don't get the No. 1 place (or stay there year after year after year) unless you give people a lot for their money. That, Chevrolet does. Look what's new for 1965. Everything.

Like the handsomest new styling you've ever turned around for another glance at. Like Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride, even better now with Wide-Stance to steady things as you go. Like however much economy or excitement you'd want, our miserly 140-hp Six to our ferocious Turbo-Jet V8, 325 hp on order.

Besides price, one other thing hasn't changed: Chevrolet's traditional resale value . . . still so good you won't believe it until you get it. So get it (along with all that's new) at your Chevrolet dealer's. Now.

The Beat Of A Female Journalist In Alaska

NEW YORK AP -- Genie Chance, wife of an Anchorage, Alaska, automobile dealer and mother of three children, had the kind of free-wheeling job every broadcast journalist dreams about.

As a regular reporter for an Anchorage radio station 14 months ago, her beat covered an area of about 18,000 square miles. She chased police cars and fire engines in Anchorage but sometimes found herself with camera and tape recorder, aboard a crab boat en route to a remote Eskimo village; in a helicopter covering troops training for arctic warfare; in a plane with smoke jumpers fighting a 10,000-acre tundra fire.

Under such circumstances, it was ironic that Genie Chance's biggest story broke when she was riding quietly down an Anchorage street in her automobile. It was on March 27, 1964, and all of a sudden her car began to bounce.

"I thought at first it was a flat tire," she recalls. "Then I saw people running out of buildings and looking up -- and buildings literally began to wave."

It was the great Alaskan earthquake. Mrs. Chance drove immediately -- automatically -- to the city's public safety building which was anything but safe after the quake and using the broadcasting equipment in her automobile remained on duty continuously for 59 hours. She sent out news to a city and countryside whose telephone communications were cut by diaster, organized ham radio operators, gathered rescue information, reunited separated families and helped set up public shelters and rescue teams.

In recognition of her level-headed marathon, Texas-born Mrs. Chance recently was given the top "Golden Mike" award of a national women's magazine McCalls.

"Some of the things I saw are memories you want to push out of your mind," she says. "But others you want to remember. I found that I was getting on with my job in an emergency the best I could--but 10 days later, I had a big reaction--hysterics and a good cry. My husband, thank heavens, was very sympathetic."

CBS, elated with the success of the first Barbara Streisand special program, has scheduled a second one for next October.

The re-run of NBC's "The Louvre," orginially scheduled for Friday night, has been moved to June 8, thus opening up an hour for Soviet film of the most recent cosmonauts on their space adventure.

Supervisors To Be Voted On In County

BENTON - May 17 is the final date for turning in to the Soil and Water District office in Benton, nominating petitions for supervisors for the Soil and Water District of Scott County. Those who have been nominated by the nominating committee set up by the local Board are as follows: Roby Hitt, Franklin Schlosser and Vincent Miller for Area I which includes Commerce and Kelso townships. For Area III, John Engram, James W. Abernathy and Louis Watkins. The townships of Morley and Richland comprise Area III. Only two areas are to have elections this year. Roby Hitt and John Engram terms were for two years. They are eligible for re-election.

These names will be included on the election ballots for the representative areas, to be mailed out to all farm owners in areas voting May 18-19, 1965, together with any additional nominations received by petitions presented at the District office in Benton on or before May 17, 1965.

In order to make nominations by petition it will be necessary to secure at least 25 signatures of farm owners, or those who have power of attorney on a farm, within the area from which nominations are received. The petition forms may be secured at the Soil and Water Conservation District office, Benton, Tom B. Stroup, secretary.

Those nominated for supervisors must have been taxpayers within the District of Scott County for at least the past two years, must reside and own or have power of attorney on a farm in the area for which they are nominated.

Only one ballot will be mailed to a landowner, however, if he owns more than one farm he can secure additional ballots from the S&W Dist. Secretary or from any supervisor on the board. All ballots are to be returned to the County Clerk's office by May 31 to be counted.

Experts say half the population will be under 25 years old in another 10 years. How come, when everybody's growing older?

Females Can Ride On The Runningboard Of Cable Cars

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- Tradition dies hard in this windy city, and none has been laid to rest with more wordage than the custom of the "outside step" of the dear old dinky cable cars.

Since 1873, when they first clattered up the hills of San Francsico, it has been traditional that the weaker sex--that is to say, women -- should not ride the outside step.

The outside step - a 10-foot-long running board along the outside seat - was a male stronghold. The woman who tried to ride this hallowed plank was soon told off by the conductor, or by the gripman who drives the cars with long steel grips that clutch the moving cable.

But in recent weeks the outside step has been integrated--for women.

"Get 'em off!" bellowed Tom McGrath, spokesman for the Cable Car Gripmen's Union, when a college coed, Mona Hutchin, 19, dared break the ice. She insisted she could ride outside - lawfully.

And so she could. In fact, so could all females. Turned out there is no law against women riding the step.

"It doesn't make any difference to me whether they ride outside," said husky John Hepburn, gripman of the Hyde Street Line.

Conductor Frank Brown agreed: "No difference to me at all," he said. "If they fall off, they fall off. Just wait, they'll start falling off."

No women were on the step at the time. The main objections to their riding there are that they're weaker than men, wear skirts that can blow revealingly aloft in high breezes, and -- besides - they're women! The objection about the skirts was based on the theory that the girls, in trying to get their windblown skirts down, would forget about hanging on to the railing and topple off.

On another car a little later:

"Now look. Are you two going to stand out there?" gripman Jim Stewart said, glowering at Sue Cuddeback and Kerin Baker.

"Then you got to hang on with both hands or in you come. Both hands!"

The girls, determined, stayed put.

Passengers turned as one to watch.

"Both hands, see," snarled Stewart.

"How are we going to get our fares if we have to hang on with both hands?" said Sue, hanging on with both hands.

"I don't care," scoffed Stewart. "Like I said, both, both hands!"

The girls got off without paying their fares.

"U-Turns" Being Made By Missouri House

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House made a U-turn today to reconsider and pass a bank bill it had defeated Tuesday.

The measure, to allow bank facilities to be located as much as 4,000 yards from the parent bank and to accept loan payments, was killed Tuesday 75-59.

Today it was reconsidered and passed 98-63. The quick switch indicated some members had been contacted by the bill's sponsors overnight.

Under present law bank facilities must be located within 1,000 yards of the parent institution and they can only make change, cash checks and accept deposits.

Having disposed of that bill, the House turned on a bill that would allow communities having industrial development plants to ask the industries for a payment in lieu of taxes. After lengthy argument the House killed the measure 76-56. It takes 82 affirmative votes to pass a bill.

Sponsors said the bill would permit communities having plants to contract with the occupying industries so the companies would make the payment in lieu of taxes, for such purposes as school financing.

They said the attorney general has held that without such a law the industries would not pay anything toward financing of school and community operations.

But one opponent, Rep. Raymond Roberts, D-St. Francois County, said he thought the bill was unconstitutional and "it may jeopardize the entire industrial development program."

He said the courts have held that a leasehold interest in taxable and so industries occupying community plants now are subject to taxation.

Tuesday the House passed a bill setting up a system of sheltered workshops for the handicapped.

HANNIBAL, Mo. - Girl Scout Troop 142 of Urbana, Ill., will make its trip to Hannibal after all.

Members had planned to make the trip earlier this month but cancelled it because of the Mississippi River floods. Instead the troop sent its trip money, totaling $150, to the city, asking that it be used for flood relief.

Impressed by the gesture of the Scouts, Hannibal residents started a fund to provide the girls with the trip. This morning KHMO Radio, which has been handling the contributions, reported $163 had been donated.

The platypus, a mammal which lays eggs, is one of the most primitive of the world's living creatures. It has a long, flat, leathery muzzle which resembles a duck's bill. It's body is furry and it provides milk for its young. The adult male is about two feet in length, including its beaver-like tail. The male has on each side of its ankles a sharp spur connected to a poison sac. When these spurs are wielded the wounds can be fatal in small animals, but only painful in the larger ones and in man. The platypus is confined to Australia and Tasmania.

The Beat Of A Female Journalist In Alaska

NEW YORK AP -- Genie Chance, wife of an Anchorage, Alaska, automobile dealer and mother of three children, had the kind of free-wheeling job every broadcast journalist dreams about.

As a regular reporter for an Anchorage radio station 14 months ago, her beat covered an area of about 18,000 square miles. She chased police cars and fire engines in Anchorage but sometimes found herself with camera and tape recorder, aboard a crab boat en route to a remote Eskimo village; in a helicopter covering troops training for arctic warfare; in a plane with smoke jumpers fighting a 10,000-acre tundra fire.

Under such circumstances, it was ironic that Genie Chance's biggest story broke when she was riding quietly down an Anchorage street in her automobile. It was on March 27, 1964, and all of a sudden her car began to bounce.

"I thought at first it was a flat tire," she recalls. "Then I saw people running out of buildings and looking up -- and buildings literally began to wave."

It was the great Alaskan earthquake. Mrs. Chance drove immediately -- automatically -- to the city's public safety building which was anything but safe after the quake and using the broadcasting equipment in her automobile remained on duty continuously for 59 hours. She sent out news to a city and countryside whose telephone communications were cut by diaster, organized ham radio operators, gathered rescue information, reunited separated families and helped set up public shelters and rescue teams.

In recognition of her level-headed marathon, Texas-born Mrs. Chance recently was given the top "Golden Mike" award of a national women's magazine McCalls.

"Some of the things I saw are memories you want to push out of your mind," she says. "But others you want to remember. I found that I was getting on with my job in an emergency the best I could--but 10 days later, I had a big reaction--hysterics and a good cry. My husband, thank heavens, was very sympathetic."

CBS, elated with the success of the first Barbara Streisand special program, has scheduled a second one for next October.

The re-run of NBC's "The Louvre," orginially scheduled for Friday night, has been moved to June 8, thus opening up an hour for Soviet film of the most recent cosmonauts on their space adventure.

Supervisors To Be Voted On In County

BENTON - May 17 is the final date for turning in to the Soil and Water District office in Benton, nominating petitions for supervisors for the Soil and Water District of Scott County. Those who have been nominated by the nominating committee set up by the local Board are as follows: Roby Hitt, Franklin Schlosser and Vincent Miller for Area I which includes Commerce and Kelso townships. For Area III, John Engram, James W. Abernathy and Louis Watkins. The townships of Morley and Richland comprise Area III. Only two areas are to have elections this year. Roby Hitt and John Engram terms were for two years. They are eligible for re-election.

These names will be included on the election ballots for the representative areas, to be mailed out to all farm owners in areas voting May 18-19, 1965, together with any additional nominations received by petitions presented at the District office in Benton on or before May 17, 1965.

In order to make nominations by petition it will be necessary to secure at least 25 signatures of farm owners, or those who have power of attorney on a farm, within the area from which nominations are received. The petition forms may be secured at the Soil and Water Conservation District office, Benton, Tom B. Stroup, secretary.

Those nominated for supervisors must have been taxpayers within the District of Scott County for at least the past two years, must reside and own or have power of attorney on a farm in the area for which they are nominated.

Only one ballot will be mailed to a landowner, however, if he owns more than one farm he can secure additional ballots from the S&W Dist. Secretary or from any supervisor on the board. All ballots are to be returned to the County Clerk's office by May 31 to be counted.

Birth Control And The Law

The Poe Case. This second forerunner of the current suit began in 1959 as a massive legal challenge to the birth-control statute. A battery of civil suits was filed, the components attacking the law on various grounds. Involved were Dr. Buxton of Yale and a number of persons identified as Doe, Hoe, Poe and Roe. (Fictitious names are permitted in certain cases.)

Dr. Buxton claimed that his rights to liberty and property (in practicing his profession) were infringed. He could not, he said, prescribe contraception in accordance with accepted medical practice without running the risk of criminal prosecution and loss of his license to practice.

Patient's Cases

Mrs. Doe held that her life was being endangered by the law. She needed contraception because of hypertensive cardiovascular disease and other serious physical conditions resulting from a cerebral hemorrhage during an earlier pregnancy that terminated in stillbirth. It was Dr. Buxton's opinion that further pregnancy would most likely result in her death.

Mrs. Hoe sued on grounds that an Rh blood factor had already produced four consecutive children who were dead at time of delivery or died within 48 hours. The medical outlook for a normal child was "highly unlikely."

Mrs. Poe's suit was based on fact that a genetic condition had caused the death of three congenitally abnormal children within ten days of birth. Medical opinion held, she said, that another pregnancy would probably subject her to psychological stress to the breaking point.

Mr. and Mrs. Roe sued on entirely different grounds. They were entitled to contraceptive services, they maintained, because they wished to postpone the birth of children until they were "prepared psychologically or economically for the duties and obligations of parenthood."

Due Process Cited

On these various grounds, all the complainants contended that the Connecticut law deprived them of life and liberty without due process of law, as guaranteed by the 14th Amendment. The lower court which heard the suits rejected the arguments and so, once more, the Connecticut Supreme Court was asked to decide the constitutionality of the birth-control ban.

This time, the law was upheld unanimously, with the court restating the "abstention" advice offered earlier. Even if contraception is "the best and safest preventive measure which medical science can offer," the judge said, "that fact does not make it absolutely necessary for the legislature to accept such a solution in all cases, where there is . . . another alternative, abstinence from sexual intercourse."

The case based on psychological and economic reasons was rejected on grounds that the complainants' rights had previously been decided — in the Nelson case where the statute was upheld as a "reasonable exercise of police power" by the state.

High Court Encore

It was through this route that the U. S. Supreme Court was asked for the second time to judge the constitutionality of Connecticut's birth-control ban. This time, it was hoped, the legal gaps in the Tileston case were plugged. For one thing, Dr. Buxton was now asserting a Constitutional right of his own. For another, the patients were seeking legal relief from danger to their health and life.

But the challengers were disappointed anew. They had proper legal standing, but now other factors undercut their civil suits. First, contraceptives were on sale in Connecticut drug stores (even if they were inferior to those which would probably be prescribed by a physician). Second, the use section of the law had never been invoked against a resident. And third, physicians had not been prosecuted under the act since the 1939 raid on the Birth Control League's clinic.

As a result, a majority of the justices found in June, 1961, that no "genuine case or controversy" existed. The fact that the state had "not chosen to press the enforcement of this statute deprives these controversies of the immediacy which is an indispensable condition of Constitutional adjudication," they said.

Dissent Stated

Among the dissenters to this opinion was Justice William O. Douglas, who observed that "when the State makes 'use' (of contraceptives) a crime and applies criminal sanctions to man and wife, the State has entered the innermost sanctum of the home. . . And proof of its violation necessarily involves an inquiry into the relations between husband and wife. . . the idea of allowing the State that leeway is congenial only to a totalitarian regime."

Ironically, however, it was the majority opinion which led directly to the case now under consideration. For immediately upon announcement of the Court's ruling the (reorganized and renamed) Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut applauded "the recognition by the Court that the law has in fact become a nullity."

Three and a half months later, the League opened a clinic in New Haven. The police soon arrived to investigate. A complaint brought by a resident contended that the facility was "passing out immoral literature and breaking the law." He added that "every moment the clinic stays open another child is not born."

Arrests Made

A week after the opening, Dr. Buxton, the clinic's medical director, and Mrs. Griswold, who had taken histories from patients, described methods of contraception, and given a drug to a woman, were arrested. At their trial they pleaded innocent. In January, 1962, they were found guilty. Their convictions were upheld by an appellate court and the Connecticut Supreme Court.

In practice, therefore, the state law was not a nullity as far as birth-control clinics were concerned. Aware of this, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed last December to scan the issues a third time. And this time, Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold hope, they will be able to overcome the Court's reticence (expressed in the Tileston and Poe cases) to decide the fundamental issues.

The attack in the Buxton-Griswold case is multi-pronged and comes not only from the defendants but in the form of three "friend of the court" briefs.

One, submitted by 141 physicians, contends that proper medical practice and patient care are affected. The doctors, all of whom are specialists in obstetrics and gynecology and pediatrics, are heads of departments in these specialties at virtually all of the U.S.'s medical schools; several are current or past presidents of specialist societies.

Dear Charlie,

I don't know if you have seen this "Socialist" newspaper being printed on the campus of Missouri University. I don't know what can be done to control things like this. I shouldn't say control but lack of pressure from the proper individuals. I find the most dangerous situation we have is that the "good" people don't want to become involved. This leaves a void which people fill who are not quite so good. Apathy is what is destroying our way of life, the rabble is far in the minority but only when there is a majority of good citizens. If they shirk the responsibility, then indeed rabble such as is growing steadily on our campus will take the reins. If you would editorialize these facts in the way only you can, perhaps just a few good people would stir for just a moment and become aware of the world around them and not just their little block. They might realize that tomorrow may be too late to effectively control bad situations, and leave the only other alternative of accepting them. We seem to think that this is far away but it is right in your homes and you don't know it. How many Sikeston students attend Missouri University?

There is no danger to hearing or being exposed to differing opinions if you are well enough schooled in the true principles of our great nation. But are we still training individuals, people with self reliance, confidence in their own ability, and a desire to get ahead by their own labors, or frightened psuedo intellectuals looking for a free ride. Let me close with a quote from an article by Dr. Harris, the U. S. Senate Chaplin.

"A fatal fallacy of so many rose-tinted social schemes is to regard government as a sort of escalator upon which even the indolent may be carried up to desired levels whether they personally exert themselves or not. . . Far too many people are perfectly willing just to recline on the moving stairway while they, themselves, do little but enjoy the sensation and the scenery."

Sincerely,
Tony Heckemeyer

Have You an Identity?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Identify yourself!" That's the command of the guard at the border of the country. It's the polite question of the passport officer. It's the querulous request of the banker who wonders about your check. It's the common question as a man gives his assurance of his reputation as well as of his existence.

A whole host of causes have indicated the need modern man has in finding this identification in something beyond his own situation. From civil rights to Peace Corps, from the gyrating Beatlemaniac to the dedicated scientist, men have identified themselves with a cause in which they can lose themselves.

The search for personhood is more than joining a group or wearing a name bracelet. It's more than a badge or an identity card.

It is the ability to become an organized, effective and creative person, one who has found himself not as a notorious person or a personality-cult or as a publicity seeker. That's why FINDING self is always LOSING self.

There are three simple stories in the Bible which ought to be retold in these difficult and exciting days.

There was a shepherd who noticed the loss of one sheep, so he hunted until he had found it and restored it to the flock. He gave identity to the sheep.

There was a woman who lost a coin—really a part of her dowry, as though she had lost the diamond from her engagement ring. She hunted in every dark corner until she found it and restored it to its rightful place. She gave it identity.

There was a father who waited for his wayward son despite that rascal's insistence on wasting his inheritance. Having lost all, the son came to himself and returned to be his father's servant. Arriving home, the father restored him to the family circle. He renewed the son's identity.

This is the primary importance of real religion. It is the winning of persons to the realization of that which they already are. The sheep was already a part of the flock, the son was already a member of the family. That had to be restated and recovered.

A casual look around any neighborhood can emphasize the number of persons who have either lost identity or are trying to deny it to others. In a world which is all too often impersonal, it is important to lose one's self in the right cause. The stakes are high. Some people manage to elude the question for all too long a time but ultimately there is the command: "Identify yourself." That person has really come to himself who knows that he is a part of the family-hood of God and is free to live like it.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The school's Open House Program will begin this week. Some of the work accomplished this school year will be displayed. Specifically, Senior High will have their Open House at 6:30 P.M., Friday, May 14. Visitors may tour the classrooms, shops, libraries and laboratories to view the displays and visit with friends and then at 8:30 the Senior High Band will give a "pop" concert on the outdoor stage at the south end of the campus.

Next week at the other units of our school system, the schedule will be as follows: Middle School, May 17 at 6:30 P.M.; Matthews, May 18 at 7:00 P.M.; Southwest and Lincoln, May 19 at 7:00 P.M.; and the activities will close Thursday evening, May 20 at Airport and Lee Hunter with the visitation beginning at 7:00 P.M.

The Open House activities have proven popular in the past. We have been having them for some 10-12 years and usually attendance runs into the many hundreds. Last year we estimated that over 2,000 visitors were present.

Everyone is invited to attend and this provides a good opportunity to judge the scope and quality of a small portion of the work which is accomplished during the school year.

Baccalaureate services for the Seniors of 1965 will be held May 23 at 7:30 P.M. on the outdoor stage at Senior High School and Commencement for the graduates will be May 28 at 7:00 P.M. at the same place. In the event of inclement weather, the ceremonies will probably be moved into the Senior High physical education building.

---

It is a grim fact that there are 11,500,000 adults in the United States, or roughly one in ten adults, who have less than a sixth grade education and believe it or not, 2,700,000 adults who have never been to school at all. While it is true that some of these people have continued to learn and have educated themselves, most of this group are either illiterates or semi - illiterates. And, unfortunately these people are being eliminated in increasing numbers from the job market. Many corporations won't even interview a job seeker until he has graduated from high school. The reason: the illiterate usually can't follow instructions for machines, take a telephone message correctly, add up a bill at the grocery store or sign a personal check. He can't, in many cases, absorb the training or retraining program which are a part of today's work life.

The U.S. Office of Education says that the economic "drag" caused by illiteracy and under education is costing the country 100 billion dollars a year as the difference between what these people could earn with a basic education and what they actually are earning without it.

Another cost also running into the billions is that many of these people are being supported on welfare programs. Indirect costs, even greater, may be in the areas of physical and mental illness, crimes, delinquency, illegitimacy, urban blight, etc. Illiteracy may be passed from generation along with poverty and futility. Unemployment for the illiterate and especially in the city is as high as 50 per cent against an over all national unemployment rate of under 5 per cent.

If we were willing to spend the money, and in the long run to save or to make money by so doing, many of these people could be educated or trained to the point where they could become self-supporting citizens. We are making some attempt to solve this problem on a small scale in the Southeast Missouri area through the Multi - Occupational training program which we are organizing and expect to begin about the latter part of June.

We are indebted for some of the facts in the above statement to Sylvia Porter, well known economic and business columnist.

Education is big business. Though it is not nearly as big as it should be, in relation to what it can do for us individually and as a group, the money required for education is still a very considerable total.

Last year the national average cost per pupil, in average daily attendance, in public elementary and secondary schools for operation and maintenance of the educational program was $483. Missouri was considerably below this, ranking 29th among the states, and the state average per pupil expenditure was $437. Sikeston's cost per pupil in average daily attendance was $366 or $117 less than the national average. (We didn't have any more money.)

Citizens, on the average through the United States, last year spent 3.72 per cent of their income for current educational expense. Only one state spent less.

Missouri's teacher's salaries were $649 less than the national average last year.

In relation to personal income and the amount of taxes paid, Missouri again ranks low, the citizens of only one state pay less in state and local taxes in relation to personal income than do Missourians.

On the basis of Missouri's financial ability to support education in relation to per capita income, Missouri ranked 12th among the states and ranked even higher on the basis of income per school age child, ranking 10th in this category.

On the basis of these figures from the U.S. Department of Commerce it is evident that Missouri could easily support a better than average school program, but is not doing so.

We doubt that the average college in the U.S. has made as much progress during the last decade in getting ready for the kind of students the secondary schools are sending them, as the secondary schools have in providing a quality educational program for their graduates.

Too many colleges seem to operate on the theory that education consists of series of courses to which a student must be exposed. Actually education for today must consist of a changing and growing blend of learning, understanding and skill which the individual acquires and with which he should combine the practice of advancing his own learning or continuing his education as long as he lives.

The student who cannot adapt to this system of using the basic tools of education to learn on his own, probably has no place in college, just as the college which compartments its program only into factual rote process ought to be re-evaluated for its purpose in the modern world.

Some improvements which we plan for next year in the educational program will include greater and special emphasis on reading skills for all students. Reading laboratories, improved materials and, a hoped for, improvement in methods of instruction will be used if additional funds are available under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, passed recently by Congress.

Additional classes will be offered to keep the program up-to-date. There will be an expansion of the team or co-operative teaching at the secondary level, especially in World and American History and in English. Some team teaching will be conducted at all levels. Some courses will be lengthened and given greater emphasis because of what we believe is their greater relative importance in the education of our children and youth.

There will be considerable changes in the Trade-Technical School offerings to keep up with business and industrial practices and trends. This type of education is of no purpose unless it results in jobs and to do this requires constant change and improvement.

If approved by the State Department of Education, we will be able to offer employment to a limited number of boys and girls under the Neighborhood Youth Corps Program financed under the Economic Opportunity Act by the federal government. To qualify, these students must have a definite financial need in order to attend school next fall and come from homes whose total income is within certain limits in relation to family size.

If the program goes through, they will work under the supervision of school employees on the campus or in the buildings, doing some of the many tasks which are necessary to improve and maintain the school plant and program.

When Are You Eligible For Disability Insurance?

Monthly old - age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits in Scott County now top $200,974, Paul J. Palmer, District Manager of social security said today on releasing his annual county benefit data report.

The new monthly figure represents an increase of 3 per cent in a year.

This increase can be attributed to the changes in the law in recent years, as well as to the growth of our aged population," Mr. Palmer said. "This money stimulates county business; most of it is spent for food, clothing, and shelter."

"There is no longer any doubt. Social Security benefits are helping to stabilize the income and spending power of many residents in this area."

Monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940, and they have continued without interruption for years, accompanied by a steady growth in the number of beneficiaries. Palmer noted that as of December 31, 1964, some 3,674 residents of Scott County were collecting about $2,411,688 annually from social security, an increase of 1.6 percent over the same date in 1963.

More people in Scott County, he said, could draw social security benefits if they knew more about the law, and for that reason they are urged to visit or call the local social security office whenever they have a question concerning their benefits or responsibilities.

As of January 1965, in the nation at large, more than 19 million beneficiaries were receiving payments at the rate of more than a billion dollars per month.

The average monthly old-age retirement benefit in January was $77.57 for all States, while in the State of Missouri the average was $74.52, Mr. Palmer said.

The following table shows the number and amount of each type of monthly benefit paid in Scott county, as of December 31, 1964 with the Beneficiary Group, Numbers of Beneficiaries and Total of Payments in that order:

Retired worker1,733, $112,721-00; Wife or husband, 540, $17,-452.00; Widow or Widower 309, $18,430.00; Mothers & Children 682, $29,950.00; Disabled workers & dependents 401, $21,919.00

The year 1965 marks several milestones in the history of social security. The January 1965 benefit payment marked the 300th month of payment since monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940. The number of monthly benefits currently being paid will reach the 20 million mark in 1965. In addition, August is the 30th anniversary of the signing of the Social Security Act by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Palmer said.

Figures provided by the Social Security Administration show that as of December 31, 1964 a number of area people were receiving benefits under the disability program of the Social Security Administration.

Figures for four counties in this area are listed below with the Number of Disabled Workers, The Number of Wives of Disabled Workers, the Number of Children of Disabled Workers, and the Amount Received Monthly in that order:

William J. Kappel (r.) of Fort Wayne, Ind., who recently became the 20-millionth social security beneficiary, chats with Elias C. Bridegam at his home in the nearby town of Woodburn. Bridegam, a 90-year-old retired machine operator, is one of the few persons who has received social security benefits from the first month they were issued in January 1940. Kappel, 65, retired at the end of March after 42 years of employment with the municipally owned Fort Wayne City Utilities system.

Over 52 million American workers have made regular contributions through social security taxes and have earned protection against loss of earnings because of long lasting disability.

The disability provisions of the law require that a worker have 20 quarters of coverage under social security in the 40 quarters which end with the date of disability. Stated more simply, we can say that this involves five years of fairly regular employment or self-employment in the 10 years up to the date of the disabling illness or injury.

To be considered disabled, a worker's condition must be severe enough to prevent him from doing any substantial work for the indefinite future. This does not mean that a disability claimant must be a hopeless invalid or at death's door. Seventy-eight percent of those receiving checks are ambulatory and able to attend to most household activities.

Workers who believe they meet these requirements should get in touch with the nearest social security office immediately. A person's date of disability can be established not more than 18 months prior to the date a claim is filed. Delay in filing may mean the loss of some or all disability benefits. One very significant feature of the disability program is that all claimants are automatically referred to the State Vocational rehabilitation office. Many are assisted by this agency and provided prosthetic appliances or braces to help overcome their physical impairments. Others are given special training in new types of work, and, with the new skills learned, are able to return to work and become self-supporting.

The Social Security Administration desires that all disabled claimants make every possible effort to rehabilitate themselves, whether on their own initiative or through vocational rehabilitation services. The law provides for a trial work period of nine months, not necessarily consecutive, while a claimant may work in spite of serious physical impairments. Benefit payments continue during these months and can extend an additional three months until it is established the worker has overcome his handicaps and can continue in gainful work.

Recently, a young mother of six children came into the social security office for help. Her husband hadn't died but had been committed to the State Hospital. The mother was desperate. In this day and age, how do you raise a family of six children when the breadwinner is ill? This question suddenly had to be answered by her. Where is the money going to come from? The mother could go to work - but with six children? Well, it has been done but who will care for the children during the mother's working hours?

A thousand questions must be running through the thoughts of this young mother as she performs the necessary task of finding a way for herself and her family in a world suddenly over-burdened with problems that we hope many of us will never have to face - as if her husband's sickness wasn't enough to worry about!

There was no substantial private insurance available to this young mother. She reported that about all they could save went into paying for a small life insurance policy on her husband. There was no sickness and accident insurance except for the payments she had already received from a policy carried on her husband by the company for which he worked. These payments lasted only 6 months and her husband had not been able to work for nearly a year.

What has always been of great concern to those who work for social security is why people who are eligible for payments wait so long to come to the office to claim benefits for which they have paid. This mother had been drifting from one place to another looking for help. Not knowing exactly where to turn and overlooking the social security office - the one place where substantial help was available to her because her husband had paid for the protection during his working lifetime. This mother possibly never would have come to the office except that when her husband was received at the State Hospital, they notified the Social Security Administration that he might be eligible for disability social security payments.

It was found that he was not only eligible but that his family members were also entitled to collect monthly payments. The payments amounted to over $200 a month and because he had been disabled nearly a year ago, there were 6 monthly payments already due.

This mother's story is not an unusual case. There are many like it even though the Social Security Administration continually urges anyone who is disabled to come to the social security office as soon as possible after they become disabled.

Disability monthly payments do not start until 6 full months after the person becomes disabled but by coming early the disabled worker and his family can make sure that the payments will reach them when they are due.

Heart Fund Enjoying Good Year

From information compiled by the 1965 Heart Fund Campaign it has been learned that the Missouri Heart Association is having another excellent year from all 106 counties that are serviced by the State Office. Of these counties, 44 have exceeded their previous totals and 17 are within $150 of their 1964 totals.

Of the Counties in Southeast Missouri only Stoddard County has extended over the previous total. In that County they have collected $2,600. Scott County collected $1,600; New Madrid County, $1,000; Mississippi County, $1,425.29; Dunklin County, $2,105; and Cape County, $8,000.

20 Years Ago America Learned Of Tragedy

WASHINGTON AP--Twenty years ago this month, the nation learned of one of its most grievous losses of World War II.

A terrible battered and burned aircraft carrier, the Franklin, arrived in New York harbor, under her own power, after a roundabout cruise from the Pacific, on May 17, 1945.

With the return to home port, the Navy disclosed that the Franklin, a huge Essex-class carrier, had been hit by Japanese bombs 60 miles off Japan the preceding March 19, and had been turned into an exploding ammunition dump.

In eight hours of hell, 724 men were lost. An additional 265 were wounded.

One of the Marine pilots aboard the "Big Ben" when the enemy bombs hit was Lt. Carroll K. Faught, who was listed on the official records as lost in action but actually survived and is now a government official.

But Faught was the only pilot in his ready room to live. He showed up at Mare Island, Calif., less one leg, some three months after the disaster.

Faught now is special assistant to the undersecretary of commerce and director of the office of emergency transportation.

Faught recalls that on the morning of March 19, 1945, the Franklin's aircraft and crews were preparing to launch a fighter sweep over Japan when an observation plane reported sighting the enemy battleship Yamoto steaming out of the Bay of Japan.

Orders were changed. Big Ben's pilots were to get the Yamato. This meant a delay in takeoff to permit briefing of crews on new navigation information, and changing of the aircraft armament.

It was this delay in launching that led to the disaster.

As it happened, most of the Franklin's planes were still on the flight deck, loaded with bombs, rockets, torpedoes and machine-gun ammunition, when a lone Japanese dive bomber-its approach unnoted -- streaked down through the early morning haze.

The Japanese plane dropped two armor-piercing 500-pound bombs. One hit near the forward elevator and the other on the aft part of the ship. Both sank deep into her before they exploded.

Faught recalls that the pilots of his squadron were in Ready Room 5, being briefed on the new mission, when the first bomb exploded on the deck directly below.

He said the floor of the room rose like a giant mushroom, and crushed every other pilot there against the ceiling.

Faught was fortunate enough to be standing close to a wall, looking at a map. But both legs and his right arm were broken in the first blast.

Faught described his experience later, in a letter to his mother in Laramie, Wyo., in these terms:

"So I crawled out on the catwalk. I sat there for a while and there were explosions that bounced me up and down.

"I didn't have a life jacket, but when the fire started getting out where we were, I turned to Jones and said, 'I'm going over,' and I jumped.

"It was 85 feet to the water and I thought I would never hit, but it wasn't as bad as I thought it would be. The water was pretty cold, but not bad.

"I swam around a while and then I found a seat cushion out of one of the planes and I hung onto it.

"There were guys all around me drowning and there wasn't a thing I could do but watch. After 2 1/2 hours, I was picked up by a destroyer named the Marshall.

"It's the best ship in the whole Navy. Boy, was I glad to see it.

"Well, the next day we transferred to a cruiser. They had a hospital and three swell doctors; one of them was an orthopedist which was really lucky.

"My left leg didn't seem to have any circulation. After four days they operated on it and found the artery was dead and shattered, so the next day they told me about it.

"The doctor said it would have to come off at the knee and I said, 'Okay, if it's dead, it's dead.'

Commanders of other ships braved the explosions and fire to move in close, pick up survivors and help fight the flames.

St. Francis Hospital To Be Relocated

At the annual Hospital Week Joint Medical Executive Committee and Lay Advisory Board dinner meeting last evening Sister M. Redempta, hospital administrator, announced that the Franciscan Sisters who operate St. Francis Hospital have acquired twenty-one acres of land on the Northeast corner of Gordonville and Mount Auburn Roads in the vicinity of Holiday Inn and the junction of Interstate 55 for the purpose of building a new St. Francis Hospital.

The acquisition of the aforementioned site climaxed about two and a half years of research for a suitable site for hospital construction, as well as, an intensive study on the feasibility of renovation and expansion on the present site versus relocation. "We are satisfied that the selected area is an ideal hospital site and that it is located so that it is readily accessible to Cape Girardeau citizens, as well as, to many people from the surrounding counties and cities the hospital serves," commented the Board.

Sister M. Redempta stated that the acquisition of the land is a first step but, at this time there are no definite plans as to the hospital construction, timing, etc.

When Are You Eligible For Disability Insurance?

Monthly old - age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits in Scott County now top $200,974, Paul J. Palmer, District Manager of social security said today on releasing his annual county benefit data report.

The new monthly figure represents an increase of 3 per cent in a year.

This increase can be attributed to the changes in the law in recent years, as well as to the growth of our aged population," Mr. Palmer said. "This money stimulates county business; most of it is spent for food, clothing, and shelter."

"There is no longer any doubt. Social Security benefits are helping to stabilize the income and spending power of many residents in this area."

Monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940, and they have continued without interruption for years, accompanied by a steady growth in the number of beneficiaries. Palmer noted that as of December 31, 1964, some 3,674 residents of Scott County were collecting about $2,411,688 annually from social security, an increase of 1.6 percent over the same date in 1963.

More people in Scott County, he said, could draw social security benefits if they knew more about the law, and for that reason they are urged to visit or call the local social security office whenever they have a question concerning their benefits or responsibilities.

As of January 1965, in the nation at large, more than 19 million beneficiaries were receiving payments at the rate of more than a billion dollars per month.

The average monthly old-age retirement benefit in January was $77.57 for all States, while in the State of Missouri the average was $74.52, Mr. Palmer said.

The following table shows the number and amount of each type of monthly benefit paid in Scott county, as of December 31, 1964 with the Beneficiary Group, Numbers of Beneficiaries and Total of Payments in that order:

Retired worker1,733, $112,721-00; Wife or husband, 540, $17,-452.00; Widow or Widower 309, $18,430.00; Mothers & Children 682, $29,950.00; Disabled workers & dependents 401, $21,919.00

The year 1965 marks several milestones in the history of social security. The January 1965 benefit payment marked the 300th month of payment since monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940. The number of monthly benefits currently being paid will reach the 20 million mark in 1965. In addition, August is the 30th anniversary of the signing of the Social Security Act by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Palmer said.

Figures provided by the Social Security Administration show that as of December 31, 1964 a number of area people were receiving benefits under the disability program of the Social Security Administration.

Figures for four counties in this area are listed below with the Number of Disabled Workers, The Number of Wives of Disabled Workers, the Number of Children of Disabled Workers, and the Amount Received Monthly in that order:

Scott, 197, $16,875.00; 53, $1,-476.00; 151, $3,568.00 - Total 401, $21,919.00

Stoddard, 182, $15,713.00; 60, $1,796.00; 167, $3,988.00 - Total 409, $21,497.00.

Mississippi,123, $9,833.00; 38, $804.00; 124, $2,245.00 - Total 285, $12,882.00.

New Madrid, 166, $12,883.00; 64, $1,462.00; 210, $3,554.00 - Total 440, $17,899.00

The totals for all social security beneficiaries (receiving aged and disability benefits with their entitled dependents as well as survivors of deceased workers) were shown as follows with the number of beneficiaries and the amount received monthly: Scott, 3,674, $200,974.00; New Madrid 3,169, $148,085.00; Mississippi 2,293, $112,392.00; Stoddard 3,589, $188,682.00

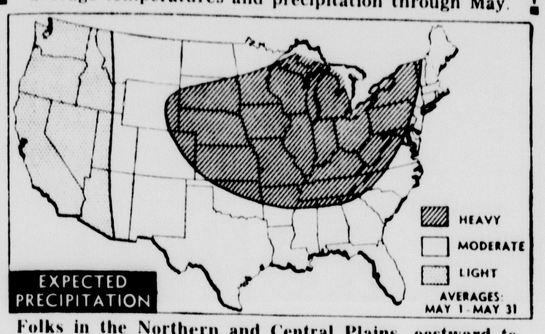
Map shows Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperatures and precipitation through May.



Folks in the Northern and Central Plains, eastward to the Appalachians, should keep raincoats and umbrellas handy from now until June.

Gov. Doesn't Think Bus Bill Will Pass

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes told representatives of the fair school bus bill committee today he did not think they had a chance of winning passage of a bill this session to give free bus transportation to private and parochial school students.

He said, in addition, he didn't think it would be proper for him to intervene in behalf of the bill this late in the session.

The House Education Committee killed the controversial bill Monday night on a 30-10 vote. A similar proposal has been pigeonholed in Senate committee for months.

The proposal regularly has met with defeat in legislative sessions for many years.

Delegates, including Francis Hulshof of Portageville, chairman, said they were considering an initiative petition to put the issue before the voters as soon as possible.

They also were considering the possibility of waiting until next session, when reapportionment will make both the House and Senate more heavily metropolitan. They told the governor they thought urban legislators would be more friendly to their proposal than rural legislators.

They also discussed the possibility of tacking their plan on a pending school transportation bill.

They said they were asking the governor for a redress of grievance. Later they said the governor was friendly and cooperative but told them they had little chance of getting any favorable legislative action this session.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am not trying to pass myself off as a perfect wife. I have my faults the same as anyone else. But I am not simple-minded and I do have my pride.

My husband is very fussy about what I pack for his lunch. I try to send him off every day with a bucket that is nourishing and tasty.

Several weeks ago I forgot to put mustard on his pastrami sandwiches and the way that man carried on you would have thought I had tried to poison him. Now he pulls the lunches apart and checks. Then I have to put everything back together and repack it.

He hasn't found anything to complain about since the mustard incident, but he keeps tearing up his lunches just to make me feel inferior. Of course I get mad and yell at him and he yells back and we start off everyday with a fight. How can this be stopped? — SUB-NORMAL

Dear S-N: Tell your husband you will write a list of everything you plan to put in his lunch bucket and that you will check it off as it goes in. Then he can look at the list and leave the lunch alone.

Some wives don't want to put a lunch together once, let alone twice. It is inconsiderate of him to double your work.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to "Rattled Robert" — the boy whose father insists that he make business calls on the telephone. The boy is supposed to find the number and get the party on the line. Then his father comes to the phone. The boy said he hated to do it and asked you if it was fair. You said "Yes. It is fair, and it is also good training."

I am 14, too, and I know how this kid must feel. Foolish is the only word I can think of. I agree it might be good training but I don't think the man should train his son at the expense of business people. Also, if the boy can't think of anything to say the father should tell him. — ANOTHER RATTLED TEENAGER

Dear Rattled One: Many adults, as well as teens, wrote to gripe about my advice. I even heard from a telephone company supervisor who said it was not "good manners to impose children on business associates."

Sorry, friends, but a 14-year-old is no child. A 14-year-old should be able to say, "Good evening, Mr. Swanson. This is Robert Klienpell. I'm calling for my father. Will you hold on for just a moment, please?"

The father should take over instantly and not expect the boy to make small talk with Mr. Swanson. I should have made this point clear in my advice.

Dear Ann Landers: I never thought I'd have to write to you but my husband has a habit that is driving me to distraction.

Jake works the late shift. He leaves for work at 11:20 p.m. Every night as he walks out the door he says, "Bye, Honey. Go to bed."

Where else does he think I could go at that hour? Every time he says that dumb farewell I feel like knocking his head off. How can I get him to break the habit? — SCREAMING MIMI

Dear Mimi: You'll never get him to break the habit, but you can reduce your own irritability by having a different reply for him every night — and the nuttier the better.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Summer Courses Are Waning

Students who are interested in taking summer courses at the Sikeston High School during vacation are advised to contact Mr. Harold Kiehne, principal of the Sikeston High School.

At present there are not enough students enrolled in any one class for the special session to be offered.

Rebel Leader Hopes For Near Settlement With Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic AP -- A spokesman for the Dominican rebels indicated Wednesday that a settlement with the rival military-civilian junta may be near. But he held out for dismissal of some leading military men backing the junta.

"There's every reason to hope we are near a settlement," said the rebel foreign minister, Jottin Cury. He spoke after a conference between Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the rebel leader, and two members of the peace commission of the Organization of American States, Ricardo C. Colombo of Argentina and Carlos Garcia Bauer of Guatemala.

Cury added that a peaceful solution depends on the dismissal of some key officers backing the junta. The rebels' chief target is Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, who led the resistance to the revolt.

Six of eight high-ranking officers removed by the junta in a peace move arrived in Puerto Rico aboard a Dominican navy frigate. But Caamano said previously their dismissal was not enough to satisfy him.

Latin-American diplomatic circles in Washington reported a broadly based interim government embracing both government and rebel leaders may be in sight. But Cury, speaking to newsmen, ruled out a coalition government.

He said, "Our objective is the restoration of the constitution," and the acceptance of a coalition "with elements from the other side would be a repudiation of constitutional objectives for which we have fought."

Cury said the junta has no legality or popular support "except that extended by the U.S. military."

Caamano told a news conference he would ask OAS permission to establish a corridor through the U. S. lines surrounding the rebel stronghold in downtown Santo Domingo.

U.S. Marines and paratroopers encircled the downtown area last week, and many armed rebels were cut off in northern sections of the city.

Caamano said he would go to the OAS with charges that U.S. paratroopers were sniping from vantage points across the Ozama River. He said one sharpshooter killed 22 Dominicans from a perch atop a grain silo overlooking downtown streets.

He also called on the OAS to make an urgent on the spot investigation to prove or disprove U. S. charges that Communists have control of major influence over his movement.

He added that he would accept the establishment of an inter-American police force in the Dominican Republic -- a key element in moving toward a solution.

In New York, the U. N. Security Council sought a compromise as the council neared a decision on a Soviet complaint of U. S. armed interference in the Dominican Republic. But it appeared that a majority could not be mustered for any definite action by the council.

One person was reported killed and three others injured Wednesday night during a demonstration in Buenos Aires, Argentina, protesting U. S. intervention in the Dominican Republic.

Library Club Holds First Meeting Of Year

The Sikeston Library Board had their first meeting of the fiscal year Monday May 10, 1965. Reverend Edward Watson, chairman, presided over the meeting with the following members present, Mrs. Donald Bohannon, Mr. Norval Cannon, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee, Mr. Richard Smith, Mr. Franklin Struwe, Mrs. John Hux, Reverend Harold Belsheim, and Mrs. Harry White.

The circulation report was submitted by Mrs. Lenora Norman. The report showed 5501 books checked out during the month of April. Of this number 1919 were adult and 3582 juvenile. The current periodicals checked out for the month were 247.

There was discussion about the new Guided Summer Activity Program beginning Tuesday, June 1st in the basement of the library under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Barnett. It will be for children who have completed the first grade this year through the children who have finished the sixth grade. There will be creative story writing, puppet making, music appreciation, read aloud stories and a story hour. The schedule will be printed later to inform those who are interested.

Charged With Stealing $400,000 From Father

By MARGARET WILSON

GREENVILLE, S. C. AP--Charged with stealing $400,000 from her father at her mother's bidding, the brilliant daughter of a wealthy Greenville manufacturer is fighting extradition to South Carolina.

Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell, 19, whose IQ is 183, surrendered to authorities in Miami, Fla., Wednesday but refused to waive extradition.

Mrs. Farrell, a graduate of the University of Miami at the age of 16, is charged with housebreaking and grand larceny in the tangled case.

Solicitor prosecutor B. C. Thomas, Jr., said the total amount taken from an executive restroom at the John D. Hollingsworth plant April 6, 1964, was around $400,000 but "may reach $550,000," None of it has been recovered.

Her mother, Eula Bennett Hollingsworth, is charged with housebreaking, grand larceny and conspiracy. She is free on $15,000 bond and is in a Greenville hospital listed only as a "medical patient."

Both women were implicated in the theft by Jeffrey Bruce Farrell, 21, in Greenville General Sessions Court Monday. He pleaded guilty to the theft and received a five - year prison term, suspended to four years probation.

Farrell testified Mrs. Hollingsworth, estranged from her husband since January of 1964, had promised him $100,000 to carry out the theft but paid him only $6,000. He said she supplied him with keys to the Hollingsworth plant and Mrs. Farrell, his sister-in-law, accompanied him.

Hollingsworth kept the money in small bills in seven bags in a restroom cabinet never was brought out.

Mrs. Theodosia Kuper, a friend of Mrs. Hollingsworth who was present when the money was divided, according to Farrell's testimony, was charged today with being an accessory. She was released on her own recognizance. She has been associated with a Protestant missionary office in El Monte, Mexico.

J. P. Strom, chief of the South Carolina State Law Enforcement Division, quoted Mrs. Kuper as saying she kept the six or seven bags of money a short while after the theft. He quoted her as saying she received $5,000 and a kiss on the cheek from Mrs. Hollingsworth.

Philip Madina, who was Farrell's lawyer and now is representing Mary Jane Farrell, challenged the charges of a theft at the closely guarded textile machinery plant.

Madina cited a partnership suit Mrs. Hollingsworth filed against her husband after their separation and noted the theft of the money was not reported until this past January, months after the alleged burglary.

Thomas said the partnership suit was terminated but admitted Hollingsworth did not report the theft of $400,000 until January. A camera, papers and other valuables were the only items reported stolen after the April burglary.

HEAVY

The spokesman said government troops first discovered the bodies of 20 Viet Cong in the dense undergrowth. Apparently they were victims of air strikes.

As the bodies were found, the Viet Cong opened up with mortars. A sharp firefight followed, but the Viet Cong broke off contact.

The two wounded Americans refused to be evacuated. One was hit in the leg and the other in the arm.

In the Da Nang Air Base area, U.S. Marines ambushed a Viet Cong unit probing U.S. defenses and apparently wounded some of the Reds before they got away.

The Marines said eight or 10 Red guerrillas walked into the ambush before dawn near Le My village, eight miles west of Da Nang. The Marines moved into the area two days ago in a determined effort to clear it of the Viet Cong.

The Marines opened fire with automatic weapons. When they searched the area after daylight they found a number of blood trails but no bodies.

Marines in the Le My area armed up with Vietnamese forces and political agents Wednesday in an attempt to root out Viet Cong members from among the villagers.

One young girl pointed out several men she said were Communists. One of these got up and ran. The Marines opened fire, killing the man. Six others were seized as suspected Viet Cong.

Mrs. Nora F. Greer Services Today

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Services for Mrs. Nora Frances Greer, 81, formerly of East Prairie and Sikeston, were held today at 2:30 in the Ford and Sons Funeral Home, with the Rev. L. E. Garner officiating. Burial was in the Sikeston City Cemetery.

She was born in Sikeston March 1, 1884, and was married to Albert Greer of Sikeston in 1902. He preceded her in death on April 5, 1958. The family moved to Cape Girardeau 14 years ago from East Prairie.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Blackwell and Mrs. Glenda Rogers, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Velma Mitchell, Garden Grove, Calif.; two sons, Albert D. Greer and Glenn Greer, Granite City, Ill.; eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Rebel Leader Hopes For Near Settlement With Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic AP -- A spokesman for the Dominican rebels indicated Wednesday that a settlement with the rival military-civilian junta may be near. But he held out for dismissal of some leading military men backing the junta.

"There's every reason to hope we are near a settlement," said the rebel foreign minister, Jottin Cury. He spoke after a conference between Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the rebel leader, and two members of the peace commission of the Organization of American States, Ricardo C. Colombo of Argentina and Carlos Garcia Bauer of Guatemala.

Cury added that a peaceful solution depends on the dismissal of some key officers backing the junta. The rebels' chief target is Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, who led the resistance to the revolt.

Six of eight high-ranking officers removed by the junta in a peace move arrived in Puerto Rico aboard a Dominican navy frigate. But Caamano said previously their dismissal was not enough to satisfy him.

Latin-American diplomatic circles in Washington reported a broadly based interim government embracing both government and rebel leaders may be in sight. But Cury, speaking to newsmen, ruled out a coalition government.

He said, "Our objective is the restoration of the constitution," and the acceptance of a coalition "with elements from the other side would be a repudiation of constitutional objectives for which we have fought."

Cury said the junta has no legality or popular support "except that extended by the U.S. military."

Caamano told a news conference he would ask OAS permission to establish a corridor through the U. S. lines surrounding the rebel stronghold in downtown Santo Domingo.

U.S. Marines and paratroopers encircled the downtown area last week, and many armed rebels were cut off in northern sections of the city.

Caamano said he would go to the OAS with charges that U.S. paratroopers were sniping from vantage points across the Ozama River. He said one sharpshooter killed 22 Dominicans from a perch atop a grain silo overlooking downtown streets.

He also called on the OAS to make an urgent on the spot investigation to prove or disprove U. S. charges that Communists have control of major influence over his movement.

He added that he would accept the establishment of an inter-American police force in the Dominican Republic -- a key element in moving toward a solution.

In New York, the U. N. Security Council sought a compromise as the council neared a decision on a Soviet complaint of U. S. armed interference in the Dominican Republic. But it appeared that a majority could not be mustered for any definite action by the council.

One person was reported killed and three others injured Wednesday night during a demonstration in Buenos Aires, Argentina, protesting U. S. intervention in the Dominican Republic.

Library Club Holds First Meeting Of Year

The Sikeston Library Board had their first meeting of the fiscal year Monday May 10, 1965. Reverend Edward Watson, chairman, presided over the meeting with the following members present, Mrs. Donald Bohannon, Mr. Norval Cannon, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee, Mr. Richard Smith, Mr. Franklin Struwe, Mrs. John Hux, Reverend Harold Belsheim, and Mrs. Harry White.

The circulation report was submitted by Mrs. Lenora Norman. The report showed 5501 books checked out during the month of April. Of this number 1919 were adult and 3582 juvenile. The current periodicals checked out for the month were 247.

There was discussion about the new Guided Summer Activity Program beginning Tuesday, June 1st in the basement of the library under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Barnett. It will be for children who have completed the first grade this year through the children who have finished the sixth grade. There will be creative story writing, puppet making, music appreciation, read aloud stories and a story hour. The schedule will be printed later to inform those who are interested.

Charged With Stealing $400,000 From Father

By MARGARET WILSON

GREENVILLE, S. C. AP--Charged with stealing $400,000 from her father at her mother's bidding, the brilliant daughter of a wealthy Greenville manufacturer is fighting extradition to South Carolina.

Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell, 19, whose IQ is 183, surrendered to authorities in Miami, Fla., Wednesday but refused to waive extradition.

Mrs. Farrell, a graduate of the University of Miami at the age of 16, is charged with housebreaking and grand larceny in the tangled case.

Solicitor prosecutor B. C. Thomas, Jr., said the total amount taken from an executive restroom at the John D. Hollingsworth plant April 6, 1964, was around $400,000 but "may reach $550,000," None of it has been recovered.

Her mother, Eula Bennett Hollingsworth, is charged with housebreaking, grand larceny and conspiracy. She is free on $15,000 bond and is in a Greenville hospital listed only as a "medical patient."

Both women were implicated in the theft by Jeffrey Bruce Farrell, 21, in Greenville General Sessions Court Monday. He pleaded guilty to the theft and received a five - year prison term, suspended to four years probation.

Farrell testified Mrs. Hollingsworth, estranged from her husband since January of 1964, had promised him $100,000 to carry out the theft but paid him only $6,000. He said she supplied him with keys to the Hollingsworth plant and Mrs. Farrell, his sister-in-law, accompanied him.

Hollingsworth kept the money in small bills in seven bags in a restroom cabinet never was brought out.

Mrs. Theodosia Kuper, a friend of Mrs. Hollingsworth who was present when the money was divided, according to Farrell's testimony, was charged today with being an accessory. She was released on her own recognizance. She has been associated with a Protestant missionary office in El Monte, Mexico.

J. P. Strom, chief of the South Carolina State Law Enforcement Division, quoted Mrs. Kuper as saying she kept the six or seven bags of money a short while after the theft. He quoted her as saying she received $5,000 and a kiss on the cheek from Mrs. Hollingsworth.

Philip Madina, who was Farrell's lawyer and now is representing Mary Jane Farrell, challenged the charges of a theft at the closely guarded textile machinery plant.

Madina cited a partnership suit Mrs. Hollingsworth filed against her husband after their separation and noted the theft of the money was not reported until this past January, months after the alleged burglary.

Thomas said the partnership suit was terminated but admitted Hollingsworth did not report the theft of $400,000 until January. A camera, papers and other valuables were the only items reported stolen after the April burglary.

HEAVY

The spokesman said government troops first discovered the bodies of 20 Viet Cong in the dense undergrowth. Apparently they were victims of air strikes.

As the bodies were found, the Viet Cong opened up with mortars. A sharp firefight followed, but the Viet Cong broke off contact.

The two wounded Americans refused to be evacuated. One was hit in the leg and the other in the arm.

In the Da Nang Air Base area, U.S. Marines ambushed a Viet Cong unit probing U.S. defenses and apparently wounded some of the Reds before they got away.

The Marines said eight or 10 Red guerrillas walked into the ambush before dawn near Le My village, eight miles west of Da Nang. The Marines moved into the area two days ago in a determined effort to clear it of the Viet Cong.

The Marines opened fire with automatic weapons. When they searched the area after daylight they found a number of blood trails but no bodies.

Marines in the Le My area amed up with Vietnamese forces and political agents Wednesday in an attempt to root out Viet Cong members from among the villagers.

One young girl pointed out several men she said were Communists. One of these got up and ran. The Marines opened fire, killing the man. Six others were seized as suspected Viet Cong.

Mrs. Nora F. Greer Services Today

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Services for Mrs. Nora Frances Greer, 81, formerly of East Prairie and Sikeston, were held today at 2:30 in the Ford and Sons Funeral Home, with the Rev. L. E. Garner officiating. Burial was in the Sikeston City Cemetery.

She was born in Sikeston March 1, 1884, and was married to Albert Greer of Sikeston in 1902. He preceded her in death on April 5, 1958. The family moved to Cape Girardeau 14 years ago from East Prairie.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Blackwell and Mrs. Glenda Rogers, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Velma Mitchell, Garden Grove, Calif.; two sons, Albert D. Greer and Glenn Greer, Granite City, Ill.; eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Selma Street from Matthews Street to Kathleen Street in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 3rd day of May, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 188 Inc. 194

Senate Goes On Bill Passing Spree

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- In a big burst of bill passing the Senate sent to the House yesterday a bill to increase the strength of the Highway Patrol from 505 men to 650.

The vote was unanimous, 27-0, and there was a debate.

Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner told a Senate committee the patrol could recruit and train only 75 men a year.

Another bill passed and sent to the House would increase the pay of state public service commissioners from $13,500 to $16,000.

A bill to allow liquor to be sold at plush lake resorts with 80 units or more barely squeaked through, 18-13, the minimum. It now goes to the House. Opposition in the Senate came mostly from outside rural areas.

Other bills moved to the House included ones to:

Let cities and counties use punch card ballots which could be run through a computer for instant tabulation.

Allow counties to levy a 20 cent tax, if the voters approve, to finance property re-evaluation.

Clear the way for a $40 million sports complex in Jackson County.

Passed and sent to the governor was a bill to set up a central records management and archives service under the secretary of state.

Substantially the same proposal as recommended by the "Little Hoover" commission, it would place state records management under a director, instead of requiring each state agency to maintain its own, as is the current practice.

American Economy Expanding

NEW YORK - Right about now the American economy is chalking up a record for peacetime expansion. And there are quite a few people busy taking bows; government economists and planners, money managers, businessmen, consumers.

It's in the middle of the month that the government takes many important business soundings - industrial production, employment and unemployment, length of the working week, average factory takehome pay, personal incomes, and the like.

And all signs point to May making the grade as the 51st month of growth without major interruption. This tops the old peacetime mark of 50 months set in the 1930s when the economy was recovering from the depth of the Great Depression.

In this middle of May, available signs from weekly reports of key industries and retail trade indicate that the economy as a whole is still on the upgrade. How fast the pace will be determined when the statistics are published a month hence.

The question right now is: What has made this record expansion possible and kept it from lagging?

Business takes a bow on the grounds that by and large it has avoided the excesses that have spelled trouble in past cyclical upswings.

It has expanded its plants and invested in new equipment, but with caution that so far has built up little, if any, excess productive capacity.

Corporations are building up inventories, but this time the increase in stocks is pretty well in line with the gain in sales volume and consumer demand. And most corporations have been able to finance their growth without excess borrowing or securities flotations.

Consumers can take a bow, too. They haven't panicked at disturbing international news. They have spent a little more each year, but pretty well in line with their increased incomes. They have taken on a record total of consumer debt, but this, too, seems to be in line with their propsects for repayment.

Government officials like to point to a new climate, an improved relationship between government and business. Washington has warned against unjustified price increases and also against over-generous wage increases. Washington has given many businessmen the conviction that it doesn't regard the making of profits as a sin. Government seems to agree with businessmen that profits are a good thing for the economy when they mean expansion and the absorption of higher production costs without inflationary price increases.

And the fiscal planners are taking a deep bow right now. They point to federal tax cuts despite Treasury deficits as spurring consumer spending and business expansion to the good of everyone.

The money managers also claim a victory in keeping short-term interest rates high enough to discourage the flight of dollars to foreign shores, while maintaining low enough long-term rates to keep the economy moving forward.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of hotmix asphaltic pavement on soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Selma Street from Matthews Street to Kathleen Street in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 3rd day of May, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 188 Inc. 194

Senate Goes On Bill Passing Spree

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- In a big burst of bill passing the Senate sent to the House yesterday a bill to increase the strength of the Highway Patrol from 505 men to 650.
The vote was unanimous, 27-0, and there was a debate.
Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner told a Senate committee the patrol could recruit and train only 75 men a year.
Another bill passed and sent to the House would increase the pay of state public service commissioners from $13,500 to $16,000.
A bill to allow liquor to be sold at plush lake resorts with 80 units or more barely squeaked through, 18-13, the minimum. It now goes to the House. Opposition in the Senate came mostly from outside rural areas.
Other bills moved to the House included ones to:
Let cities and counties use punch card ballots which could be run through a computer for instant tabulation.
Allow counties to levy a 20 cent tax, if the voters approve, to finance property re-evaluation.
Clear the way for a $40 million sports complex in Jackson County.
Passed and sent to the governor was a bill to set up a central records management and archives service under the secretary of state.
Substantially the same proposal as recommended by the "Little Hoover" commission, it would place state records management under a director, instead of requiring each state agency to maintain its own, as is the current practice.

American Economy Expanding

NEW YORK - Right about now the American economy is chalking up a record for peacetime expansion. And there are quite a few people busy taking bows; government economists and planners, money managers, businessmen, consumers.
It's in the middle of the month that the government takes many important business soundings - industrial production, employment and unemployment, length of the working week, average factory takehome pay, personal incomes, and the like.
And all signs point to May making the grade as the 51st month of growth without major interruption. This tops the old peacetime mark of 50 months set in the 1930s when the economy was recovering from the depth of the Great Depression.
In this middle of May, available signs from weekly reports of key industries and retail trade indicate that the economy as a whole is still on the upgrade. How fast the pace will be determined when the statistics are published a month hence.
The question right now is: What has made this record expansion possible and kept it from lagging?
Business takes a bow on the grounds that by and large it has avoided the excesses that have spelled trouble in past cyclical upswings.
It has expanded its plants and invested in new equipment, but with caution that so far has built up little, if any, excess productive capacity.
Corporations are building up inventories, but this time the increase in stocks is pretty well in line with the gain in sales volume and consumer demand. And most corporations have been able to finance their growth without excess borrowing or securities flotations.
Consumers can take a bow, too. They haven't panicked at disturbing international news. They have spent a little more each year, but pretty well in line with their increased incomes. They have taken on a record total of consumer debt, but this, too, seems to be in line with their propsects for repayment.
Government officials like to point to a new climate, an improved relationship between government and business. Washington has warned against unjustified price increases and also against over-generous wage increases. Washington has given many businessmen the conviction that it doesn't regard the making of profits as a sin. Government seems to agree with businessmen that profits are a good thing for the economy when they mean expansion and the absorption of higher production costs without inflationary price increases.
And the fiscal planners are taking a deep bow right now. They point to federal tax cuts despite Treasury deficits as spurring consumer spending and business expansion to the good of everyone.
The money managers also claim a victory in keeping short-term interest rates high enough to discourage the flight of dollars to foreign shores, while maintaining low enough long-term rates to keep the economy moving forward.

Protective Tariff

The second Act of Congress was enactment of the first protective tariff. The Act was signed by President Washington on July 4, 1789.

POET PICTURED—Italian poet Dante Alighieri is pictured on this commemorative postage stamp, to be issued July 17 in San Francisco. The stamp honors the 700th anniversary of the birth of the famed poet.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
May 13, 1915

Blackberry winter landed on us Tuesday morning with both feet. The hail storm north and east of town lowered the thermometer to the point where a fire felt very comfortable.

40 years ago
May 13, 1925

Residents of the new additions to Sikeston on the east will have another trade and service center after Thursday, when the grocery and lunch stand of P. H. Gross and sons opens on East Greer street. The building is divided into two store rooms. Mr. Gross' business is in the east half and he has equipped the west room with drains for a butcher shop.

Thirty - six seniors, half of them boys, will be graduated from Sikeston High School next Thursday night, according to Supt. Roy V. Ellise. They are: Ruth Bateman, Alfreda Baty, Fanny Becker, Thelma Colley, Vivian Dye, Kathryn Hanner, Louise Hensley, June Houchens, Georgia Houchens, Vivian Jackson, Lois Kilgore, Lucille Mount, Mary Peek, Ruby Richards, Geneva Westcoat, Beulah Williams, Louise Wilson.

Homer Decker, Paul Gentle, Will Hayden, John Houchens, Earl Johnson, J. R. Jones, John Meldrum, Louis Moles, Clyde Nicholas, Eugene Potashnick, Donald Story, Rudolph York, Bernard Crain, Mort Griffith, Gilbert Hopper, James Howell, John Wedel, and Donald Milem.

A. C. Johnson's blacksmith shop has on May 1, 1925, been taken under the new management of W. F. Cullins. All kinds of blacksmith work.

The funeral of John H. Davis, who died Sunday night at the home of his son here, will be held at 415 North Street Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. T. B. Mather conducting the services.

Arrangements whereby a Sikeston Golf Club could rent the property of the Southeast Missouri Fair Association for a golf course here, were made Friday night at a meeting here. Committees have arranged terms of rental of 40 acres, the keeper's house and the dance pavillion for a reasonable price. They also have written to two sporting good firms in St. Louis for quotations of prices on laying out a course. The ground leased by the Fair Association is level, but is said to have more slopes than that of the Cairo 5-hole course, which is on 20 acres.

30 years ago
May 13, 1935

Mrs. G. H. Lewis received a message last Friday night stating that her father, J. A. Gillum of Indian Mound, Tenn., had passed away on Friday afternoon.

Earl Asher, who was severely burned Wednesday when he tried to start a fire in his stove with kerosene, was taken in the Welsh ambulance to the Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau Friday night.

A. Graber, father of Louis Graber of Sikeston, died in St. Louis shortly after noon Monday.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. (Matthew 13:20, ASV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the privilege of prayer. Teach us to pray when each of us is alone and when we are together as a family. Increase our faith in Thee, and grant us power to build and sustain a Christian home. Keep us in the spirit of prayer. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Beer In Denmark Is Becoming Scarce

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — You can still get a beer in Denmark — but it isn't easy.

The Scandinavian nation today entered the 11th day of a strike by its 6,000 brewer workers with no end in sight. Which makes the foamy brew the chief topic of conversation in a nation of 4.5 million people who normally drink 3.5 million bottles a day.

You can get a beer in just a few places. One inn outside Copenhagen will serve you two but no more. In another, you can drink as much as you want — if you can find a seat at the bar.

The owners of these places were clever enough to hoard thousands of bottles in the week before the strike started May 2. One of them has enough beer for three weeks.

Other bars sell foreign beer at relatively high prices because they import it privately.

A private plane travels back and forth daily between southern Denmark and Luebeck, in north Germany, bringing beer to thirsty Danes who gladly pay 150 per cent more than the usual price.

The striking brewery workers have not tried to stop the imports.

If a Dane can't get beer, he'll even drink milk. The dairies gleefully report an increase of 10 per cent in sales, and there's even an occasional shortage.

The breweries are losing money and so are the strikers. The government so far has lost $3 million in taxes.

The strikers want a pay increase of 2 cents an hour. The brewers have refused to pay it and haven't said publicly what they are willing to pay.

Brewery workers now average $1.10 an hour.

A. C. Johnson's blacksmith shop has on May 1, 1925, been taken under the new management of W. F. Cullins. All kinds of blacksmith work.

The funeral of John H. Davis, who died Sunday night at the home of his son here, will be held at 415 North Street Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. T. B. Mather conducting the services.

Arrangements whereby a Sikeston Golf Club could rent the property of the Southeast Missouri Fair Association for a golf course here, were made Friday night at a meeting here. Committees have arranged terms of rental of 40 acres, the keeper's house and the dance pavilion for a reasonable price. They also have written to two sporting good firms in St. Louis for quotations of prices on laying out a course. The ground leased by the Fair Association is level, but is said to have more slopes than that of the Cairo 5-hole course, which is on 20 acres.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. (Matthew 13:20, ASV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the privilege of prayer. Teach us to pray when each of us is alone and when we are together as a family. Increase our faith in Thee, and grant us power to build and sustain a Christian home. Keep us in the spirit of prayer. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Thursday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1965. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, the first permanent English settlement in America—Jamestown, Va.—was founded by Capt. Christopher Newport.

On this date

In 1788, the Tammany Society of New York, the grandfather of U.S. political organizations, held its first meeting.

In 1846, Congress declared that war with Mexico already existed and voted $10 million to carry it on.

In 1915, the United States protested the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine.

In 1940, Prime Minister Winston Churchill made his famous "blood, toil, tears and sweat" speech in Parliament.

Ten years ago—The Soviet Union and Red satellite nations' leaders were meeting in Warsaw to prepare a mutual defense treaty.

Five years ago—The prime ministers of the British Commonwealth nations ended a conference in London after postponing a showdown on South Africa's racial policies.

One year ago—Cuban exiles were reported attacking the eastern Cuban port of Pilon and destroying a sugar mill.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Thursday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1965. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, the first permanent English settlement in America—Jamestown, Va.—was founded by Capt. Christopher Newport.

On this date

In 1788, the Tammany Society of New York, the grandfather of U.S. political organizations, held its first meeting.

In 1846, Congress declared that war with Mexico already existed and voted $10 million to carry it on.

In 1915, the United States protested the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine.

In 1940, Prime Minister Winston Churchill made his famous "blood, toil, tears and sweat" speech in Parliament.

Ten years ago—The Soviet Union and Red satellite nations' leaders were meeting in Warsaw to prepare a mutual defense treaty.

Five years ago—The prime ministers of the British Commonwealth nations ended a conference in London after postponing a showdown on South Africa's racial policies.

One year ago—Cuban exiles were reported attacking the eastern Cuban port of Pilon and destroying a sugar mill.
